Thousands Protest TV Remarks

Johnny Trips Over His Hat

Johann Carson tripped over his Holga hat Wednesday night, and apparently choked to death.

The TV host, who had been scheduled to appear on "The Tonight Show," collapsed during his monologue about his recent trip to Iceland. Although Carson had been scheduled to appear on "The Tonight Show," his monologue was cut short by the unexpected incident.

A spokesman for NBC, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Carson had been scheduled to appear on "The Tonight Show," but his monologue was cut short by the unexpected incident.

When Carson collapsed, his Holga hat was seen to be dangling from his neck. The hat, which had been recently acquired on his trip to Iceland, had been the center of attention for Carson's audience.

The incident was the latest in a series of mishaps that have plagued Carson's career. In 2015, Carson had been hospitalized after falling into a hole on stage during a live broadcast of "The Tonight Show." In 2017, Carson had been the subject of a controversy over a joke he made about Holocaust-deniers.

Carson's death has left his audience and colleagues in mourning. "We are all shocked and saddened by the sudden loss of a great talent," said Jay Leno, Carson's long-time rival on "The Tonight Show.

The cause of death is currently under investigation. An autopsy has been scheduled for Thursday.

GOP Governor Race Hinted

By BARRY CHILTON

In a recent interview, Governor Roy Kelly hinted that he may be considering a run for the Republican nomination for governor.

The governor, who has been in office for two terms, has previously stated that he is not interested in running for office again.

However, Kelly's recent comments have fueled speculation about his possible run for the governorship.

Jerusalem (AP) — The Supreme Court rejected Thursday an appeal by a Bethlehem woman who objected to the wearing of yarmulkes, or skullcaps, by Jews in the disputed West Bank.

The woman, who is a resident of the West Bank town of Bethlehem, had appealed to the Supreme Court after her request for permission to wear a yarmulke was denied by the regional council of the West Bank.

The court ruled that the council's decision was appropriate and that the woman had no constitutional right to wear a yarmulke in public.

Kelly's recent comments have fueled speculation about his possible run for the governorship.

One of the judges on the Supreme Court, Justice Neal Lautenberg, said the court's decision was a matter of "constitutional law" and that it was "necessary for the state to maintain order and respect the rights of all its citizens.

The court's decision was seen as a setback for the woman, who had been granted a temporary injunction to wear the yarmulke, and a victory for the regional council, which had argued that the council's decision was in the best interests of the community.

Demos Try To Get It Together

Tired of sitting on the sidelines, the George McGovern faction has decided to challenge the Democratic convention in Los Angeles. This divided Democratic party is in need of a united front.

The opportunity to make a change is there, but it will not come without a fight. The McGovernites have a platform and a message, but they need to be heard.

Toward Greater Road Safety

All year long, the subject of road safety has been on the minds of drivers and lawmakers alike. With the summer driving season just around the corner, it is more important than ever to address the issue.

The focus should be on improving driver education and enforcement. By increasing awareness and enforcing the law, we can make our roads safer for all.

State Editors Say

Still Studying Relocation Problems

The decision to build a new state capitol is a complex one, and it will take time to fully understand the implications. The editors agree that the state needs to take a thorough look before making any final decisions.

Bank Deposits Gain 15 Percent

Bank deposits increased by 15 percent in the first quarter of the year, according to the latest figures from the Oklahoma Department of Commerce. The increase is attributed to higher interest rates and improved economic conditions. The rise in deposits has led to increased liquidity for banks, allowing them to lend more money to consumers and businesses.

Geologist Says Oil Not Gone

A geologist from Oklahoma City has stated that oil reserves are not depleted in the state. The geologist, speaking at a conference, emphasized the importance of continued exploration and development to ensure the state remains a leading producer of oil. The statement comes amid concerns about the state's energy future.
