Psychiatrists Rap 'Absurd' Sex Laws

In the United States, psychiatrists and sexologists are voicing their opposition to proposed laws that would regulate sexual activities and behaviors. These laws are seen by many as an attempt to control sexuality and infringe on personal freedoms. The American Psychiatric Association has issued a statement condemning these laws as "absurd" and "unjustifiable." They argue that such laws not only violate individual rights but also undermine public health and social well-being.
