Jaycees Want More Members Behind Bars

By LEE LOPEZ

The Jaycees have taken up penal reform, calling for more members to be imprisoned. The organization has identified 250 felons as potential new members. The Jaycees believe that locked up felons are the best way to keep crime down. "We feel that the best way to reduce the number of criminals on the streets is to incarcerate them," said Jaycees leader. "Only then can we hope to stem the tide of crime." According to Jaycees, by the time these felons are released, crime rates will have decreased significantly.
