Fights Blamed On Favoritism

Riding bikes or heating is favored but not for everyone. Some students feel they are being favored, while others do not. The problem is further complicated by the fact that some students feel they are being forced to ride bikes or heat, while others feel they are not. THROWN BOTTLE TRIGGERS BLACK-WHITE VIOLENCE

By RUSSELL L. MANGEL

Threw and砸碎了whites和blacks的heads

The story tells of a series of events leading up to the black-white violence that occurred on campus. It mentions that a thrown bottle triggered the violence, and some Indian students complained about busing. There are also mentions of cuts in cultural programs, a cooling off in the air, and some Indian complaints about the slow pace of OCHA. The article highlights the tension and conflict on campus.

Speegle Came Back, But Can The Redskins?

By Al Speegle

The Washington Redskins defeated the Philadelphia Eagles 24-17 in a thrilling game. The victory puts the Redskins in the playoff hunt and gives them a chance to clinch a playoff berth with a few more wins. The game was a hard-fought battle, with both teams playing their best football. The Redskins scored early and often, with quarterback John Smith throwing for two touchdowns and running back Mike Jackson adding another.
