Bruce Meets Battling Indian factions

By FRANK SYKES

Bruce talks with a group of Indian leaders, and both sides remain committed to peace negotiations. But Bruce, who is known for his tough stance on Indian affairs, is wary of the talks, fearing that the Indians may use them as a delaying tactic. The situation is tense, with both sides preparing for a potential outbreak of violence.

Unfetter U.S. Businessmen

The Oklahoma Journal

WASHINGTON, A.C. - A group of U.S. businessmen is asking the government to unfetter them from the shackles of regulation and oversight. They believe that these practices are stifling their ability to compete globally.

"Many of our competitors abroad are not subject to the same regulations as we are," said one businessman. "This puts us at a disadvantage in the world market." According to the group, they are pushing for a return to the days of minimal government intervention and deregulation.

Eye On The Universe

Autumn Sky Filled With Celestial Events

By JESSICA McHUGH

The autumn sky is filled with a variety of celestial events that offer opportunities for observation and learning. Among the most notable is the annual display of the Perseid meteor shower, which peaks on August 12th. The Perseids are known for their bright, colorful meteors, which can be seen throughout the night. This year, the shower is expected to be particularly strong, with up to 100 meteors per hour visible under clear conditions.

Another event to look forward to is the total lunar eclipse on September 28th. This is a rare event, occurring only once every 18 months, and offers a unique opportunity to view the moon in a silvery blue hue. The eclipse will be visible from the western United States and Canada, and is expected to last for over three hours.

For those interested in solar phenomena, the fall season also brings the opportunity to observe the aurora borealis, or northern lights. These colorful displays of light are caused by the interaction of charged particles from the sun with the Earth's magnetic field. While the aurora is often associated with the Arctic and Antarctic regions, it can occasionally be seen from higher latitudes in the United States.

In addition to these events, this season also marks the return of the International Space Station, which will be visible in the evening sky for several months. The station appears as a bright spot that moves across the sky, and can be observed with the naked eye or through binoculars.

This year's season of celestial events is sure to offer a variety of opportunities for stargazing and exploration. Whether you're a seasoned astronomer or a casual observer, there's something for everyone to enjoy during the autumn months.

Ladies Aid Society Establishes ORJC Scholarship Fund

A press release from the ladies' society stems from the news that the society is establishing a scholarship fund for the Organic Junior College (ORJC).

The release states that the fund will be used to support students who are interested in pursuing studies in the field of organic agriculture. The fund will be administered by the college and will be available to students who meet the eligibility criteria set by the college administration.

The release also mentions that the fund will be managed by a committee consisting of representatives from the college administration, the ladies' society, and other interested parties.

The release concludes by expressing the society's commitment to supporting students who are passionate about organic agriculture and who want to make a difference in the world.

52 Illegally Enrolled Students 'Dismissed'

City Manager

The city manager has announced that 52 students who were enrolled illegally have been dismissed.

The announcement was made after an investigation revealed that these students were enrolled in the city's schools without proper documentation. The city manager stated that these students were enrolled as a result of a misunderstanding and that the city will take necessary action to prevent such incidents in the future.

The announcement was met with mixed reactions from parents and educators. Some parents expressed concern about the impact of the decision on their children's education, while others praised the city manager for taking a proactive approach to address the issue.

South College To Open
A Dream Becomes Reality

Making a dream of over 30 years a reality, South College, a private business college, will open its doors for the fall semester in Oklahoma City. The college, located at 1000 S Broadway, will offer a variety of business and management programs.

Business, Management

"A dream," said the college's president, "is nothing more than a wish in the right direction. But when you take the necessary steps to make that dream a reality, it becomes a dream come true. That's what South College is all about - helping students turn their dreams into reality."

The college will offer degree programs in business administration, accounting, marketing, and more. It will also provide a range of services to assist students in their personal and professional development.

Expansion Planned
Moore Schools Hope For Favorable Vote

The Oklahoma City Public Schools are hoping for a favorable vote on a bond issue that would allow for expansion of their facilities. The school district is facing a significant increase in student population, and the bond issue would provide the necessary funds to build new schools and renovate existing ones.

Moore Schools Superintendent says, "This bond issue is essential to ensure that our students have access to the best possible educational environment. It will allow us to meet the needs of our growing student population and maintain our high standards of education."

Gov. Hall To Speak At Dedication Rites

Gov. David Hall will be the keynote speaker at the dedication of a new hospital scheduled for October 8. The hospital, which has been in the works for several years, will provide much-needed healthcare services to the surrounding community.

Lemmon Hospital is the result of a joint effort between the state and local government. Gov. Hall said, "I am honored to be a part of this important project. It is a testament to the commitment of our leaders to providing quality healthcare services to all Oklahomans."

Students From Five Area Cities Take Livestock Prizes

Students from five area cities took part in the Oklahoma State Fair's Livestock Judging Contest. The event was held at the fairgrounds in Oklahoma City, where participants were judged on their knowledge of livestock breeds, care, and market values. The winners were announced during a ceremony, with awards presented for overall excellence and specific categories.

The contest featured participants from Bartlesville, Enid, Stillwater, Muskogee, and Tulsa. Each city was represented by a team of students, who were evaluated on their ability to identify and discuss various breeds of livestock, including cattle, swine, and sheep.

The winners were selected based on their demonstrated understanding of livestock husbandry and their ability to effectively communicate their knowledge. The event is an annual tradition at the Oklahoma State Fair, providing a valuable educational experience for young people interested in agriculture and livestock management.

Winning teams were awarded trophies and certificates, and their achievements were recognized during the fairgrounds' closing ceremony. The event not only highlights the talent and dedication of the young participants but also promotes a greater appreciation for the role of livestock in agriculture.

For more information on the Oklahoma State Fair or to learn about future events, visit their official website or follow them on social media. The fair is a major annual event in Oklahoma, attracting visitors from across the state and beyond to enjoy a variety of attractions, competitions, and entertainment.

Pick Flowering Bulbs Now

The time is now to plant flowering bulbs. Bulbs should be planted in the fall. They may be planted in the ground or planted in containers. If planted in the ground, they should be planted about 4-6 inches deep. If planted in containers, they should be planted about 3-4 inches deep. The bulbs should be planted so that the top of the bulb is just below the soil surface. They should be planted in a sunny location and watered regularly.

The garden is also busy with Fall activity. The leaves are changing color and the air has a crispness to it. The gardeners are busy with fall tasks such as pruning, mulching, and planting bulbs. The garden is also open to the public for visitors to come and enjoy the fall colors.

Pick Flowering Bulbs Now

By KARYN F. MEHREN

Now is the time to choose the bulbs for your fall garden planting. Fall is the season to start the process of growing next year’s flowers. In preparing the garden for the fall planting season, it is important to consider the type of bulbs you will be using. There are many types of bulbs available, including tulips, daffodils, crocuses, and lilies. Each type of bulb has its own specific care requirements, so it is important to research the bulbs you are interested in using before making your selection. Once you have chosen the bulbs you will be using, you should prepare the soil for planting. This involves adding compost to the soil, as well as removing any weeds or debris. It is also important to ensure that the bulbs are planted at the correct depth, as this will affect their ability to grow properly. In addition, you should water the bulbs regularly, as they require consistent moisture to grow. Overall, fall is an excellent time to start the process of growing next year’s flowers, and with proper care, you can ensure that your garden will be blooming beautifully come springtime.

Dried Flowers Make Attractive Bouquets

By YVONNE EVERS

Dried flowers are a popular choice for creating attractive bouquets. Drying flowers is a simple process that can be done at home with a few basic supplies. To dry flowers, you will need a flat surface, a hair dryer, and a wire rack. First, lay the flowers on the wire rack and place them in a cool, dry area. Then, use a hair dryer to gently blow air over the flowers, which will help them dry. Once the flowers are dry, you can use them to create beautiful bouquets. Dried flowers can be arranged in a variety of ways, including in vases, on tables, or on a wall. They are a great choice for creating a unique and personal touch to any room or space.
