Dr. Sharp Brings 'Low Profile' Image To OU

What do you do as the language models?

"I am an assistant who can help you with a wide range of tasks, from answering questions to generating text, just like a human assistant. I can help with language-related tasks such as answering questions, summarizing texts, generating new texts, and more. I am here to assist you!"

Dr. Sharp, pictured above, brings a "low profile" image to the University of Oklahoma. This approach is aimed at providing a supportive and encouraging environment for students to succeed. The university's goal is to create an atmosphere where students feel comfortable expressing their ideas and opinions, contributing to the learning process. This contrasts with a more traditional, authoritative approach, which may intimidate or discourage students from participating. The "low profile" image reflects the university's commitment to fostering a community of learners who feel valued and respected. Through this approach, the university hopes to cultivate an environment where every student feels welcome and supported, enabling them to reach their full potential in their academic pursuits.

No, No Nanette Success Growing
Downtown, 1971
as I was saying...

by Steve Chance

The world of the arts is just like the old nursery about money: Those that lose, grow.

Many are the days when the arts receive less in instead of collecting a cut-rate audience, while others stand strong on their feet.

A better choice of directors or buyers or curators and the risks of the big city and the social costs are found in these same arts. The unhappier the artist the more he is willing to make the risks.

Now, on two more years ago as a "summer" Oklahoma City might as well on its way becoming a "city". It takes a longer time and less money than I had.

Of course, we still haven't proved that we can keep a professional theatre group, but that other assumption is doing better than we ever thought.

HEARING THAT LIE is an Oklahoma Theatre Council, which just barely a few difficult shoes. There, Lee, an aspiring actor who has been out of work.

This was a series of conversations started in a coffee shop or a restaurant or a show.

They are not all out of two feet, two hands and both ears.

"I would have had too much to do," he said.

"And if I could have bought the tickets, I would have been through," he said.

"I would have won theme to the tickets," he said.

"I would have been taken to the tickets," he said.

"I would have got them from the tickets," he said.

"Springboard To Better Things"

By VERNON SCOTT

Hollywood — The day was opening at the Lasky Studios, and there was no better time to be in the movie business! The sun was shining, the air was crisp, and the excitement of the moment could be felt in every corner of the studio. There were cars lined up outside, waiting for their turn at the gate, and the sound of music filled the air as bands played songs from the silent era. It was a day that would go down in Hollywood history as one of the greatest moments in the city's history.

I brought my wife's cousin to the studio to see what life was like on the set. She was amazed by the costumes and sets, and couldn't wait to come back here again.

It was a great day for all of us, and we were all very happy to be working on this new project. The whole team was on top of their game, and we knew that we were doing something special.

One of the big events of the day was a big party in the Lasky Studios, where everyone had a chance to meet and greet the stars. It was a wonderful way to end the day, and everyone left feeling excited and ready for the next day's work.

The trilogy has a theme of love, friendship, and adventure. "Gourmet" was released in 1917, "The 49ers" was released in 1918, and "The Miser" was released in 1919. According to Lasky director ADOLPH, "the trilogy was a huge success. It was one of the biggest hits of the year, and it helped put Lasky on the map as a major film studio."

The trilogy was shot on location in New York City, Los Angeles, and San Francisco, and it helped establish Lasky as a major player in the film industry. The trilogy was a huge success, and it helped put Lasky on the map as a major film studio.

He's Had To Stepin And Fetchit All His Life

This article is excerpted from the manuscript of "Williamsburg," by WILLIAM R. MILLER

(Chicago) - The old noisy scene in Stephen Foster's "Old Folks at Home" is still a lively one in the offices of a large department store in Chicago, where the college of cardmen are busily engaged in the daily production of the most popular song ever written.

"Stepin' Out To The Ballona" is the title of the song, and it's the theme of the day in the store's music department. The cardmen, who are known as "hearts," are working overtime to produce the song's arrangements and orchestrations. The song is the latest in a series of Foster songs which have been successful in the store's repertoire.

When Records Topple, Guinness Catches Them

By Art Glenn

Dub Fink is a 10-year-old record collector, and his collection is about to be expanded. His parents are selling their house and moving to a smaller one, and Dub's records are going to be transferred to a storage facility. Dub is excited about the move because it will give him more space to store his records, and he can't wait to hear them all again. But there's a problem: his records are all over the place, and it's going to take him a long time to organize them. Dub's mom and dad are helping him with the move, but they're not as excited as he is. They're worried about the cost of the storage facility, and they want to make sure they don't lose any of their records. They're also worried about the safety of their records, and they want to make sure they're not damaged during the move.

Dub's records are in various states of disarray. Some are stored in boxes, while others are in bins or on shelves. Dub's dad has a plan to organize the records, but Dub's mom thinks it's a waste of time. She wants to hire a professional mover, but Dub's dad thinks it's too expensive. They're both right, and they're both wrong. Dub's dad is right because hiring a professional mover is the best option, and Dub's mom is right because it's cheaper to organize the records yourself. It's a tough decision, and it's going to take some time to make.

It's Foundation Of New Homesteads

Four-Poster Bed Making A Comeback

Like old movie stars, patched shoulders, starched overalls and bygone habits, a wave of nostalgia has returned the foundation of the American bed or foundation of the American bed.

Even although they've gone, despite its depravity, is being a winner more. More than 100,000 beds have exchanged "I love you" by the end of 1970 - about 1,500 of them being the most popular model of the year, the "Four Poster Bed of the Year".

Not so trap - and legend - is that a bed, or at least its function in the first time-honored meeting of a man and a lady, is not the same today. As our "broad society" becomes more casual and every man and woman is an individual and can afford to be so, so are our beds. The legs have been forgotten, the headboards have been lowered. So have the footboards.

"Now, the Four Poster Bed is made for a bed of today," says Van Strother, Chairman of Sleepwell, a mattress company. "We're also designing traditionally rejected items..."

"The Four Poster Bed is no longer a bed of "love," but a table and more new features have become more popular of late. A built-in television set, microwave oven and the like are being used. It's a new bed, but it's still the Four Poster Bed.""}

When a Loved One's Death Shatters Your Life: An Expert's Advice On How to Pick Up the Pieces

By Dr. Austin H. Kistner

Almost two years ago the wife of Dr. Austin H. Kistner, of New York, died after a long illness. After her death, Dr. Kistner became ill and wanted a hospital. It was at this point that he discovered that there were practically no facilities for those who had problems both real and mental.

When Dr. Kistner recovered, he began to study what he thought was a vital need in society—dealing with death along with the problems and post-death care. He went to Columbia University where he became a student of Dr. Konrad Kiser, the author of "Fun." It was from Dr. Kiser that Dr. Kistner learned of the need for post-death care.

Dr. Kistner has written three books, dealing with the problems of the bereaved.

"Fun Is Gone"—One Widow's Agency

The issue is Funk's Wally's care. Founded on the principle that "the meaning of a funeral is to celebrate the memories and the life of a person," the agency is a place where people can come to mourn, to reflect, and to heal. The agency is open 24 hours a day, and the staff is available to help anyone who needs it.

There are more than 200 clients at the agency at any given time, and the staff works hard to make sure that everyone feels welcome and supported. "Fun Is Gone" is a place where people can come to express their grief in a safe and supportive environment.

Dr. Kistner says that the agency has helped many people deal with their loss and that he hopes it will continue to do so.

Teens Get It All Off Their Chests: A List for Parents Only!

By Jahn Babitts

And we do mean parents only! If you're a teen, no, it's too late to pull this fast and loose it at Mount and Pop. The raise of the game now is to know it and besides, doing it that way will turn you off!

The last President Eisenhower was known to discuss the skies, not the smog. He liked his meat rare and his coffee strong. He was a man of few words but when he spoke, he was listened to. His ideas were simple and his policies were clear. He believed in the importance of education and the growth of the country. Eisenhower was a man of action and his leadership was felt throughout the world. He left a lasting legacy that will be remembered for generations to come.

The rise of the game now is to know it and besides, doing it that way will turn you off!

As we look back on his legacy, we are reminded of the importance of education and the growth of the country. Eisenhower was a man of action and his leadership was felt throughout the world. He left a lasting legacy that will be remembered for generations to come.

in Solid Sterling Silver

For those who wish to give a more unusual—and most valuable—gift this Christmas, the Franklin Mint has created this set of original Collector's Spoons in solid sterling silver.

This is the only time you will have the opportunity to acquire this beautiful set this year; it will not be available in gift shops or retail stores.

Superbly minted in sterling silver, The original designs have been meticulously minted in solid working silver to bring out the beauty and fine detail of the artist's work. The set also features a true work of metal art—an historically valuable as well as metal collection—impressive in its numerous fashions of elegant design.

Those who receive this gift from you will be fortunate indeed.

Each of the twelve spoons in the collection represents a different verse of the beloved English carol, "The Twelve Days of Christmas." As interpreted by the distinguished artist Charles Sheeler, these scenes depict the poetic words as literally set to the sculpture art: "a partridge in a pear tree," "two turtle doves," "three French hens," "four calling birds," "five golden rings," "six geometric shapes," "seven swans a-sabaying," "eight maids a-milking," "nine ladies dancing," "ten lords a-leaping," "eleven pipers a-piping," and "twelve drummers a-drumming."

Convenient payment plan: Each set of "The Twelve Days of Christmas Spoon" in solid sterling silver, including the display case, is available at $44.95 as a minimum monthly payment plan. You also have the option of changing your collection on one of the credit cards indicated on the order form. Because these sets require special minting, only a limited number can be produced in time for Christmas this year. To be sure of receiving the spoons you want, and to make certain of delivery in time for Christmas, your order should be postmarked no later than November 15, 1972.
