Save Your Wife's Strength For The Oncoming Holidays

The holidays are almost here, and that means the need for your wife's strength will be at an all-time high. Whether it's cooking for the family, decorating the house, or shopping for gifts, her energy will be taxed. To ensure she has the strength to face the holiday season, consider these tips:

1. Plan Ahead: Prepare as much as you can in advance. This will help reduce last-minute stress and ensure everything is in place.
2. Prioritize Tasks: Break down your to-do list into manageable tasks and prioritize them. Focus on the most important ones first.
3. Delegate: Don't be afraid to delegate tasks to others. Even children can help with simple tasks like wrapping gifts.
4. Take Breaks: Encourage your wife to take breaks when she gets tired. Short breaks can help rejuvenate her energy.
5. Stay Organized: Keep your home and workplace organized. A clutter-free environment can make tasks easier and less overwhelming.

By following these tips, you'll help ensure your wife is prepared for the holiday season and has the strength to enjoy it with you.

Rare Tax Vote Opportunity Offered City

The 2017 Oklahoma City Council will have the unique opportunity Tuesday to vote on a tax increase to support education. If the tax increase is approved, the city will have 12 months to conduct a voter referendum on the issue. The council has approved a 2-cent sales tax increase, which would generate an estimated $41 million annually for education. The referendum will be held on Dec. 5, and a majority vote will be required to pass.

The council has expressed its support for the proposed tax increase, stating that it is necessary to ensure a stable and adequate funding source for education. The tax increase will be used to fund various educational programs, including teacher salaries, class sizes, and student support services.

The referendum will be held on Dec. 5, and a majority vote will be required to pass. If the referendum is approved, the tax increase will take effect in January 2018. The council has stated that it is committed to ensuring that the funds generated by the tax increase are used effectively and efficiently.
