Unanimous Vote Fills School Land Position

AS a case of record in the United States District Court, the School Land Commission, under the supervision of the State Board of Education, has prepared a detailed statement of the land positions of the several school districts in the state. The statement includes a table of the several school districts and their land positions, as determined by the court. The table is divided into three columns, the first showing the name of the school district, the second showing the amount of land, and the third showing the amount of land held by the school district.

For instance, the school district of the City of Oklahoma City, which has the largest school population in the state, holds the largest amount of land, amounting to 1,200 acres. The second largest school district is the school district of the City of Tulsa, which holds 1,100 acres of land.

The statement is a valuable aid in the determination of the land positions of the school districts.

Myriad Fixes Seat Risers

By ARTHUR LANGLEY

The Oklahoma Journal

Downtown residents are already seeing changes in the seat arrangements of the Oklahoma City Council Chamber, where the council meets. The changes will be effective next month.

The council chamber is located in the old City Hall building, which was built in 1920. The council chamber has been in use for many years, but it is now being renovated in order to meet the needs of the council.

The improvements include new seating, lighting, and a new floor. The seating will be arranged in a circular fashion, with the council members sitting on a raised platform.

The lighting will be improved, with new lighting fixtures being installed. The new floor will be made of tile, with a new carpet being installed on the central aisle.

The improvements are expected to be completed by the end of the month.
