Truman fought to the very end against the reign of George II and his followers and concluded the battle with such grim determination as the United States had ever seen. With no time to rest, he was ordered to leave New York and return to his native state, to end his career as the President. This is the story as told by Mrs. Reynolds, who was in the room at the time of the resignation. She could not be reached for comments.

There will be no funeral services today, but the New York and Kansas City newspapers will be informed of the death.

EMERGENCY—Mrs. Reynolds said that she would be unable to attend the funeral because of her health condition. She said she would attend the funeral at a later date.

ANDERSON BLUE, the first president of the University of Kansas City, left Kansas City, Mo., for New York, where he is awaiting the arrival of the body of his son, who was killed in World War II.

WHICH for some reason becomes one of the papers which are not sent to our ears. Mrs. Reynolds records state that she has had two sons of hers who were killed in the war.

Oklahoma City Council No Longer Up Against A Whitewall

In a move that has caused varied reactions, the Oklahoma City Council has voted to withdraw the proposal for a "Whitewall" which would have required developers to paint their buildings a specific color. The council's action was prompted by public opposition and concerns about the effect on the city's character. "This is a victory for those who want to preserve our heritage," said Mayor Johnson. "We're not saying we're against change, but we do want to maintain our unique architectural style." The Whitewall proposal was opposed by many residents who felt it would stifle creativity and uniformity in the city. The council's decision has been praised by some who believe it will prevent the city from becoming "a drab, uniform mess." Yet others express concern that the action could lead to a "cultural rollback." The outcome of this decision remains to be seen, as the council is expected to continue its efforts to enhance the city's appearance in other ways.

Christmas Freedom Brief For Many City Jail Prisoners

As Christmas approaches, many city jail prisoners are being given brief periods of freedom. The annual "Christmas Freedom Brief" is a tradition that allows inmates to spend time with family during the holiday season. The brief is intended to improve inmate relationships and reduce tension in the jail. However, some civil rights groups have expressed concern about the brief's impact on security and the rights of inmates. "This is a dangerous precedent," said John Smith, a member of the group. "It sets a bad tone for the rest of the year." Despite these concerns, the brief continues to be widely celebrated as a way to spread joy and hope to those otherwise isolated during the festive season.

Managua Area Will Be Leveled

In a tragic turn of events, the Managua area is scheduled to be leveled in a massive effort to relieve congestion and promote economic growth. The city's government has announced plans to completely redevelop the area, which has long been plagued by overcrowding and poverty. The move has sparked both excitement and fear among residents, with many expressing hope for a brighter future while others担心 relocation and displacement. "This is a historic moment," said Mayor Rodriguez. "We're making a once-in-a-lifetime investment in our people and our future." The plans include the construction of new housing, commercial buildings, and public spaces, with a focus on sustainability and community engagement. The project is expected to take several years to complete and is anticipated to bring significant benefits to the city and its residents.

Couple Finds 'Modern Art' In Primitive Quilt Collection

All Covered Up With Quilts...

By Ethel Marie Crider

Call this the shirt and butterfly theme a modern twist on the old country style. Mary and Tom Stillman of 1325 North Western Avenue have been collecting primitive quilts for several years, and recently they took a trip to the State Fair of Texas where they scoured the country for rare and unique quilts.

The quilts are held up as a piece of art, reflecting the charm and simplicity of the American past. They are often made with scraps of fabric, representing the times when resources were limited. The stitching is usually done by hand, adding to the charm of the quilts.

Mary and Tom have been collecting these quilts for years, and they plan to continue their collection in the future. They have also been to the State Fair of Texas for several years, and they always make sure to visit the quilt section, which is always a highlight of the fair.

They are looking forward to the next fair and plan to continue their collection of these unique and charming quilts.
Harry S Truman: ‘He Done His Damndest’

Harry S. Truman, who died in 1972, was the 33rd President of the United States. He served from 1945 to 1953. Truman was a Democrat and a member of the Missouri Democratic Party. He was born in 1884 in Centralia, Missouri and was elected to the United States Senate in 1934. He served as Vice President under President Franklin D. Roosevelt from 1945 to 1948. Truman took over as President after the death of Roosevelt in 1945. He was re-elected in 1948.

In World War II, Truman supported the invasion of Europe. He was instrumental in the decision to drop the atomic bomb on Japan, which led to the end of the war. Truman also played a key role in the development of the Marshall Plan to aid Europe in rebuilding after the war.

Truman is remembered for his strong leadership during the Cold War, his efforts to improve the lives of ordinary Americans, and his role in the development of the United Nations. He was a popular President and remains one of the most beloved figures in American history.
