Boren Checking Retirement Fund

Gov. David Boren said Friday he is reviewing the state employee retirement and trust fund to see if more employees are being adequately covered.

The Equal Rights Amendment is currently on the ballot in 20 states. It has been debated in the legislature for over a century. It was first introduced in 1923 and has been re-introduced every year since then.

There have been three main obstacles to the ERA's passage. The first is the women's movement, which has opposed the ERA since its inception. The second is the anti-feminist movement, which has argued that the ERA would undermine traditional family values. The third is the religious right, which has argued that the ERA would undermine religious freedom.

U.N. Group Official Says Takeover By Arabs Unlikely

Mr. John D. Doe, senior policy advisor to the United Nations, has said that the recent wave of terrorist attacks in the Middle East is not likely to lead to a takeover by Arab forces. Mr. Doe, speaking at a press conference in New York, said that the terrorist attacks were not a reflection of the views of the Arab world as a whole, and that they were not likely to lead to a significant change in the region's political landscape. Mr. Doe's comments come in the wake of a series of terrorist attacks in the Middle East, including the bombing of the U.S. embassy in Beirut and the assassination of several government officials. The attacks have sparked concern among U.N. member states, and Mr. Doe's comments are likely to be welcomed by many as a sign of reassurance.

Religious Science Church Shows Major Growth

The Oklahoma City Church of Religious Science has grown significantly in recent years, with membership and donations increasing. The church, located in the west part of the city, has become a prominent religious institution in the community.

The Church of Religious Science is a non-profit organization that focuses on the study and practice of Science, the law and order of the universe. It is a belief system that emphasizes the importance of understanding and applying the laws of nature and the universe.

Religion In America

According to some surveys, more than half of the population of the United States identifies with a religious denomination. Of this group, the majority is affiliated with the Catholic Church. However, the percentage of people who identify with a religious denomination is declining, and there are signs that this trend will continue in the future.

The growing diversity of religious beliefs and practices in America is reflected in the changing demographics of the population. A higher proportion of people are identifying as non-religious or as members of alternative spiritual or philosophical communities. This shift is not limited to any particular age group or social class, but is occurring across the board.
