Era Rejected By House In 45-51 Vote

The legislation, introduced today, would have nullified the rights of the individual under the Equal Rights Amendment. The vote was 45-51, with 45 representatives voting against the amendment and 51 voting in favor.

The ERA, or Equal Rights Amendment, was proposed in 1972 as part of the Women's Movement. It was designed to ensure equal rights for women under the law. The amendment was supported by many leaders and advocates of the movement, including civil rights leaders and women's rights activists.

However, the ERA faced significant opposition from conservative groups, who argued that it would lead to gender role reversal and undermine traditional family values. These groups included the Moral Majority, the American Family Association, and other anti-abortion organizations.

Despite the opposition, the ERA was ultimately defeated in the United States Senate in 1982, with 35 senators voting in favor and 64 against. The amendment had to be ratified by three-fourths of the states within seven years to become part of the Constitution, but it failed to gain the necessary number of states.

The ERA was reintroduced several times since then, but it has not gained enough support to pass. The movement for women's rights continues to push for equal rights and representation, but the ERA remains a significant milestone in the struggle for equality.

Colorful Fashions Can Act As Fountain Of Youth

By ELEANOR LAVINOV

The FashionABLE FASHIONS are in again. The shift toward more colorful garments, as seen in today's magazines and on the social scene, is part of a trend toward a more youthful and vibrant image. This movement is not limited to women; men are also embracing brighter colors and bold designs. The idea is to counteract the perception of age and to project an image of being young at heart.
