Bartlett Lambastes Ford's Energy Policy

By DENNIS DOMINO and ADAM GOLDETZ

Activists demand that President Bush reverse his energy policy, as Dewey Bartlett said yesterday that Bush's energy policy should be reversed:

"I have not received the budget balancing plan that Bush announced last week," said Dewey Bartlett.

More Misery Forecast

The Centennial of Oklahoma had a rough start. Ford's energy policy was reversed, and the state's banks were warned of a possible recession.

FREE PAPER, FREE OFFERED BUS RIDERS

In a move that is expected to provide a major boost to city revenues, the city council has approved a plan that will allow downtown bus riders to use a special pass for free. The plan, which is being implemented in conjunction with the city's efforts to reduce bus congestion, will provide free passes to bus riders who use the city's major bus routes.

The pass, which will be available at city bus stops, will allow riders to use the bus service free of charge. The plan is expected to provide a significant increase in city revenues, as the city is expected to receive an estimated $20 million per year in additional bus inspection fees.

The city council has also approved a plan that will allow bus riders to use their passes for free on the city's major bus routes. CIA Infiltrated Left In Unsuccessful Double Agent Gambit

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The CIA failed to successfully infiltrate a double agent in a spy operation that was launched with the full knowledge of President Jimmy Carter.

The operation, codenamed "Black Night," was designed to rupture the CIA's relationship with a Soviet sprinter who had been working as a spy for the agency.

The operation was launched with the full knowledge of President Carter, who approved the operation after being briefed on its potential impact on the US-Soviet relationship.

However, the operation quickly went off the rails in April 1983, when the agent, known only by the pseudonym "Ivan," was captured and held prisoner in Moscow.

Intelligence sources say that Ivan's capture was the result of a miscommunication between the CIA and the KGB, which led to the不屑 of both agencies.

The operation was a failure, and the agent was ultimately returned to the United States where he was put under surveillance by the FBI.

In an interview with The Oklahoma Journal, President Carter said that he had been "disappointed" by the operation, and that he had "ordered" the CIA to "terminate" the operation immediately.

The CIA spokesperson would not comment on the operation, saying only that "all operations are classified."

Robert Blake's Careers Started at Age 2

By LAWRENCE ROBERTS

Robert Blake, the up-and-coming young actor and star of the hit TV series "Baretta," has a distinguished career behind him. Born in 1936, Blake began his acting career at the young age of two, appearing in a commercial for "The Walls of Jericho," a popular breakfast cereal. His parents, both professional actors, recognized his talent from a very early age and enrolled him in acting classes at the age of four. Blake's first major breakthrough came in 1943, when he landed the role of "The Boy" in the classic film "Little Boy Lost." The film was a critical and commercial success, and Blake's performance earned him a nomination for the Academy Award for Best Supporting Actor.

Jewel Box Slaters 'Critics Choice'

New York's favorite night spot, the Jewel Box, is set to open its doors once again. Located at 123 Broadway, the Jewel Box has been a favorite haunt for New York's intelligentsia for decades. The Jewel Box is known for its eclectic mix of customers, ranging from artists and writers to corporate executives. The Jewel Box's menu offers a variety of appetizers and main courses, with a focus on local produce and sustainable seafood. The Jewel Box's central location makes it a popular spot for business lunches and after-work drinks.

Symphony Hosts Eileen Farrell Next Week

Symphony organizers are excited to announce that Eileen Farrell, the renowned American soprano, will be performing next week at the Symphony Hall. Farrell, who has been a fixture on the opera stage for over four decades, will be performing a selection of her most popular operatic arias, including "O Mio Babbino Caro" from Puccini's "La Bohème" and "Vesti la Giubba" from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana." Farrell's powerful voice and command of the stage will undoubtedly captivate the audience.

Young and restless, but already at home in a characteristically malevolent and inquisitive way, Orson Welles sits in his San Francisco exile, evading questions about his life and work. He seems to be living a parallel life in a parallel world, one that is not quite the one we live in. He is a man of many faces, and he has a way of making his audience think that they are seeing them all at once. His face is like a mask, and he can change it in a moment. He is a master of disguise, and he knows how to use it to his advantage. He is a man of many talents, and he has the ability to use them all at once. Racing Drivers On Fear:

"Every driver that's good has to scare himself constantly, over and over again. You never drive the thing 100 percent. You drive it 95 percent. If you drive it at 115 percent, you're going to crash." — Bobby Unser

"I've been scared many times. When a guy says he doesn't get scared, I say he's either a liar or a complete idiot. Usually, that type's never a winner anyway. They can't run fast enough to get in a wreck. They just want to be a hero in the public's eye and act brave." — A. J. Foyt
The Most Interesting Women I've Ever Met

By Shelagh Graham

We haven't always been friends, but we've been colleagues for over 20 years. She's a force of nature and a bundle of energy and a hilarious sense of humor. She's also a brilliant journalist and a master of the craft. She's written for just about every major magazine in the world, and her work has been published in more than 20 countries. She's a true icon, and I'm honored to call her a friend.

On Dorothy Parker

"We are sorry to disappoint you, I am not a playwright. But the women who are are very brave." Parker was a prolific writer and a member of the "Lost Generation," a group of writers who lived in Paris during the 1920s and 1930s. She was a close friend of Scottie Fitzgerald and a mentor to other writers, including Tennessee Williams and Tennessee Williams. Parker was known for her wit and her sharp wit, and she was a vocal critic of the male-dominated world of literature.

On Scottie Fitzgerald

"I have a novel idea. Why not send a letter to the editor of the New York Times?" Fitzgerald was a writer and a literary critic who is best known for his novel "The Great Gatsby," which was published in 1925. He was a member of the "Lost Generation," and his work is often associated with the Jazz Age. Fitzgerald was a close friend of Parker and Hemingway, and he is remembered for his keen insight into the human condition.

On Marilyn Monroe

"She was an icon, and a symbol of the times." Monroe was a actress and a sex symbol of the 1950s and 1960s. She was known for her beauty and her talent, and she was a role model for women around the world. Monroe was a close friend of Hemingway and Fitzgerald, and she is remembered for her work in films such as "Some Like It Hot" and "The Seven Year Itch."
