Rogers Tells Of Hall's Board Calls

By GARY MINCZEWSKI

The Journal Staff

Former City Councilman Paul S. Rogers revealed several months ago that he was given by Hall that it was impossible to either pass the grants or to get the grants if there was an illegal contract with an outside consultant handling the grants with him. Rogers, who served as an attorney for the city, told the Journal that he had discussed the matter with Hall and was told that the city would not be involved in any way.

Rogers also stated that Hall had threatened to sue him if he did not agree to the arrangement. Rogers said that he had refused to sign the contract and that he had received a letter from Hall threatening to sue him if he did not agree to the arrangement. Rogers added that he had never agreed to the arrangement and that he had never met with Hall.

The Journal has been unable to contact Hall for comment on this matter.

MWC Seniors Offered Tax Aid

The Missouri Western State College Senior's Tax Aid Service will be offered again this year, providing assistance to seniors who may have difficulty understanding the tax laws or filling out the forms. The service is provided by volunteers who are trained in tax preparation and are available to help individuals prepare their taxes for free. The service is open to anyone age 60 or older and will be held on selected days starting in late January. For more information, contact the Senior's Tax Aid Service at 555-5555.

Del City Program To Include Music

The Del City program will be incorporating music into its activities this year. The program, run by the local community center, offers various programs for seniors, including dance classes, exercise sessions, and social events. By adding music to these activities, the program aims to provide a more engaging and enjoyable experience for its participants. The music will be played during exercise sessions and will be a focus of the dance classes.

Council

The city council will be discussing new regulations for local businesses. The regulations are intended to improve safety and reduce noise in the area. The council is also considering a new policy to encourage local businesses to be more environmentally friendly. This policy may include incentives for businesses that use energy-efficient equipment or practices.

Sara Lee gives you $2 off your grocery bill. That should brighten your day.

Because we want you to enjoy all the good things in life, not just Sara Lee, we've come up with the summertime's ever. Here's how it works.

Just buy any four Sara Lee baked goods or prepared foods. (A brilliant idea right there!) Then send in the ingredient statements, and we'll send you a $2 coupon you can take to your local market.

It's good for $1 off the meat counter. (That means steak can cost what hamburger usually does.) And 50¢ off on produce. (Apples, bananas, and strawberries—come on.) Plus 50¢ off on frozen foods. (Orange juice, shrimp, lasagna—you name it.) That totals $2.

So start by getting your hands on your favorite Sara Lee goodies today. And soon your mouth can be watering over the kind of food you've been saving for special occasions. Which should make everyone in your family break into great big sunny smiles.
