City Gasoline Prices Drop

By DORIS INNIS

Gasoline prices dropped recently because of heavy competition from nearby independent stations operating at a lower cost.

A worker at a local station reported, "We dropped our gas price from 69 cents to 63 cents per gallon. This is a big help to our business."

CIA Attempted To Kill Castro?

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Press accounts have identified Cuba's Fidel Castro as the target of all of the CIA's assassination plots. The New York Times has published a story about the CIA's role in the murder of two Cuban leaders, Juan Fernandez and Luis Casas. The Times story was based on information provided by the U.S. government.

The CIA was involved in at least one attempt to assassinate Castro in the early 1960s. The Times said the CIA had been involved in the attack on Castro in February 1962, which resulted in the Cuban leader's death.

The story was based on information provided by the U.S. government.

The CIA did not deny the rush to kill Castro's cabinet. The CIA has always maintained that the attempts were made in self-defense.

On February 16, 1962, the CIA attempted to assassinate Castro with a bomb placed in a car near his home in Havana. The bomb was found and destroyed by Cuban troops.

A peep into the future:

Life in the Year 2000

No one really knows exactly what life will be like 20 years from now. Futurists and educators who study the future are talking about the different changes and alternatives that could take place.

There are three types of futures:
1. Probable: What we are pretty sure will happen. For example, we do know that there will be many more machines to do our work.
2. Possible: What we think might happen, but we aren't really sure. For example, we might have some form of programming but don't really know for certain.
3. Preferable: What we would like to see happen by using our best scientific minds and resources. For example, it would be preferable to find a new source of energy that is cheap, plentiful, and clean.

Food
You will probably eat less meat and more grains and vegetables. You will probably also eat more fresh fruits and vegetables from supermarkets.

Clothes
You might wear clothes made to last for years, or clothes made to throw away when they get dirty.

Housing
You might live in a single-family house, but you will probably also rent an apartment. You might even have a home in the country and commute to the city by train or bus.

Transportation
You might travel in a small airplane or helicopter or even travel by plane or train.

Education
You might go to school by listening to radio programs on your radio or television set. A computer would instantly grade your work.
