Your gas bills may be higher.

For two reasons

First, when the weather is colder, homes require more energy for heating;

Second, the price of natural gas is increasing.

Today, they must explore more remote areas to find natural gas. That costs more.

Geopolitical and transportation costs must be more precise. This costs more.

Wells must be drilled deeper. Mines deeper. The price of natural gas is going up.

But the independent companies continue to explore and drill. They must.

We urge you to conserve natural gas. Good conservation practices not only help save that precious fuel but will help keep their own costs down.

Bicentennial Speaker Chosen

Dr. Arthur LeBlond, director of the Fine Arts Society of the Oklahoma City Art Center, has been chosen to be the bicentennial speaker for Oklahoma City. The event will take place on Thursday, February 21, at 7:00 p.m. at the Civic Center Music Hall. The speaker will discuss the history and significance of the bicentennial festivities in Oklahoma City.

Police Unit Needs Two Dogs

The Oklahoma City Police Department is in need of two additional dogs for its K-9 unit. The department is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the return of the two missing dogs, a black lab and a German shepherd. Anyone with information is asked to contact the Oklahoma City Police Department at 232-7171.

Two Bills Get Governor's Signature

Governor Bill Aniston has signed two bills that will affect Oklahoma's educational system. The first bill, HB 1034, will increase funding for public schools by $200 million. The second bill, SB 568, will create a new state agency to oversee the state's education system.

Restaurants Safety Policed

The Oklahoma City Fire Department has launched a new restaurant safety program. The program will involve trained inspectors who will visit restaurants and check for compliance with state and federal safety regulations. Restaurants that fail to meet the standards will be fined and may be forced to close.

Sound Off

This is the sound of the future. The Oklahoma City Police Department has purchased 10 new sound systems for its patrol cars. The systems will allow officers to communicate with each other over long distances, improving the department's ability to respond to emergencies.

Faxed For Payment

The Oklahoma City Public Schools have started using fax machines to send payment reminders to parents of students who owe outstanding balances. The system has been in operation for two months, and the school district has reported a significant decrease in the number of unpaid bills.
