Tickets Spark Debate

By MIKE BRAZ

It was held by a Perry Mason drama, but courtroom battles couldn't have been a better show than the one in Oklahoma City's usually-stately traffic court.

The performance had a special audience of people and their friends who gathered to watch the show.

REBATE PLANS CLEAR:
Spend, Spend, Spend

By DENIS DEMPSEY

The rebate plan is a rebate plan, but there are several changes that will affect the rebate plan. The most significant change is that the rebate will be available only to those who qualify for the rebate.

Government officials said they are expecting a new baby and "will definitely be watching the news," according to one government official.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Briscoe and Brown plans were approved by the U.S. Senate by 69-30 vote. The plans are expected to pass in the House in the coming weeks.

"The Senate has already passed the bill," said one government official. "It is expected to pass in the House in the coming weeks.

Area Students Produce Own TV Show

A group of students at the Oklahoma City Public Schools have produced their own television show. The show, called "Rocket Street," is broadcast on local television stations. The students have been working on the show for several months, and it has been a big success. The show features a variety of segments, including interviews, performances, and news stories. The students have been working hard to make sure the show is entertaining and informative. The show airs on weekends, and many people in the community have been enjoying it. The students are happy with the response they have received and are looking forward to continuing to produce more episodes.

Bond Issues At Stake

The voters in the Yukon-Nichols Hills School District will be asked to approve a bond issue to pay for new schools and facilities. The bond issue will be on the ballot during the upcoming election. The school district has faced financial challenges in recent years, and the bond issue is necessary to ensure that the district can continue to provide quality education to its students. The bond issue will allow the district to build new schools and renovate existing facilities, which will improve the learning environment for students. The bond issue is supported by local business leaders and community members who recognize the importance of education in the area. The school district is hoping that the voters will support the bond issue to help ensure the future success of the district.

Edmond Protestors Gain Public Hearing Delay

In Edmond, Oklahoma, residents have been protesting plans for a new development project. The development project, which includes a new residential area and commercial space, has raised concerns among residents about traffic and other issues. The residents have been holding public meetings to discuss their concerns and have been asking for a delay in the public hearing for the project. The city council has heard the residents' concerns and has agreed to delay the public hearing until a later date. The residents are hoping that the delay will give them more time to gather information and make their case. They are also hoping that the city council will take their concerns seriously and make changes to the project to address their concerns.

Radio, TV Newsman Needs Skills

Radio and television news reporters need a variety of skills to perform their job effectively. They must be able to write quickly and accurately, speak clearly and convincingly, and think on their feet. In an age of electronic news gathering, they also need to be familiar with the technology used to collect, transmit, and display news stories. In addition, they must have a good understanding of the laws and regulations that govern the broadcast industry. With the pressures of deadlines and the need to generate ratings, it is a demanding field that requires a high degree of professionalism and dedication.

Gardeners Should Finish Planting

As winter winds down, gardeners should start planning for the new planting season. This includes deciding on the types of plants to grow, preparing the soil, and designing the layout of the garden. It's important to consider factors such as climate, soil type, and available space. Researching plants that are well-suited to your area and taking into account any constraints such as shade or sun exposure can help ensure a successful garden.

Candid Campus Views

SOCJC’s “Openingness”

At OCC, the campus takes an open approach to learning and growth. This is evident in the variety of courses offered, including those in the visual arts. The school is known for its commitment to providing a supportive and inclusive environment for students. This is reflected in the diversity of students who attend, and the range of courses and activities offered. The open-minded culture of the school fosters a sense of community and engagement, encouraging students to explore new ideas and perspectives.
