Cockfighting? It’s ‘Patriotic’

By JOHN GILLIS
Chief of the Animal Welfare Bureau

Cockfighting is a choice in the animal world. It is a sport that is enjoyed by many people. The cockfighting controversy is not new. It has been going on for years. But now, with the rise of Cockfighting, it is more popular than ever.

The majority of cockfighting is done for sport. It is not done for money. The cockfighters are not professionals. They are not trying to make a living from cockfighting. They are doing it for fun. The cockfighting is not done for money. It is not done for profit.

But there is a small group of cockfighters who do it for money. They are professionals. They are trying to make a living from cockfighting. They are not doing it for fun. They are doing it for profit.

Henry's Phobia Snarls Relations

WASHINGTON - Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, in trying to get the 75 states to sign the SALT treaty, has found his efforts complicated by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's 14-yard line on SALT II.

Kissinger's suggestion that states head to the White House this week for a confirmation dinner was met with the committee's 14-yard line. The congressmen who make up the committee say they won't be able to do their work in time for a dinner with President Nixon.

It was a blow to Kissinger, who has been trying to get the states to sign the treaty, which would limit the number of nuclear weapons that the United States, the U.S.S.R. and the United Kingdom could have. The States' representatives have been divided on the issue, with some favoring the treaty and others opposing it.

Kissinger's suggestion was met with the committee's 14-yard line. The congressmen who make up the committee say they won't be able to do their work in time for a dinner with President Nixon.

One congressmen who is favoring the treaty is Rep. James A. Oberstar, D-Minn. He said he was pleased with the progress being made and hoped the states would sign the treaty.

The treaty contains a provision that would allow the United States to test-ban nuclear weapons in the atmosphere, underwater, or in outer space. The provision has been a sticking point for many states, including California, which is known for its strong environmental laws.

The states' representatives have been divided on the issue, with some favoring the treaty and others opposing it. The committee's 14-yard line means that the states won't be able to sign the treaty until after the election, which could make it more difficult for Kissinger to get the states to sign.

How To Keep The Lights On

If you are paying for the inconvenience of electricity, you are probably wondering if you can save money by saving electricity. One way to save electricity is to turn off lights when you leave a room.

In the past, it has been difficult to turn off lights when you leave a room. But now there are several ways to do it. One way is to use motion-activated light switches. These switches turn on the light when there is movement in the room and turn it off when there is no movement.

Another way to save electricity is to use energy-efficient light bulbs. These bulbs last longer than regular light bulbs and use less energy.

You can also save electricity by turning off the lights when you are not using them. For example, if you are watching TV, you can turn off the lights in the rest of the house.

By using these tips, you can save electricity and money. So next time you leave a room, make sure to turn off the lights.
