Gold Underwriters Sought

By ROBERT LESSLER

NEW YORK -- Representatives of several major American casualty insurance underwriters have been approached by a private broker about taking out a $20 million policy on the life of President John F. Kennedy. The president, who died in Dallas last Friday night, is the first U.S. president to be insured.

"We are not sure how much the policy will cost, but we are willing to pay the premium," said one of the underwriters.

4 Dogs Attack, Maul Youngster

By STEVE HOFFMAN

Boston, April 11 -- Four dogs dragged a Miami boy by a pair of trousers and pulled him into the water in the Charles River. The boy, 10-year-old John P. Flanagan, was taken to Boston's Children's Hospital with a gash in his leg when the attack took place.

The boy, who was playing with his dog, was pulled out of the water by a passerby and taken to the hospital.

Poison Countered

Deadly Race Won

By MIRE BRACE

By John Brown

Niki Varga won a long race with fast and the weather on his side, but a big storm from the course made it a tough go.

He won the race and set a new record for the track.

The teenager, who won the race with ease, was delighted.

"I've always wanted to win," he said.

"I worked hard for this race and I'm happy to have won.

The weather was perfect, the track was fast, and I felt great.

We started off at the start and got past the competition.

It was a great day for running."
Doc. 2 Women Kidnapped, Slain

'Amateurs' Blamed In Death

On Jan. 10, 1968, police staged a raid on the home of Billie Jean King, a tennis player, in San Diego. Three men entered the house and confronted King and her husband, Jack Sedgwick. The men then proceeded to rob the couple, taking $100,000 in cash and jewelry. After the robbery, the men fled the scene.

The police investigation revealed that the robbers were not professionals. They had no prior knowledge of the house or its occupants, and their methods were primitive. It was later discovered that the robbers were part of a group of teenagers who had planned the robbery as a way to筹集 money for a trip to Europe.

The case received widespread media attention, and the robbers were eventually arrested and convicted of armed robbery. They served time in prison and were later released.

In 1972, King and Sedgwick returned to San Diego and purchased a new house in La Jolla. In March of that year, they were again the victims of a robbery. This time, the robbers were more organized and well-trained. They had planned the robbery in advance, and they had a getaway plan that involved沿途 car.

On March 29, 1972, King and Sedgwick were at home when the robbers entered the house. The couple fought back, and a gunfire exchange ensued. King and Sedgwick were both killed in the attack. The robbers fled the scene, and the couple was never seen again.

The case received widespread media attention, and the robbers were eventually arrested and convicted of murder. They served time in prison and were later released.

In the years since the killings, there have been numerous attempts to solve the cold cases. However, the robbers have never been identified, and the whereabouts of the couple are still unknown.

The families of the victims have not given up hope and continue to search for answers. In recent years, new evidence has emerged that may shed light on the cases. However, the investigation remains ongoing, and the families remain hopeful that justice will be served.

U.S. Stops Mailing Condom Stamps To Teen-Aged Boys

On Tuesday, April 17, 1973, the U.S. government announced that it would no longer mail condoms and related materials to teenage boys in response to concerns about the spread of sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) and unwanted pregnancies. The move was part of a broader effort to educate young people about safe sex practices and the importance of using condoms. The decision was met with mixed reactions, with some health officials praising the move and others expressing concern that it would lead to a rise in risky behavior.

Summons Serving Deputy Sheriffs Push Lot Of Paper

Deputy sheriffs in the area have been busy serving summonses to a local business for a variety of offenses, including violations of zoning laws and building codes. The business, located on Main Street, has been cited multiple times for failing to comply with local regulations, and the sheriff's office has been tasked with ensuring that the business整改 comply with the regulations in the future. The summonses have generated a lot of paperwork, and the sheriff's office is working to ensure that all necessary documentation is filed and reviewed.

Case Of Over-Protection

Conservation over-protection is to become the trend if the Senate continues with a type of unnecessary protection that is in the best interest of no one.

EDWARD'S NOTE: This story, written by Edward R. Bakke, state representative from Oklahoma City, appeared in Winter 1970-71 edition of Oklahoma Today and is reprinted with permission of the magazine. The cover of the magazine and two pages were made available by Oklahoma Today.

Musicians deny that jazz is a unique American experience cultivated on African rhythms and melodic modes transported to the Mississippi via black slaves. These same rhythms had begun to simmer in the West Indies and Latin America as early as the 16th century. In the United States, jazz became the music of the black slaves as well as the music of the Negro New Orleans jazz community a decade that along the East Coast. Oklahoma served as a melting pot for both the New Orleans "Dixieland" and East coast music, so it was geographically a crossroads of styles.

Through these early years Oklahoma musicians were inspired and influenced by each other in a way that few in other states could boast. In the early 1900s, jazz musicians from the East Coast and the SouthEast were influential in shaping jazz music in the United States. The Oklahoma Jazz Museum, which opened in 1976, pays tribute to the jazz musicians of Oklahoma City.

The first jazz clubs in Oklahoma City were the St. Louis and the Cotton Club. These clubs, along with the Cotton Club, were the center of the New Orleans jazz community in the early 1900s. The Cotton Club was located at the corner of 2nd and Grand Avenue, where the Cotton Club is now located. The Cotton Club was one of the most famous jazz clubs in the world, and it was a place where jazz musicians could perform. It was also a place where jazz music was played and listened to by people from all over the world.

Howard McGhee, also known as "The wizard of the trumpet," was one of the most talented and innovative trumpet players of his time. He was a key figure in the development of modern jazz and contributed to the evolution of the trumpet as a solo instrument. McGhee played with many of the greats of jazz, including Duke Ellington, Louis Armstrong, and Dizzy Gillespie. His playing was characterized by its technical brilliance, improvisational flair, and rhythmic sensibility.

McGhee was born in Oklahoma City in 1914 and began playing the trumpet at a young age. He started his career in the 1930s and 1940s, playing with various bands and in different settings. In the 1950s, he settled in New York City, where he continued to play and record. McGhee was known for his technical proficiency, his ability to improvise, and his emotional depth. He was a key figure in the development of modern jazz and played an important role in the evolution of the trumpet as a solo instrument.

The Oklahoma Jazz Museum is dedicated to preserving and promoting the history and culture of jazz in Oklahoma. The museum features exhibits, performances, and educational programs that celebrate the contributions of Oklahoma jazz musicians and the influence of jazz on the state's cultural heritage.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR BURT BACHARACH
Why has he had the greatest influence on your music career? —T., St. Paul, Minn.

Bacharach: Well, I'm not sure I could tell you exactly why he's so influential. I think he's just got a great sense of melody and arrangement. He knows how to put things together. I think he's one of the greatest composers of all time.

FOR MARSHA A. PRESTON
What is the difference between a 'Wagnerian' and a 'Classical' conductor?

Preston: A 'Wagnerian' conductor is typically associated with the music of Richard Wagner, known for his complex and dramatic musical style. A 'Classical' conductor, on the other hand, is associated with the music of the Classical period, which includes the works of composers like Mozart, Beethoven, and Haydn. The main difference is in the style and approach to conducting, with Wagnerian conductors often emphasizing intensity and drama, while Classical conductors tend to focus on precision and clarity.

What is your favorite instrument?

Page: I love playing the guitar. It's such a versatile instrument, you can play so many different styles and genres.

FOR JULIE ATLAS
What is the most challenging part of being a singer?

Atlas: Singing live is always the most challenging. You have to be able to connect with the audience, and that's not always easy.

FOR THE LINDSEY ONeil
What is your advice for someone who wants to pursue a career in music?

O'Neil: First, you need to be passionate about music. Then, you need to practice, practice, practice. And finally, you need to network and get opportunities to perform.

FOR KATE BUSH
What is your favorite album to listen to?

Bush: My favorite album is my first one, 'Wuthering Heights.' It's a masterpiece.

FOR SAM SIEGEL
What is your favorite instrument to play?

Siegel: I love playing the cello. It's such a beautiful instrument with a rich, warm sound.

FOR THE K ENGLISH
What is your favorite city to visit?

English: I love visiting New York City. There's always something new to see and do.

FOR THE K ENGLISH
What is your favorite city to visit?

English: Las Vegas, Nevada. There's always a new show to see and a new hotel to stay in.

Confidence racketeers: the Ponzi scheme.

"The Ponzi scheme" is named for Charles Ponzi, an Italian immigrant who defrauded over 4,000 investors of $10 million in 1920. It is based on a very simple principle: pay Peter to pay Paul. In its simplest form, investors are asked to put money into a very legitimate-looking company, and are promised a huge profit in a short time. When the investors actually pay off their debt to Ponzi, they want their money back, and start telling their friends about the golden opportunity. Some of the investors, and all their friends, and tell their friends, and so on. At the circle of investors grows larger, the investors see the new money that is continually coming in as the pay "profits" to some earlier investors. He keeps this up until he has enough money stashed away (or at least that's what he's supposed to work), and then he vanishes. It seems that with an end in the investors waiting to be paid, a fact that the original Ponzi government, Charles Ponzi himself, understood quite well back in 1920. By the time he arrived in Boston or NYC, after spending 17 years in the U.S. and Canada, he had spent up to two-thirds of the money in prison.
It's such a small price to pay to have your mother work less.

Shorter, Curlier, Prettier Hair

Spring News!

The fashion news is that shorter, curlier hair is in-and it's going to stay in. It's the new wave of hair styling, and it's here to stay.

The key to the new look is in the hair care. Your hair should be clean, healthy, and well-managed. The best way to achieve this is with Final Net Hair Spray.

Final Net is a unique formula that provides the perfect blend of hair care and styling. It's a lightweight, non-aerosol formula that leaves your hair feeling soft and touchable. It's also easy to apply and leaves your hair looking great.

To use Final Net, simply spray it onto your hair, starting at the roots and working down. You can also use it as a finishing spray to add extra volume and texture.

Try Final Net today and see why it's the leading hairspray.

Look to The Light Side

A Little Lighter Overall

Light is purest when there’s just a bit of it. Put together a little blue, green or black. White light is blindingly bright. The more light you use, the more dramatic the effect.

Hair Painting

For the archives: look for a style that captures the essence of what’s cool and interesting in your hair. Lighten up the hair into a washable, lighted color. At the same time, you can get away with a little color at the roots, and a whole lot more at the back. A softening touch is the best way to get away with a little color. Fitting

Pressing creates a lighter, more defined look. Paint your hair, but you can still wear it, give it a light or a week wearing or as you want. Pressing a little and lighted color adds a softening touch. A softening touch is the best way to get away with a lighted color. Your Hair: The Thin and Thick of It

Fing Thin Hair
If your hair is fine and thin, you'll know: It's flyaway, lackluster and sometimes bangs long and straggly around your face. Fine, thin hair is difficult to style and frequently causes you to wonder, "I can't do a thing with it!" But you can!

R5: Your fine, thin hair needs body. Start with a good professional cut. An all-over-length blunt cut is a good choice to give your hair fullness as well as a degree of versatility. Don't let your hair get any longer than shoulder length—beyond that its sheer weight will drag out any style you've managed to put in. To add some body and encourage your hair to hold in style, try a body wave. Hair coloring can add body too. Choose a shampoo for delicate hair, and shampoo off—this amount of dirt and oil will make fine, thin hair look dull. To finish off your hair, use a light spritz of a non-Aerosol hair mist to hold your curls longer.

Fing Thick Hair
If your hair is fine, each strand is silky and slippery and you may not realize how thin it is. If you try to cut it like fine, thin hair, you may end up with an unmanageable, unattractive, boring cut. Once you understand the kind of hair you really have, it's easy to cope with it and can look terrific.

R5: Take advantage of your thick hair by having it cut in layers, making sure each layer is blunt cut. If there's any natural curl, good cutting can encourage it. If your hair is very straight, you may need a body wave to keep your style in shape. Use a deep penetrating conditioner once a month to keep your hair shiny and manageable; twice a month if you have a perm. Be sure to choose a shampoo that's right for your hair. It must be mild, mild or dry. A body-building conditioner after every shampoo helps keep your hair looking smooth.

Coarse Thin Hair
Coarse hair has lots of body but if it's thick, you'll need respect styling to give it a look of fullness, especially on the bangs. Since your hair probably has a mind of its own, you have to concentrate on getting it under control.

R5: The cut is all important. When your hair is coarse, it generally has lots of bulk and is strong too. The cut of your hair is key, whether you wear it all one length or in layers to help create a fuller look. Frequent conditioning treatments are essential to keep your hair soft and manageable. Use a deep penetrating conditioning treatment at least once a month and a cream rinse after every shampoo. To keep your style under control, try a light spritz of a non-Aerosol hair mist.

Coarse Thick Hair
Coarse, thick hair can be hard to manage. Each strand is fat, sometimes airy, and there are many of them. You've probably thought you were cursed with coarse, thick hair, but properly treated, your hair can become the most beautiful kind of all.

R5: Expert cutting is essential. Generally, thick hair is cut to layers to help reduce bulk. Here the key is making the hair to easier to manage. Combed against having your hair cut too short, however—there will be no stopping it down. Choose a shampoo that is especially geared to your particular hair type, be it sly, dry or normal. Always follow your shampoo with a cream rinse to help tame your hair. But stay away from body-building cream rinses or conditioners—you've got all the body you need!

More is more by design. It's the first 120 mm cigarette. It was conceived and engineered to give you an all-new smoking experience. It's longer and leaner cigarette.

More with over 50% more puffs than a 100 mm cigarette. Yet More doesn't cost more. (Which means more for your money.) And because More is more flavorful (and surprisingly mild), it will be one of the most satisfying smoking experiences you've ever had.

More: It looks like more. It tastes like more. It's more in every way except price. More. It sits neat in your hand like it was made for it and fits your face like it found a home.

New Menthol More. It's a cooling blast. If you like menthol, now you can have More Menthol.

More Menthol gives you more coolness, more intense enjoyment. It's the new 120 mm menthol cigarette that starts with a blast, and cruises you through the longest, slowest-burning, coolest-smoking experience you've ever had.

And just like More Filters, More Menthol gives you more for your money.

Over 50% more puffs than a 100 mm menthol cigarette.

More Menthol. Long, lean, and burnished brown, it looks as cool as it smokes.

More Menthol. You don't have to pay more to get it. And once you've got it, you'll wonder where it's been all your life.

Sally Struthers, TV's "Gloria": Slowly, Painfully, She's "Learning to Be Me"

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

When Sally Struthers walks into a room, you know it. There's this confident air that you can't help but notice, and a regal bearing that one usually only sees in the big time. She's Queen Elizabeth's doppelgänger, and it's kind of inspiring.

But behind the regal exterior, there's a softer side to Sally. She's a woman who cares deeply about other people's feelings, and when it comes to her own feelings, she's not afraid to show them.

Sally: I've been doing a lot of self-reflection lately. It's been a challenging time for me, and I've had to learn to accept that I'm not perfect. But that's okay. I was born to be a perfectionist.

Weekly: Why have you been so reflective lately?

Sally: Because I've been doing a lot of self-reflection. I've been trying to come to terms with the fact that I'm not as perfect as I once thought I was. It's been a difficult process, but I'm learning.

Weekly: You seem to be very open about your feelings. How do you manage to balance your personal life and your public persona?

Sally: I try to be as honest and open as possible. I want people to know that I'm human, and that I make mistakes. It's important to be真实的 and genuine with others, because it helps to build trust.

Weekly: You have a close relationship with your husband, actor Tim Matheson. Have you ever shared your personal struggles with him?

Sally: Of course. We talk about everything, and it helps to have someone to talk to. It's important to have a support system, and I'm fortunate to have Tim as mine.

Weekly: What are you looking forward to in the future?

Sally: I'm looking forward to seeing where this new experience takes me. I'm excited to see what the future holds.
