Lawmakers Say Prison Reform Effort Fails

By JENNIFER GRAVES

Nearly two years after the dramatic riot at the maximum-security prison in Oklahoma, the state’s Corrections Department is struggling to implement a number of changes that are part of a comprehensive reform effort. The department is still trying to implement many of the changes that were promised after the riot, and some lawmakers are questioning whether the changes are being adequately implemented.

An analysis of the state’s prison population shows that in many cases, the changes are not being implemented as quickly or as effectively as the legislature had hoped.

Pentagon Shares Bribery Technique

WASHINGTON (CQ) - The Defense Department, which oversees a vast array of defense-related activities, has said it will share its experience with the Senate Armed Services Committee on how it has handled cases of bribery.

The department said it will discuss its experience with the committee on the handling of cases of bribery.

At a hearing held in recent days, the committee heard from the defense department and other federal agencies on how they handle cases of bribery.

The committee has been conducting an investigation into the matter, and the department and other agencies have been providing information to the committee.

2 Tornado Clouds Seen In City Area

Father, Son Die In 2-Car Crash

By MIKE BRAKE

Two tornadoes sightings in a few hours are reported in the city's east side area. One occurred in the area of 34th Street and Southeastern Avenue Friday night, police said.

Police said the tornado was in a residential area of the southeast side of the city. They said it was not severe.

The second tornado sighting was near 34th Street and Victory Center Road. They said it was not severe.

There were no immediate injuries reported.

Inside News

Boise, Idaho

Boise, Idaho, is a city located in the northwestern United States, along the Snake River. It is the largest city in the state of Idaho. Boise is the county seat of Ada County and is surrounded by the Boise Foothills.

Boise is home to Boise State University, the Idaho Military Institute, and a number of other institutions of higher education.

Boise is known for its history as a center for the Boise Cascade Corporation, which was once the largest paper manufacturing company in the world. However, the company went into bankruptcy in the early 1990s and was later sold to a group of private investors.

In addition to its industrial history, Boise is also known for its natural beauty. The city is located near the Boise National Forest and is surrounded by the Boise Foothills, which provide opportunities for outdoor recreation such as hiking, mountain biking, and camping.

The city is also the home of the Idaho State Museum, which houses a variety of exhibits related to the history and culture of the state. The museum features exhibits on the history of Idaho mining, Native American culture, and the region's natural history.

Boise is also known for its arts and culture. The city is home to a number of theaters, including the Boise State University School of Music and Dance and the Idaho Shakespeare Festival. The city also features a variety of museums and art galleries, as well as a thriving music and theater scene.

Boise has a diverse population, with a mix of native and immigrant residents. The city has a strong sense of community and is known for its friendly and welcoming atmosphere.

Overall, Boise is a city with a rich history and a vibrant culture, offering a wide range of opportunities for residents and visitors alike.

Church Traces History To First Tent Meeting

By CAYLA CINFERS,

In 1896, the first meeting of the church was held in a tent. The tent was located in a field near the current church building. The first service was held on May 30, 1896. The congregation grew quickly, and by 1900, the church had a brick building. Today, the church continues to serve its community with a modern facility.

Believing Not Necessarily the Same Thing As Practicing

By ROGER HICKEY

Believing is not the same as practicing. Believing involves faith and trust, while practicing involves action and commitment. It is possible to believe in something without fully committing to it.
