Sooner's Amendment Triggered Controversial Rules On Retarded

Bellmon Says HEW Misread His Intention

WASHINGTON — Those controversial new amendments to the so-called "HEW" standards would require states to support retarded persons in their own homes or in foster homes, a federal official said here yesterday. The new amendments, introduced by Rep. Jack Bellmon, R-Oklahoma, last week, are the result of the case of the Oklahoma City family of the retarded girl, David Lee and Nelson. Bellmon said the new rules would not result in Oklahoma

80 million in federal funds which would meet the new requirements. Bellmon said, "If HEW would "withdraw" these new amendments the Oklahoma can work out a new program for those retired persons who are not in need of assistance."

Bellmon said "I have a few high officials here who are willing to help."

The new amendments are expected to be voted on next week and if passed will become law on July 1.

An Open Letter To Consumers About Aerosols

From Samuel C. Johnson, Chairman, Johnson Wax, Racine, Wis.

Dear Customer:

For 80 years my family and company have worked to develop new, modern, efficient quality products. Our company still has a family sentiment, and I am the fourth generation member beard. We have four children whom, I hope, will want to carry on the tradition.

Aerosol Today

About 25 years ago, modern technology brought the American consumer a familiar symbol of the age:

the aerosol can. Ever since then, aerosols have been a part of our lives.

At first, we were not sure about the idea. A lot of confusion, misunderstanding, and even some hostility was expressed toward the new form of packaging.

Today, we know that aerosols are a safe and effective way to deliver a wide variety of products, including cosmetics, food, and household cleaners.

Fluorocarbons and Ozone

The most important problem right now is that some aerosol cans release a certain kind of propellant gas that some scientists fear may be damaging the upper atmosphere ozone layer around the world.

Although scientists have studied this issue for years, they have not yet reached a conclusive answer. It is important to stay informed about this issue and make choices that will help protect our environment.

Plume Formation

The propellant gas used in aerosol cans is referred to as a fluorocarbon. It has several trade names, including Freon, Gaseous, and others. Some scientists believe that the release of these gases into the atmosphere could have a significant impact on the earth's ozone layer.

The goal of our research is to find a safer propellant that can be used in aerosol cans. We are working with researchers around the world to develop new technologies that will help protect the environment.

Energy

Our company is committed to finding new ways to reduce our energy usage and help protect the environment. We are developing new technologies that will allow us to reduce our energy consumption while still providing high-quality products.

Scholars

We have been working with the National Science Foundation to promote STEM education and encourage young people to pursue careers in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics. We believe that education is key to ensuring a sustainable future for our planet.

Hotel

Our company is passionate about providing our customers with the best possible experience. We are constantly working to improve our products and services, and we are committed to providing excellent customer service.

Conclusion

We remain committed to finding a safer propellant and reducing our energy usage. We encourage our customers to make choices that will help protect the environment.

Sincerely,

Samuel C. Johnson

The proposed exemption of driver education programs from the requirement that all public schools in the state offer a full curriculum is a major step in the right direction. However, it is important to note that this exemption should not be used to cut corners when it comes to the quality of education provided. U.S. Detonates Warhead

PABST MEDIA, New York (UPI) — A hydrogen bomb was detonated off the coast of the U.S. on Thursday, in a test that some observers consider significant. The bomb, which was dropped from a U.S. air force plane, was designed to test the reliability of the nation's nuclear weapons arsenal. The test was conducted in the Pacific Ocean, about 1,000 miles west of the Hawaiian Islands, and involved a yield of 150 kilotons. This was the first such test since 1992.

Gut Barring Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the national charitable group announced Thursday that he was banning blood donations at all of the group's facilities across the country. The ban is in response to a growing number of cases of bloodborne diseases, including HIV and hepatitis C, that have been traced to contaminated blood products. The group is working with federal officials to develop a new protocol for screening donors.

Postal Workers March

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal workers have staged a nationwide walkout to protest a new management proposal that would require them to work longer hours without additional pay. The proposal, which was announced by the postal service on Thursday, would also eliminate thousands of jobs and close several post offices. Postal workers have warned that the changes could lead to a service disruption.

Carol Blames Press

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker of the House said Friday that the press is doing a disservice to the nation by questioning the president's actions. "The press is too critical," he said. "They need to focus on the positive things the president is doing for the country." The speaker has called for a "new era of civility in politics."
