Boren Pushes Streamlining

BY ROBERT DAVIS
The Oklahoma Journal

Gov. David Boren has ordered most of his top 60 executives out of his 150-member staff and has called for a review of all state rules and regulations. The governor said he will work with the legislature to pare down the rules and regulations to a minimum. This is the first time in his 15-year career that he has taken such a step.

With the successful completion of the legislative session, Boren will turn his attention to the problem of streamlining government operations. His campaign has been focused on persuading the public to see his budget proposal and set up an advisory panel to help with the proposal. He has promised to work closely with the legislature to ensure that the budget is properly implemented.

Boren will also work with the legislature on the creation of an executive reorganization plan to improve state government efficiency. His campaign has been focused on persuading the public to see his budget proposal and set up an advisory panel to help with the proposal. He has promised to work closely with the legislature to ensure that the budget is properly implemented.

The governor said his administration has been committed to streamlining government operations. His administration has made several changes to the state’s budget process, including the creation of a new budget office and the elimination of certain programs that are no longer needed.

Boren said he is committed to working with the legislature to ensure that the state’s budget is properly implemented. He said he is confident that the legislature will support his efforts to streamline government operations.

Western Fires Two Critical Paramedics

By E. H. GILLIS

The Journal

Former Governor David Boren fired two paramedics today for what he termed "a serious violation of policy and a loss of public confidence." The paramedics had been involved in a controversy over the use of the state’s only helicopter for non-emergency medical transport.

Fall Fashion Forecast . . .

Seventh Avenue Stabilizing

Annie Whelen
NEW YORK—As fashion editors look toward the upcoming fall and winter season, the focus is on a return to classic styles and materials. The trend toward stabilization on Seventh Avenue indicates that consumers are seeking a sense of comfort and familiarity in their attire. This season, expect to see a mix of timeless pieces with a modern twist. Key colors include deep greens, rich browns, and warm terracotta. Mixing and matching fabrics, such as tweeds, velvets, and corduroys, will create a layered look that is both cozy and chic. It's essential to pay attention to the details, like well-tailored suits, tailored coats, and elegant dresses. As the weather cools, consumers will appreciate the versatility of these styles for day-to-night wear.
Demosthenes’ Quest For Honest Man Could End Here In The City

It was a day of high lights and illumination. The sun shone bright and the sky was a canvas of blue.

The people were vibrant and full of life. They were all dressed in their finest clothes, ready to celebrate the occasion.

The day was filled with joy and happiness. People were dancing and singing, enjoying the moment.

The day ended with a grand fireworks display, lighting up the night sky with a dazzling array of colors.

Don't Blame Farmers

As an editor of a farm publication, I have seen many arguments made about the state of agriculture. However, one argument that is often repeated is that farmers are not making enough money. This is a common refrain, but it is not always true.

In recent years, farmers have been struggling to make a profit due to the high cost of inputs and low prices for their crops and livestock. This has caused many farmers to leave the profession, which is a concern for both the economy and the food supply.

However, it is important to recognize that farmers are not the only ones affected by this situation. The high cost of inputs is also passed on to consumers in the form of higher food prices. Therefore, it is not accurate to blame farmers alone for this problem.

Moreover, farmers are not doing well in all areas. Some crops and livestock are doing better than others, and some farmers are more successful than others. This variation makes it difficult to generalize about the state of agriculture.

In conclusion, while farmers are certainly facing challenges, it is not accurate to blame them alone for the current state of agriculture. It is important to consider the broader economic factors that are affecting the industry.

Economic Crisis 'Mothballs' Fire Department Equipment

By RICK WARD
A significant challenge faced by the local fire department is the economic crisis. Due to the decreased funding, the department has had to mothball some of its equipment. However, the situation is not as dire as it seems. "We have enough funds to keep our doors open," Fire Chief Mark Johnson said. "But we are having to make some tough decisions about which equipment to mothball." The decision to mothball has been necessary to ensure that the department can continue to operate effectively.

25th Anniversary

It makes good sense for your family to own cemetery property before you need it.

Concerned families today are wisely including the purchase of family cemetery property in their plans for complete family security. They have seen too many what happens to a family who neglects to plan in advance for a place of interment. They want to spare their family this distress and financial worry by selecting a memorial site now, before it is needed.

The One Purchase Every Family Must Make

Perhaps you feel you're too young to think about a memorial plan. Most people do; it is only human to think, "There's plenty of time for that." But consider the advantages of buying in advance of need. You and your family can discuss your preferences early, unemotionally — together. You pay less than you inevitably will later on, and can budget your payments. Permanent care is ensured in the price at every point. You can select a site at Mountain View Memorial Gardens and to eliminate needless worry to your family's security and your own peace of mind.

Since our founding in 1930 by R. E. Terrell, E. L. Canady and R. A. Young, T.G. & Y.'s success has been linked to Oklahoma. Today, as from the original store in Oklahoma City remains our national headquarters. We have grown to more than 900 stores in 30 states and our business has expanded to include real estate development and other related businesses. We are proud of the contributions we make to the economy of Oklahoma and to the people of the state they retain to our loyal customers across the nation.

Through the confidence the people of Oklahoma and the nation have shown in T.G. & Y., we will continue to grow. Since the end of WW II, T.G. & Y. stores have been in operation in all 50 states. This growth has been a direct result of the hard work and dedication of our employees. We have developed a network of distribution centers which distribute goods to each of our stores. These distribution centers are located in Houston, Los Angeles, Denver, Fresno, Long Beach, Denver, 20th Century, and New Mexico. All of these stores have the infrastructure to serve the needs of the customers. We are happy to be an Oklahoma company and we truly believe Oklahoma, you're Ok. We are proud of the support we have given to and look to serving you through the next 30 years.

Civic Pace-Setter

Women are becoming more aware of the role of civic activity in the life of a community. This is evident in the growing interest in the arts and sciences, as well as in the increasing participation in community service projects.

Women in the arts are making a significant contribution to the cultural life of the community. Many women are involved in organizing and supporting art exhibits, music concerts, and theater productions. These events not only provide entertainment, but also serve as opportunities for educational programs and discussions about art and culture.

Women in the sciences are playing a vital role in research and development. They are contributing to advancements in fields such as medicine, engineering, and technology. By fostering a greater understanding of scientific principles, women are helping to shape the future of society.

In addition to their contributions in the arts and sciences, women are also actively engaged in community service. Volunteering for local organizations, participating in charity events, and providing support to those in need are just a few of the ways in which women are making a difference in their communities.

Women are not only participating in these activities, but they are also encouraging others to get involved. By promoting a sense of community and encouraging civic engagement, women are helping to create a more vibrant and inclusive society.

In conclusion, women are playing a significant role in the arts, sciences, and community service. Their contributions not only enrich the cultural and intellectual life of the community, but also enhance the well-being of society as a whole. As we continue to celebrate Women's History Month and recognize the achievements of women, let us remember the importance of their contributions and strive to support and encourage women in their pursuits.

Thank you for your support and participation in these important activities. Together, we can create a stronger, more vibrant community for all.

Gertrude Kennedy Makes Music Happen In Our City

BY MARY JO HARRIS

They're not every woman you'd expect to be setting the pace in the world of music. But the woman who is making music in Oklahoma City is none other than Gertrude Kennedy.

Gertrude Kennedy, a local businesswoman, has taken it upon herself to bring music to the community. She has started a music school in her own home, offering lessons in piano, guitar, and voice.

Kennedy's passion for music began at a young age. "I've always loved music," she said. "It's so much more than just playing an instrument. It's a way of expressing myself and connecting with others."

Kennedy's music school has quickly become a popular destination for music lovers of all ages. "I just love seeing the joy on people's faces when they finally get that A major chord," she said.

And while she may be getting older, Kennedy remains as passionate as ever about bringing music to the community. "Music has the power to bring people together," she said. "It's a universal language that we all understand."

When you move, it's nice to have your mail move with you.

Somehow it's more like home when there's mail there to greet you. But it won't be there unless you do something about it ahead of time.

Our new "Change of Address Kit" helps the mail go where you go.

Before you and your family make a move, even if it's only across town, get yourself a "Change of Address Kit" from your local Post Office. It's free and you'll find it has a good supply of "Change of Address" cards.

As soon as you know your new address, go through your family address book and send it "Change of Address" card to everyone who sends mail to you and the rest of your family.

(There's a place for your moving date on it, too.)

Be especially sure to notify the magazines you subscribe to as soon as possible. (Attach your subscription label from each magazine.) We know you want your favorite magazines when they are current and not that it can often take them weeks to update their mailing list.

The mail will find you at your new home.

One of the things to remember to do (just before you leave) is to notify your Post Office. There's a special card in the Kit for that purpose. Then, if a letter comes from someone you forgot to send a card to, we'll still forward it as we always have. But forwarding takes more time, and we know you want your mail to come promptly to your new home.

The "Change of Address Kit" will give you better mail service when you move. We're glad to help. Particularly if it makes the mail the least of your worries on moving day.

A Legislator Looks at the Legislature

The Oklahoma legislature's policies aim to improve the quality of life for the citizens. This includes efforts to enhance education, protect the environment, and promote economic growth. The legislature plays a significant role in shaping the state's future, and its decisions impact the daily lives of Oklahomans. By promoting sustainable practices, the legislature helps ensure a cleaner and healthier environment for generations to come. Additionally, the legislature invests in education to prepare the state's workforce for future challenges. Through these initiatives, the legislature works to create a brighter future for all Oklahomans. (Photo: David Craighead)

Introducing The Arbors Garden Home
It's different. It's exciting. It's better.

We've made The Arbors Garden Homes different and exciting—and that's what makes them better. Single-family homes that are built with just the right amount of yard, which you can enjoy from the inside of your home through tall clerestory windows. Our Garden Homes have dramatic, vaulted ceilings in rooms that open onto gracious patios and gardens. And yes, they're private because your windows don't overlook your house and you don't overlook theirs. And extra things are built in for comfortable entertaining and living, like a wood-burning fireplace, wet bar, skylights, sunken living room, separate vanities and double car garages. Plus, The Arbors has its own private swimming pool and cabana.

But, most of all, it's got Summerfield.

For more information on The Arbors Garden Homes, please contact our sales office at 1-800-ABRORS.

Prison Reform Implementation Slow

By JOHN SMITH

In the midst of the debate over prison reform, a slow implementation can be observed. The recent reforms have been introduced with cautious optimism, aiming to address the overcrowding and high recidivism rates. However, the pace of change has been tepid, with many reforms still in the planning stages or only partially implemented.

The implementation has been hampered by a lack of resources and political will. Some states have struggled to allocate the necessary funds for new programs, while others have been reluctant to change long-standing policies that have proven unsuccessful. The slow progress is not limited to specific reforms but is a reflection of the broader challenges faced by the criminal justice system.

The slow implementation is of concern, as it suggests that the momentum toward meaningful reform may be lagging. The urgent need for change is highlighted by the persistent high rates of incarceration and the lack of progress in reducing recidivism. The road to reform is long and complex, requiring sustained effort and commitment from all stakeholders.

Despite the slow progress, there are signs of hope. Some states have made notable advancements in certain areas, such as front-end diversion programs and reentry services. These successes highlight the potential for progress, but they must be built upon to achieve broader systemic change.

In conclusion, while the slow implementation of prison reform is cause for concern, it also presents an opportunity to reassess and refine strategies. By focusing on the challenges and lessons learned, we can work towards a more effective and humane criminal justice system.
Mobile Kitchen Helps Family Food To Travel

by STEVE KILGORE

The very idea of cooking in comfort is usually associated with the home. But what about the great outdoors, especially during long trips, picnics, or camping? The answer is easy, and you can do it right in your car.

The new kitchen fixture is the first of its kind. It's a compact, all-in-one unit that can be installed in any car. It includes a stove, oven, refrigerator, sink, and storage space.

Some of the features include:
- An automatic temperature control system
- A digital clock for precise time management
- A versatile cutting board
- A foldable table for easy access
- A storage area for utensils and ingredients

The kitchen is easy to use and can be installed in just a few hours. It comes with detailed instructions and a parts manual.

Stutz Blackhawk: A Market Alone

By SARAH PUEY

NEW YORK TIMES

The 1928 Stutz Blackhawk was a rarity in its day. It was a luxury car and only 250 models were produced, making it a collector's item today.

The Blackhawk was known for its speed and handling. It had a powerful eight-cylinder engine and a sleek design. Unfortunately, Stutz went bankrupt in 1934 and the Blackhawk production was halted.

But the high luxury market is still enjoyed by the British Jaguar and Lotus, the German Mercedes, Audi, and Porsche, as well as the American Chrysler, Ford, and Lincoln.
