County Government Asking For $12.1 Million Budget

Oklahoma County government leaders are "in a binding panic" until July 30 over not enough money for the upcoming fiscal year. County Commissioner Bobby Mays added a shared concern that fiscal 1986-87 "will be a difficult one for the county's budget." The budget deficit range is $12.1 million, but that has been adjusted as negotiations continue.

The Oklahoma State Appropriations Board, which makes up the OKC budget, has approved a 3.5% increase in the general fund. However, the county has been asked to decrease its spending by $3.7 million.

"Essentially, we're going to be in a position where the county's budget will be cut," Mays said. "We're trying to work with the state to ensure that the county's budget will be able to meet its obligations." The county has proposed a budget that it says will provide for a 1% increase in property taxes.

"We're hoping to work with the state to ensure that the county's budget will be able to meet its obligations," Mays said. "We're trying to work with the state to ensure that the county's budget will be able to meet its obligations."}
