Advice Or Instruction? Soliciting PGA champ for advice is a notion so sentimental that even the most jaded of golfers are inclined to break out their clubs. This week, for instance, the National Golfers Assn. has announced that it will invite the PGA's top-notch players to play in the National Open, the world's largest amateur tournament. The National Open has long been considered the pinnacle of amateur golf, and the presence of the PGA's best players will undoubtedly add to its prestige. With the PGA and the National Golfers Assn. working together, the future of amateur golf looks bright. It's a win-win situation for everyone involved.

Playing It Too Safe

Real prices are higher than they need to be, in order to keep inflation in the basket. The latest product is a good example.

The same problem is a part of health care reform. It's the same problem that causes the government to spend more than it's necessary.

Health care is a vital service, not a commodity. It's a part of our lives and should be accessible to all.

The national health care system is failing. We need to take steps to improve it. This includes addressing the issue of access to care and making sure that healthcare is affordable for everyone.

Edmond City Council

Action Postponed On Wastes

The Edmond City Council was again postponed on a warmsupposed action to consider a new waste water treatment plant, and a consent order to bring it to the public's attention.

A representative from the Oklahoma Department of Environmental Quality (ODEQ) attended the meeting, and told the council that the proposal is being reviewed by the federal government and that there will be a public hearing in the near future to consider the proposal.

The ODEQ representative also discussed the possible impact of the proposed plant on the community, and the potential benefits of the new facility.

The council agreed to continue the discussion at a future meeting and to provide the public with an opportunity to comment on the proposal.
