Keating Urges Corrections Funding Probe

A new lawsuit has been filed by the California State Prison Association against the state Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, alleging that the department has failed to provide adequate funding for mental health services.

The lawsuit, filed in Los Angeles Superior Court, claims that the department has systematically failed to provide mental health services to inmates, resulting in a violation of their constitutional rights. The association represents thousands of inmates in California and is seeking $100 million in damages.

"The current system is broken," said John Keating, president of the association. "Inmates are being denied proper mental health care, which is a violation of their civil rights. We believe this lawsuit is necessary to bring about change."

Hospital Stay Not Too Cozy

By CLAUDIA MERRITT
The Oklahoman

The news was a shock to Dr. John B. Moore, head of the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Oklahoma Medical Center. His daughter, Mary, had been admitted to a mental hospital, and now he was being asked to provide a psychiatric evaluation of the facility.

Moore had always been interested in mental health issues, but he had never been involved in a situation like this before. He had been a family doctor for most of his career, and he had always tried to keep his personal and professional lives separate.

But now, he was faced with a difficult decision. He knew that his daughter was struggling, and he wanted to help her. But he also knew that the mental health system was often flawed, and he was afraid that his daughter might not get the treatment she needed.

He sat down with his family and talked about his options. Ultimately, they decided that the best thing to do was to allow her to receive the care she needed, even if it meant being in a mental hospital.

Moore began to study the facility in detail, and he was shocked by what he found. The conditions were deplorable, and the staff was poorly trained. He knew that his daughter was in danger, and he was determined to do something.

He began to speak out, calling attention to the problems in the mental health system. He wrote articles and gave talks, and he was eventually able to bring about some changes. His daughter was eventually able to get the help she needed, and he was proud of the work he had done.

But he knew that there was still much work to be done. The mental health system was still far from perfect, and he was determined to continue fighting for change.

The Downtown City Scene

By PHILIPPA WOLUME
The Oklahoman

The downtown area is a bustling hub of activity, with a wide variety of stores and restaurants to choose from. The sidewalks are always crowded with people, and the streets are filled with cars.

One of the most popular spots is the Oklahoman Bookstore, located in the heart of downtown. It's a classic, old-fashioned bookshop, with shelves of books stretching as far as the eye can see.

The store is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, and they have been running it for over 20 years. They have a wide selection of books, from bestsellers to classics, and they are always happy to help customers find what they're looking for.

The Oklahoman Bookstore is a perfect place to spend an afternoon, browsing through the shelves and enjoying a cup of coffee. It's a true downtown treasure, and a great spot to spend some time.

The fabric of this city
Editor's note:

The fabric of this city is a patchwork of cultures, with influences from all over the world. From the vibrant streets of downtown to the tranquil parks on the outskirts, there is something for everyone to enjoy.

But the heart of the city is the people, and the relationships they form. From the street vendors to the business owners, everyone plays a part in shaping the fabric of this city.

So take a walk around town, and see for yourself how the fabric of this city is woven together.

Big Names—Up Close

Oklahoma City-area art no doubt has a strong legacy that includes the work of artists like John H. Castle, who has been a mainstay in the community for several decades.

The show opens with a field of flowers in a corner of the gallery and a good look at the art. At least two other Oklahoma City visual artists have started showing their works at local galleries and juried shows in recent months, so it's a good idea to go out in full force for the exhibition, and bring some friends.

John Lewis, of Lincoln, is a member of the Oklahoma City Art Museum. His show is now on view at the museum.

Joanne Taylor, of Norman, is a member of the Oklahoma City Business Association. Her show is now on view at the Business Association.

Filmmakers Still Hurt, Kill Animals

New York City — Leading producer and director in the industry, cameraman, writer, and director, left his native New York City for Hollywood after facing threats of death and murder. The cameraman, identified as Mr. Williams, was one of the leading figures in the industry, known for his work in films and television. He left his home under heavy guard after receiving threats from unknown sources.

Williams, who has been involved in the industry for over 20 years, said he received death threats via social media and phone calls. He said he was forced to leave his home and travel to Hollywood for his safety.

"I was living in a constant state of fear," Williams said. "I was forced to leave my home and travel to Hollywood for my safety."
Hollywood Nostalgia Brings Fields Alive

By AL JOHN

NEW YORK — Throughout her career, Joan Rivers has always been associated with Fields in one way or another. From her first appearance on "Saturday Night Live" to her most recent film "The Anthropologist," Fields has been a constant presence in her life and work. In fact, it was Fields who first introduced Rivers to the world of entertainment.

"It's no secret," said Simon Fields, who played the part of Fields in the film "Star Wars: Episode IV - A New Hope," "Joan has always had a love for the beloved actress and comedienne."

Fields, who passed away in 1950, left a lasting legacy on the entertainment industry. Rivers, who was born in 1950, has worked to carry on Fields' legacy, both as a performer and as a writer. She has written several books about her mother, including "A Mother's Work" and "A Mother's Story."

"I think it's important to remember Fields and her impact on comedy," said Rivers. "She was a pioneer in the field of comedy, and her influence can be seen in the work of many modern comedians."

Fields' influence can be seen in Rivers' work as well. Rivers has been a regular on "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno" for over 15 years, and has also hosted her own talk show, "The Joan Rivers Show." She has written several books, including "Diary of a Mad Diva" and "冲击 the Wall," and has appeared in numerous films and television shows.

"I think Joan is the perfect person to carry on Fields' legacy," said Fields' brother, Louis Fields. "She has the same sense of humor and the same love for life that my sister had."

Despite her success, Rivers has always remained humble and grateful for her mother's influence. "I am so grateful to have been able to grow up with my mother," she said. "She taught me so much, and I will always be grateful for her guidance and support."

Rivers' love for Fields is evident in her work, and she continues to honor her mother's legacy by carrying on the tradition of comedy. "I am committed to carrying on my mother's legacy," she said. "I want to make her proud, and I want to continue to entertain people with my humor."

Rivers' dedication to her mother's legacy has not gone unnoticed. Last year, she was honored with a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame, a fitting tribute to her mother's influence on the entertainment industry.

"I am so honored to be given this recognition," said Rivers. "It is a testament to my mother's legacy, and I will always be grateful for her influence on my life."

Rivers' love for Fields is evident in her every word and action, and she continues to carry on the tradition of comedy that her mother started.

People ask me if I really enjoy smoking.

I sure do. And Salem Longs are why. They give me all the good cigarette taste I'm smoking for. Plus Salem's fresh menthol. And they're longer, too. That's why I enjoy smoking. That's why I smoke Salem Longs.

FOR ROBERT G. WOOLF, sports attorney
Do you think the outrageous salary demands of superstar athletes are damaging professional sports?—A. Krantz, New York, N.Y.
• Yes—so much so that I think we need some kind of federal agency to regulate the situation. Salaries just aren’t realistic any more. I realize I’m partially responsible for the situation, but it’s mainly the club owners’ fault. They just keep bidding for a player’s services until they reach sums no one believes. I represent so many athletes that I have to be concerned with the health of the industry. It’s far more important to have the franchises remain healthy than to have certain individuals receive astronomical salaries. I think we need government help to solve the problem.

FOR ALEX KABRAS, sportscaster
A friend of mine says that you were one of the few modern pro football players who didn’t go to college. True?—J.S., Amherst, N.Y.
• I attended the University of Iowa for two terms—Truman’s and Eisenhower’s—and played football for three years. I did not get a degree.

FOR SONNY BONO
Do you think Chastity will go into show business when she grows up?—H.R., Ashbury Park, N.J.
• Definitely. She’s already let us know what she wants to do. Some stars keep their kids away from the parents’ professional lives. So when those kids come into contact with entertainers, it’s strange and frightening. We never did that with Chastity. Performing is as much a part of her as it is of us. I think she’s very talented and has that magic quality.

FOR TINY TIM
I have heard conflicting stories about your marital status. Are you or are you not divorced from Miss Vicky?—A.J., Bristol, Tenn.
• As far as I’m concerned, I am still married to Miss Vicky, no matter what steps she has taken to alter that status. Because I feel this way, I will never marry anyone else while she is alive.

FOR MARILYN McCOO of “The Fifth Dimension”
As a group, do you tend to disagree at all?—A.C., Bristol, Tenn.
• Yes, about almost everything, but thankfully not all the time. Our biggest argument is with Ron [Trombon]. We want him to lose weight because we think he’s too heavy and it’s bad for his health. He disagrees. He thinks he’s just right. That’s a big bone of contention among us.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR
Engelbert Humperdinck is my favorite singer, but all I know of him is that he’s from England. Fill me in, please.—Susan Newhouse, Bradley, Ill.
• Born Arnold Donat, May 2, 1936. The sixth of ten children of a British army captain in India, he lived there during World War II. At 21, he won a talent contest. As “Cerry Donat” he made ten flop records, felt he was a washout, had a nervous breakdown and wound up on welfare. A chance meeting with Corinna Mills, his future manager, changed all that. Mills dubbed him Engelbert Humperdinck and Eng was on his way. He, Patricia and their four children live on a 50-acre English estate. His closest show-business friend is Tom Jones, about whom he said at New York’s Westchester Premiere Theater: “Tom doesn’t come from Whales. He comes from parents, just like you and me.”
I don’t smoke to be like everybody else.

I smoke for taste. I smoke Winston. Winston gives me real taste and real pleasure. In my book, that’s the only reason to smoke. For me, Winston is for real.
Our cigarette is More.

Put your cigarette against it.

Compare your cigarette to ours and you'll find that ours is More. The first 120mm cigarette. More in every way except price.

Long, lean and burnished brown, More has more style. It has more flavor. It has more. Over 50% more puffs than most 100mm cigarettes. Yet More doesn't cost more.

And whether you smoke regular or menthol cigarettes, you can get more going for you. Because both More and More Menthol deliver quality like you've never experienced before.

They smoke slower and draw easy for more enjoyment. They're more flavorful. Yet they're surprisingly mild.

They're More. More and More Menthol. They sit neat in your hand like they were made for it and fit your face like they found a home.

Prince Charles

Unlike the fine men of the British aristocracy who usually don't wear a hat or a suit, Philip—unlike his brothers—has been seen in both a hat and a suit. This is perhaps a more attractive resemblance to Philip than the one More Menthol. He is tall, he is graceful, he is handsome.

He has a father who is a king. He has a mother who is a queen. He has sisters who are princesses. He has a brother who is a prince. He has a grandmother who is a queen.

He is Philip Mountbatten, Prince of Wales, the second in line to the British throne. He is the son of Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh. He is the brother of Princess Anne, Prince Andrew, and Prince Edward.

He is the future King of England, and he is known for his intelligence, his charm, and his sense of humor.

He has been described as a man of many interests, including polo, tennis, and photography. He is also known for his love of sports cars and his ability to speak several languages.

Prince Charles is a symbol of hope and promise for a new generation of British royalty, and he is often referred to as the "People's Prince." He is a symbol of the future of the British monarchy, and he is a symbol of the future of the world.
