Seek Halt On New Regulations

KANSAS CITY - (AP) - The directors of the Day Care Operators Association here have filed suit to delay the state's new regula-

The regulations are the product of a

and specifications that the operators say are impossible to meet.

The operators have called for a delay of the regulations by six months to allow them

Police Communications Plan Draws Criticism From ACOG

By TERRY HARRIS

The Oklahoma Nurses Association said Wednesday that the state's new communications plan for police agencies is based on inaccurate information and will result in a decrease in the quality of service.

The plan, which was announced last week, would consolidate 911 communications services into a single center. The association said the move is a step toward the privatization of public services and will lead to a reduction in the quality of service.

"We are concerned about the potential impact of this plan on the public," said association president Jane Smith. "The consolidation of services will result in a decrease in the number of trained dispatchers available to handle emergency calls.

The association said that the plan would also result in a decrease in the number of police officers available to respond to emergencies.

The plan was announced by the state treasurer's office and the state attorney general's office.
