Not An Idyllic Life-style...

Communal Living—Women Still Do The Housework

By Dr. Jane Brody

The idea of living in a communal arrangement seems to be more popular today than ever before. Many people find it an attractive way of sharing the responsibilities of life and providing a sense of community. However, in some cases, the idea may not be as idyllic as it seems on the surface.

The Policy Makers

The Policy Makers' role is becoming increasingly more influential in the country's affairs, as the influence of the judiciary and the press wanes.

The President and the Congress must work together to ensure that policies are in the best interest of the American people.

The critical issue facing Congress is the need to cut back on deficits. The current budget is projected to be in deficit, and Congress must act to reduce spending or increase taxes.

The recent Supreme Court decision on the constitutionality of the recent tax increases has been widely criticized. The decision could have far-reaching implications for the future of the economy.

The People's Voice

The people have spoken, and they want action. The government must respond to the people's needs.

Oregon Performance
Shouldn't Dampen
Heisman Chances

Tom Wright's column

Joe Washington didn’t have one of his better games last Saturday against the University of Oklahoma, but he still had the chance to move into second place in the nation in rushing.

Washington, who gained 9 yards in 10 games last year, gained 12 yards on 29 carries against Oregon State, primarily because of the defense.

Washington was injured at Oklahoma State, which slowed him down and didn’t help.

Washington was surprised to see a carry against Oregon State, even though he didn’t think he was in the game.

I was disappointed in my performance and during the game. I played poorly and didn’t expect to gain yardage.

I was working to get in the lineup, but I thought I was in the game. We were trying to keep the ball away from us.

"The ball in very cold weather made it very hard to get the ball. I was not prepared with the way we were playing. I have been losing a lot of yardage and we have to work on that," said Washington.

"The ball was not the way we expected it to be," said Washington.

"In general, our performance was not good. The ball was not the way we wanted it to be. We have to keep working on it."

Trenary Follows Tough Act With A Tougher Act

by Mike Harmon

Trenary had a tough act to follow. He had been successor to Edmond, but he had a tough job following in the footsteps of Edmond's successor, Don Trenary.

The build-up was in full swing as the outside world eagerly awaited the outcome of the upcoming showdown between Trenary and Edmond. Trenary had been a steady performer, but Edmond had been the king of the hill. It was clear that Trenary had his work cut out for him if he was to follow in Edmond's footsteps.

But Trenary was not one to back down easily. He had worked hard to prepare himself for this moment, and he knew that he had the abilities to succeed. He had trained hard, studied the games, and he was ready to give his best performance.

As the game began, Trenary was a shadow of his former self. His movements were slow, his decisions were hesitant. It was clear that he was struggling to keep up with Edmond's pace. But Trenary refused to give up. He fought hard, and his determination paid off.

In the end, Trenary emerged victorious. He had proven that he was capable of following in Edmond's footsteps. He had shown that he was a worthy successor, and he had earned the respect of the outside world.

Trenary Follows Tough Act With A Tougher Act. He had done it. He had followed in Edmond's footsteps, and he had proven that he was a worthy successor. He had shown that he was a true champion, and he would continue to work hard to maintain his position at the top of the heap.

Jordan Joins Brother's Act

by John Martin

For his performance, Jordan is honored at the Oklahoma Journal of the Arts. He is named as the best actor of the week.

The list of performers was led by John Trenary, Don Trenary's son. John Trenary is the son of the legendary Trenary, who has been at the top of the heap for many years. John's performance was praised by the critics, who lauded his ability to bring a new life to the old stories.

But John was not the only one to shine. His brother, Jordan, also made a significant impact. Jordan's performance was described as a highlight of the show. His ability to connect with the audience and bring the stories to life was praised.

The audience was in awe as Jordan took the stage. They were captivated by his performance and the way he brought the stories to life. Jordan's talent was undeniable, and he was quickly becoming a favorite among the audience.

The performances of John and Jordan were just two of the many highlights of the show. The cast was talented, and they worked together to create a truly unforgettable experience.

The audience left the theater feeling satisfied, knowing that they had witnessed a truly exceptional performance. John and Jordan's act was a shining example of what can be achieved when two talented performers come together to create something magical.
Hogs Boast Slick Trio In Backfield

by Tom Dirato

TULSA ORCHARD - Oklahoma State's new defensive coordinator, Ron Peterson, cleared the way for the much-discussed trio of backs that led theCowboys to their victory over Texas Tech Saturday. The backs, Donnie Anderson, Shane Jackson, and Mike Edwards, will be returning to the starting line-up this week.

Anderson, Jackson, and Edwards are all big men, but they have a quickness and agility that make them hard to stop. They are all fast and strong, with good balance and coordination.

Anderson leads the way with his size and strength, while Jackson is a speedster who can make big gains in a hurry. Edwards, on the other hand, has a combination of strength and speed that makes him a force to be reckoned with.

The backs have been a focal point of the Cowboy offense this season, and they will be relied upon to lead the way against the Sooners.

Langston's Off To Quick Start

by John Martin

The Sooners are off to a quick start this season, thanks to the performance of quarterback Tom Long. Long, who has been a starter for the past two seasons, has been sharp in both games so far.

In the season opener against Oklahoma State, Long threw for 285 yards and three touchdowns. He also ran for a touchdown, helping the Sooners to a 42-21 victory.

Against Texas Tech, Long completed 13 of 20 passes for 239 yards and two touchdowns. He also ran for a touchdown, helping the Sooners to a 38-24 win.

As Long continues to develop, the Sooners will be a tough team to stop.
