Polarization among the candidates continues as the final days of the campaign progress. In the race for Mayor, John Goss has been leading the field with 45% of the vote. His opponent, Bill Mamtoya, has lagged behind with 32%. Goss's campaign has been focused on the need for economic development and job creation. Mamtoya, on the other hand, has emphasized his experience in local government.

Your many, money advantages at The Arbors.

Buying a home now at The Arbors can put money in your pocket — in three different ways:

1. You will be able to apply for 8% financing, for which we have a source until December 31. Mortgage rates are going up; 8% financing could save you several thousand of dollars.

2. If you buy now, you can get in before we announce a price increase of as much as $2,000 on our homes. It's coming, in November.

3. We have some homes on which you will receive $2,000 from your Uncle in Washington, in the form of a tax credit.

All three, plus the tax and equity advantages of home ownership, put them together and it's a lot of money. Each individually is a pretty substantial amount.

At The Arbors, we don't sell on price. We sell on quality. If you know about our homes, you know that. But facts are facts, and money is money.

Old Mixes With New In Historical Homes
By BERTHA HAGAN

The rooms in the home of Mrs. John Moreland, 2213 Haywood Road, have been decorated many times, but this is the first time she has ever decorated in red. The colors of the room are of her choosing, she explains. In the bedroom, a red bedspread, red sheets, and red curtains, combined with the red slipcovers on the chairs, give the room a warm, inviting feel.

Mrs. John Moreland's home is one of several historical homes in the area that will be open for tours this weekend. The tours, which are sponsored by the Historical Society of Greenville, will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Mrs. Moreland's home was built in 1920 and was once the home of her great-grandparents. The house has been in the family for generations and has been passed down from one generation to the next. It was recently restored by her father, who bought the house from his mother.

The home has been decorated with antiques and family heirlooms, and the rooms are filled with family photos and mementos. The living room features a large fireplace, and the dining room has a beautiful china cabinet.

Mrs. Moreland's home is just one of several that will be open for tours this weekend. The other homes include the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, 2214 Haywood Road, and the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, 2212 Haywood Road.

The tours are free and open to the public. Visitors are encouraged to dress comfortably and to take their time exploring the homes.

Spanish Artist To Be Honored At Preview Reception

The Spanish artist Manuel Martinez will be honored at a preview reception for his exhibition, "Manuel Martinez: Recent Works," at the Greenville Art Museum on Thursday, October 12.

The reception will be held from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the museum, located at 2213 Haywood Road. The exhibition, which will be on display from October 12 to November 12, will feature a variety of the artist's recent works, including paintings, sculptures, and installations.

Manuel Martinez is a well-known artist who has exhibited his work in galleries and museums across the country. He is known for his vivid use of color and his unique approach to painting.

The reception is open to the public and is free of charge. Visitors are encouraged to attend and to enjoy the artwork on display.

Mrs. Boren To Fete Women Educators At Mansion Party

Mrs. John Boren, 2213 Haywood Road, will host a party for women educators at her home on Sunday, October 8. The party, which is in honor of the upcoming centennial of women's suffrage, will be held from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the mansion.

Mrs. Boren is a long-time supporter of education and has contributed to many schools and educational organizations in the area. She is known for her dedication to improving education in the community.

The party will feature refreshments and a tour of the mansion, which is one of the oldest homes in the area. The mansion has been in the Boren family for generations and features a variety of antiques and artwork.

The event is open to the public and is free of charge. Visitors are encouraged to attend and to celebrate the centennial of women's suffrage with Mrs. Boren and her guests.

Fashionable Leg-Warmers To Add Color To Slopes

Clotheslines ... by Marylou

To wear a pair of leg-warmers is to be high fashion! It's a new look for ski slopes. Glasses, leggings, scarves, hats, and even the most ordinary scarf can be turned into a fashionable ensemble by adding a pair of leg-warmers. With the right choice of colors and materials, you can create a unique and comfortable outfit that is sure to turn heads on the slopes.

Leg-warmers come in a variety of colors and styles, from solid colors to bold stripes and checks. They are typically made of a soft, warm material such as wool or cotton and can be worn over pants or leggings. They are available in different lengths, from just above the ankles to mid-calf, and can be easily folded or rolled up to give more coverage or exposure as desired.

The key to wearing leg-warmers is to choose colors that complement your outfit and the overall look you are going for. Bright and bold colors can add a pop of color to a neutral outfit, while softer shades can blend in with a more subdued palette.

In addition to their fashionable appeal, leg-warmers are also practical. They provide extra warmth and protection for your legs, especially in colder weather. They are also easy to pack and carry, making them a convenient accessory for those who prefer to keep their belongings in a backpack or a small bag.

Leg-warmers are a fun and stylish addition to any ski outfit. They offer a unique way to express your personal style and are perfect for those who want to stay fashionable while still being active and comfortable.

British Rule
PBS Waves (Again)

By REILYN JOHN JORDAN

What's next for the American Revolution? The war seems to be headed for a showdown in the South. British officials are bracing for a harder fight, as they prepare to defend their stronghold of Charleston. The tide of the war is shifting back in favor of the American colonists.

Several years ago, British military leaders recognized that their position in the American colonies was untenable and began planning for a retreat. However, the British government refused to accept the inevitable and continued to send forces to the colonies, hoping to turn the tide of the war.

In 1780, the British launched a series of raids and attacks against the American colonies, hoping to disrupt their supply lines and削弱 their will to continue the fight. The British also attempted to capture key American cities, such as Charleston, South Carolina. The war was at a stalemate and the British were losing ground.

But the war was far from over. The British continued to fight, hoping to come out on top. The American colonists, on the other hand, were determined to win independence and were prepared to fight for it. The war would continue for several more years, with neither side gaining a clear advantage.

beauty. The landscape was magnificent, with snowcapped mountains and grassy plains stretching out before us.

We drove to the top of the Butte, overlooking the city, and were rewarded with a breathtaking view. The city was situated in a valley surrounded by mountains, and the architecture was a mix of modern and historic styles.

The people of Butte were friendly and welcoming. They offered us tea and cookies and showed us around the city.

We were impressed by the natural beauty of the area and the cultural diversity of the people. Butte is a great place to visit and experience the beauty of the American

I smoke for only one reason.

I don't smoke a brand to be like everybody else. I smoke because I enjoy it. I smoke Winston Super King. Super King's extra length gives me an extra smooth taste that's real. Real taste—and real pleasure—are what smoking's all about. Winston is for real.
FOR FRED A. ADLER, criminologist and author of "Sisters in Crime: The Role of the New Female Criminal" Are certain crimes more likely to be committed by one sex than the other?—F.N., Dover, Del.

Until quite recently, the female offender confined her activities to prostitution and shoplifting. But as women strive to gain equal status with men in education and business, they also are rejecting the role of "second class" criminal and turning to more lucrative crimes of burglary, robbery, auto theft, embezzlement and extortion. For crimes of violence, cultural myths rather than genetic facts supported our erroneous beliefs regarding the "weaker sex." Anthropologists, behavioral scientists and now criminal justice personnel are discovering that women are inherently equal to men in their capacity to engage in aggressive behavior.

FOR WOODY ALLEN

Who is your favorite comedian?—N.B., Austin, Texas

Bob Hope. When I was a teenager, I adopted his persona. Before going out on a date, I could only remain calm by convincing myself that I was Bob Hope. But to tell you the truth, most comedians scare me. If I'm scheduled to go on the Tonight Show or "Harry Caray" show, I call up first to make sure no one else that's funny will be on with me. I just can't stand the kind of competition that requires me to be aggressive.

FOR MARY FLEMING, professional football star

Coach Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins is often compared to Vince Lombardi. As the only NFL player who worked for both, do you think they're alike?—Richard Ryan, North Tonawanda, N.Y.

Well, both were disciplinarians who demanded a lot. But Shula is more personable. You can walk up to him and practice and say, "Coach, can I see you a minute?" He'll stop and talk to you. With Lombardi you had to make an appointment.

FOR KAYE BALLARD

Since you've never been married, how can you give such realistic portrayals of wives and mothers?—Kenneth Schwartz, Clifton Park, N.Y.

You don't have to be dead to do a dying scene. Seriously, I admire, respect and have great empathy for mothers. I guess that's what does it—identifying with the character you're playing.

FOR VINCENT BUGLIOLO, author of "Helter Skelter: The True Story of the Manson Murders"

Why wasn't Charles Manson charged with the murder of the baby Sharon Tate was carrying?—Mrs. Martine Dunn, Santa Fe, N.M.

Under California law in 1969, murder was defined as the killing of a human being, and legally an unborn baby was not considered to be a human being. However, in 1970, the California Penal Code was amended to state that murder was the killing of a human being or fetus.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

What has Leonard Nimoy been doing since "Star Trek" went off the air?—J.T., Glendale, Calif.

Quite a bit. He's working on his third book, "I Am Not Spock." The other two were on photography and poetry. "No one realizes I'm an incurable romantic," says Nimoy. "I have a reputation for being cold and unfriendly. When people read my poems, they think I'm flossed. Nimoy is hosting a group of TV specials: lecturing, acting in rem drops, and preparing to do a Shakespeare comedy in Pittsburgh. He's making a rare TV show appearance on "The $5,000 Pyramid," "That's one of the few games I play well," says Nimoy. And, as you might expect, he reads a lot of science fiction, partly because "I'm expected to be informed to the hilt on things about outer space. I don't want to look like an idiot by being unable to answer."
"What we look for in a candidate is lots of money, an I.Q. of 120 and his promise to keep his mouth shut." — Hal Evry

How People Vote — An Eye-Opening Look At How Experts See It and Shape It

By David Chagall

Every half a million people run for public office. They spend a couple of hundred dollars, but they haven't got the right set of ideas and what's happening. They put on their ties, their pants and clothing — but there's no one else. People don't want to vote. People who vote are in an obvious and obvious Somerset.

"What do you think it is that makes them admire? A well-dressed radical? A cynical professor an angry revolutionary? Not even close. Those words come to the mouth of one of our New England colleagues in American politics the campaign slogan. Hal Evry is an area political campaign manager. Beating hands campaigning candidate, in writing his TV campaign, his radio commercials, his newspaper advertising, his press materials, research and tells them exactly what they must do in an election. And then he does it for him with an ensigning 90 percent of the campaign that he has mastered.

The first thing Evry looks for in a candidate is not talent or support, good looks or even dedication.

"What we look for in a candidate is what makes it in money, an I.Q. of 120 and the promise to keep his mouth shut."

Opening up an office of an office Democratic in Los Angeles, Evry packs a campaign full of the country, even in Canada. He claims that some of his successful clients include Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, former Gov. David Hall of Oklahoma, Atlantic Senate Ted Kennedy and Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles. Money, he maintains, is the present asset and any candidate can have — the more the better.

"I'm a firm believer that poor people should not be allowed to run for public office."

According to campaign expert Hal Evry, the candidates who run on a platform of "five percent of the people making 95 percent of the money" are the ones who win the election. However, this phrase has been criticized by some as being too broad and not accurately reflecting the true nature of the political process.

"I'm a firm believer that poor people should not be allowed to run for public office."

Money is the key to winning an election. It allows candidates to hire top-notch consultants, to buy advertising time on television and radio, and to pay for the costs of running a campaign. But money alone is not enough to ensure victory. Candidates must also have a good message, a strong organization, and a large base of support.

"People don't want to vote."

Evry's analysis is clear and straightforward. In the latest California election, there was a turnout of registered voters. Of those, 60 percent voted. But only 13 percent of the people who voted actually cast a ballot. This is a problem because it means that many people who are eligible to vote do not.

"People don't want to vote."

Evry's insight is not new. The problem of low voter turnout has been a persistent one in American politics. But it is one that candidates and their supporters must confront if they want to have any hope of winning an election.

"People don't want to vote."

Money is not the only reason why people do not vote. Other factors include the complexity of the issues, the lack of interest in politics, and the difficulty of getting to the polls on election day.

"People don't want to vote."

Evry's message is clear: if you want to win an election, you must do more than simply have money. You must have a good message, a strong organization, and a large base of support. And you must do it in a way that will make people want to vote.

Lose Weight While You Sleep!

ENTERTEINERS, ATHLETES, TEENAGERS, EVEN FAMOUS WEIGHT-LOSS PROGRAM FLUNK-OUTS HAVE LOST 10, 20, 50, UP TO 90 POUNDS OF UGLY FAT!
To the 56,000,000 people who smoke cigarettes.

A lot of people have been telling you not to smoke, especially cigarettes with high 'tar' and nicotine. But smoking provides you with a pleasure you don't want to give up.

Naturally, we're prejudiced. We're in the business of selling cigarettes. But there is one overriding fact that transcends whether you should or shouldn't smoke and that fact is that you do smoke. And what are they going to do about that?

They can continue to extort you not to smoke. Or they might look reality in the face and recommend that, if you smoke and want low 'tar' and nicotine in a cigarette, you smoke a cigarette like Vantage.

And we'll go along with that, because there is no other cigarette like Vantage—Except Vantage.

Vantage has a unique filter that allows rich flavor to come through it and yet substantially cuts down on 'tar' and nicotine.

Not that Vantage is the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette. (But you probably wouldn't like the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette, anyway.)

The plain truth is that smoke has to come through a filter if taste is to come through a filter. And where there is taste there has to be some 'tar'. But Vantage is the only cigarette that gives you so much flavor with so little 'tar' and nicotine. So much flavor that you'll never miss your high 'tar' cigarette.
