Businesses Cut From Bill

In a move that cuts the business community a significant chunk of money, the city council has approved a proposal that would cut the city's budget by 5%.

The council approved the proposal after a heated debate, with some members arguing that the cuts were necessary to balance the budget, while others were concerned about the impact on local businesses.

The cuts will affect a number of businesses across the city, including restaurants, retail stores, and service providers. The city's mayor has said that the cuts will not affect essential services, but many businesses are concerned about the impact on their bottom line.

Jury

The city council has appointed a new jury to hear a case involving a local business. The jury will be responsible for deciding whether the business violated city codes.

The business in question has been accused of operating without a proper permit, and the city council has ordered it to cease operations until the permit is obtained.

Sunshine

The mayor has announced a new program to support local businesses. The program will provide funding for businesses that are struggling to survive.

The program will be funded through a new sales tax on luxury goods, and will be available to businesses that have been in operation for at least five years.

Hurkos

The city council has approved the closure of a popular restaurant due to health code violations. The restaurant has been cited multiple times for sanitation issues, and the city council has determined that it is no longer able to operate safely.

The closure will affect dozens of employees, but the city council has said that it was necessary to protect public health.

Proposals Set On Oil Price

WASHINGTON, D.C. - President Carter announced today that he will propose a permanent price ceiling on oil. The ceiling will be established at $7 per barrel, which is 30% below the current market price.

The President said the proposal is designed to stabilize the oil market and provide relief to consumers. He added that the price ceiling will be reviewed annually and adjusted as necessary.

The announcement was met with mixed reactions from the oil industry, with some applauding the measure and others expressing concern about its potential impact on production.

Sadat Asks Palestinian Support

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt has called for international support for the Palestinian cause. He made the appeal during a speech delivered today at the United Nations.

Sadat said that the Palestinian people have been subjected to decades of displacement and suffering. He called for the international community to recognize the Palestinian right to self-determination and to support a just peace in the region.

Sadat's speech was met with applause from many in the United Nations audience. However, some Arab leaders criticized the speech, saying it did not go far enough in supporting Palestinian rights.

Iowa Mayor Loses Post To Woman, Ends 40-Year Stretch In Office

LAWRENCE, Ia. (AP) — The 40-year reign of Democrat Harold V. Barlow as mayor of Lawrence ended Wednesday night when Republican Ellen Smith defeated Barlow, 3,012 votes to 2,343.

Barlow, 64, has been mayor of the central Iowa city since 1963. Smith, 45, is an elementary school principal and former state House member.

Barlow, who has faced financial problems in his campaign, predicted he would lose the election.

"It's a new day in Lawrence," Smith said. "We're going to make sure that Lawrence is a great place for all the people of Lawrence." — The Lawrence Journal-World

Voters Across Nation Reject State Bond Issues, New Taxes

By United Press International

In one of the most significant developments in state and local politics in many years, voters across the nation have soundly rejected several bond issues and new taxes that were presented for approval.

The most significant of the bond issues that were defeated was a $1.5 billion bond issue in New York City, which would have paid for the construction of a new subway line.

In California, voters rejected a $2 billion bond issue to fund education reform.

In Texas, a $3 billion bond issue to build a new stadium for the Dallas Cowboys was also defeated.

Need Intelligent Preparedness

Author: Congress—is a major part of our safety net in order to contain national risks, especially in the event of a war.

Did the United States act in an intelligent way? It is clear that our actions are not sufficient to contain national risks.

It is important to note that the United States has been involved in wars, but the role of Congress has been to ensure that the military is prepared to handle any situation.

We need to be more intelligent about our preparedness and ensure that Congress is involved in decision-making processes.
