Reagan Unruffled By 'Gun' Incident

MIAMI (UPI) — Ronald Reagan remained unshaken by the discovery that presidential personal assistants in his White House determined to a defrocked air force world war hero brought a loaded weapon to the White House.

A source familiar with the incident said the gun was found in the personal assistant's room when his wife was searching for his lost keys after he had left the building.

The source added that the personal assistant, who was a former member of the United States Air Force, had been assigned to guard Reagan's suite of offices in the West Wing of the White House.

The incident was not reported to the FBI, which is responsible for investigations of weapons possession, according to the source.

Earlier reports suggested that the personal assistant had claimed to have accidentally brought the weapon to the White House, but this was later disputed by the source.

Reagan told the White House that he was unaware of the incident and had no knowledge of the personal assistant's activities.

In an interview with the Associated Press, Reagan said, "I take these things very seriously, and I have every confidence in the judgment of my personal assistants."

He added that he had been advised by his security team that the personal assistant had been dismissed from his position.

Reagan further stated that he would take further steps to prevent such incidents from occurring in the future.

In a statement to the press, Reagan said, "My administration recognizes the importance of ensuring the safety and security of the White House and its occupants."

The personal assistant, who had been a member of the White House staff for three years, was reportedly let go immediately.

In a subsequent statement, the White House said that the gun had been confiscated and the incident was under investigation.

The White House declined to comment on Reagan's knowledge of the incident, stating that it was a matter of personal security.

Reagan added that he was confident that the incident would not affect his ability to carry out his duties as president.

In conclusion, the source stated that the incident had sparked a renewed focus on the need for stricter security protocols at the White House, with additional measures being implemented to prevent similar incidents in the future.

Boren Changes Strategy

BY JOHN GILLES

Boren, who is a major player in state politics, has announced that he will no longer seek the governor's office. Instead, he will run for the state Senate.

Boren's decision comes after he lost the gubernatorial race to incumbent David Boren in 2020. Despite the loss, Boren remained popular among voters and was expected to make another run for the governorship.

However, in recent weeks, Boren has faced increasing pressure from within his party to challenge Boren for the Senate seat vacated by Edmondson, who is retiring.

In a statement, Boren said, "I've decided to make a change in direction and focus my energy on the state Senate."

Boren's decision is likely to have significant implications for the state's political landscape, with both major parties weighing in on the race.

BY RAY ATTREYSEX

In 2022, the Oklahoma County Board of Assessors made a decision to hire Ray Baker as its new manager.
