Eye Care Nears Computer Stage

Dr. David Parson

14 S.

Parson was one of the 800 optometrists who members attending the two-day convention of the American Academy of Optometry were asked to present their findings. Parson was earlier the ophthalmologist for the University of Oklahoma College of Optometry and is teaching at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School.

"There's a good deal of development going on in the computer area, but for the most part, the research is still in the experimental phase," Parson said Tuesday. "There's no definite information at this point on how vision problems may be treated with computers." Parson added that the computer may be useful in the future in helping people with vision problems.

FIRST OF TWO PARTS

IT'S MUGGING SEASON

By W. JEFF HAMBLEY

The Journal Staff

"Mugger bait" is not a 100 percent accurate description of the type of individual who commits the crimes.

"There are a lot of factors involved in the crime of mugging," Parson said. "Mostly, it's about money. The mugger is looking for an easy way to get money, and he may not be thinking about the future.

The mugger is expected to continue in the future, and the community is expected to take precautions against the crime.

"These little steps, along with a lot of others," Parson said, "will help prevent the crime from occurring again."

Money Flows In Record Amounts

by Mike Harmon

There is something about a business recession that brings out the best in the human spirit. Yes, the human spirit.

The best of times are often the best of times because they bring out the best in us. We are not always aware of this, but the fact remains that when the going gets tough, the tough get going.

Some of the most successful businesses have been started during recessions. Some of the most successful people have been those who didn't give up during hard times.

It's not easy, but it's possible. And it's worth it. Because when you come out the other side, you'll be stronger and better than you ever thought possible.
Murray's Enjoying The View

by Tom Dixon

When Murray opened up her window, the sky was filled with a dazzling array of colors. The sun was just beginning to set, casting a warm glow over the city. Murray closed her eyes and took a deep breath, feeling a sense of peace wash over her. She had been feeling overwhelmed lately, but this moment gave her a much-needed respite.

Murray's eyes drifted towards the window sill, where a few of her favorite books sat. She picked up one of them, settling into her favorite chair. As she began to read, she found herself lost in the world of the novel, her worries faded away.

The doorbell rang, and Murray quickly realized it was her friend, Jane, who had called to say she was on her way to visit. Murray smiled, knowing that having Jane around would make her feel better.

As the two friends caught up, they couldn't help but talk about their favorite moments from the books they had read. Murray and Jane were both avid readers, and they often exchanged recommendations for new books to read.

The evening passed quickly, with Murray feeling a renewed sense of energy and enthusiasm. She was grateful for the time spent with Jane, and knew she would look forward to their next meeting.

As Murray settled into bed that night, she closed her eyes again, feeling content and at peace. She knew that while life might be challenging at times, moments like these made it all worthwhile.

Wiping Away The Mist Of Myths

by Murray Olderman, NEA

The Wizard of Oz is a myth. Not by design. No one ever meant it to be one. The name "Wizard of Oz" is a legend that was created by the public.

The Wizard of Oz is a myth that was created by the public. It is a legend that was not intended to be a myth. The name "Wizard of Oz" is a misnomer that was given to the character by the public.

Cowboys Recruiting

Needs Easy To Spot

Tom Donaho's column

APRIL 10 -- The year is almost done and the Dallas Cowboys are still looking for a few more players. The team has been busy the past few weeks, signing free agents and making deals to improve their roster. Here are some of the players they are still looking for:

1. Wide Receiver: The Cowboys need a reliable receiver to help get the ball into their hands. They have already signed Michael Irvin, but they need another player to help fill the void.
2. Tight End: The team needs a reliable tight end to help in the passing game. They have already re-signed Jay Novacek, but they need another player to help.
3. Running Back: The Cowboys need a reliable running back to help get the ball to the outside. They have already signed Emmitt Smith, but they need another player to help.
4. Linebacker: The team needs a reliable linebacker to help get the ball to the outside. They have already signed Deion Sanders, but they need another player to help.

The Cowboys have been busy the past few weeks, signing free agents and making deals to improve their roster. They have already signed Michael Irvin, Jay Novacek, Emmitt Smith, and Deion Sanders. They need to continue to work on improving their roster if they want to be successful this year.
