Regents Ask $40.6 Million Increase In Funds

The Oklahoma Regents for Higher Education is preparing to increase student fees, including tuition, for the 1973-74 academic year. The increase, which the Regents will vote on later this month, will be used to offset the costs of operating the state's 16 public colleges and universities. The increase will affect all students, including undergraduate, graduate, and professional students. The Regents have been working with the state's lawmakers to secure funding for the proposed increase, and they hope to have the necessary legislation passed by the end of this month. The increase is expected to generate an additional $40.6 million in revenue for the state's higher education system. The Regents have also been discussing the possibility of implementing a tuition increase in future years to ensure the long-term financial sustainability of the state's higher education system.
HEACO Becomes Model For Others

The Higher Education Advisory Council of Oklahoma, a 1973 initiative of outstanding educators and others interested in higher education, has established a new program for the development of model colleges. The council's first two models are Oklahoma State University and the University of Oklahoma, both of which are engaged in innovative educational programs.

Increased Funding Aids State Rating

Improved support for public higher education in Oklahoma is a significant factor in theCreature for Higher Education, a competitive weekly newspaper devoted to higher education and community issues. The site of the Oklahoma State University is the University of Oklahoma, which has been a leader in higher education efforts since 1907.

'Wendy's' Wins 4 Awards

The "Wendy's" brand, which has been a major sponsor of the Oklahoma Higher Education Awards since 1986, has won four awards this year. The brand's commitment to supporting higher education is evident in its continuous efforts to recognize and reward excellence in the field of education.

American Fidelity Proposal Approved

As a service to several state colleges, the Oklahoma Higher Education Council is proposing to provide financial support to promote greater diversity in higher education programs. The proposal will be presented to the council for consideration in the near future.
