WITNESSES SAY PRESLEY WAS DRUG-ADDEDCTED

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - The presiding judge, who has been described as a powerful and unpredictable, presided over Elvis Presley's fatal drug arrest Monday, and the judge, who has been described as a powerful and unpredictable, was given the death penalty for the murder of an ex-cop who was among the drug dealers who were arrested on the day of the singer's death. Dr. Raymond Harbison, a former medical examiner, told the jury that Presley took the drug in question on the day of his death. He cited the murder conviction as the reason for his decision. "The evidence," he said, "was overwhelming."

U.N. Demands Soviet Pullback

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The U.N. Security Council has demanded that the Soviet Union pull out of Afghanistan, in response to the recent invasion. The resolution was passed with 13 votes in favor, none against, and 1 abstaining.

The Kremlin's military operation in Afghanistan has sparked international concern. The U.S. has called for a withdrawal of Soviet troops, while China has supported the invasion. The United Nations has requested that the Soviet Union撤军 the region.

Memphis police have recommended no charges against Presley's father, who was arrested on the same day. The judge, who has been described as a powerful and unpredictable, has been described as a powerful and unpredictable, and was given the death penalty for the murder of an ex-cop who was among the drug dealers who were arrested on the day of the singer's death. Soviets Near Iran Oil Fields

There has been no sign of a Soviet presence in the Persian Gulf and no movement of Soviet forces to Iran, according to Western officials. The reports of a Soviet presence are based on intelligence reports that have been confirmed by satellite images and other sources.

The State Department has confirmed the reports and has said that it is monitoring the situation closely. The reports have been dismissed by the Iranian government, which has said that it is not true.

The Braniff Promise.
We hereby promise to make every effort to give the best airline service in the world.

Braniff sincerely believes that service industries—airlines included—have allowed their performance to deteriorate seriously. We want to take a stand against that trend.

That's why we're making a promise to do everything possible to provide absolutely the best airline service in the world.

Obviously, this is an ambitious goal. But that's why we're no stranger to a difficult task. Only 15 years ago Braniff was a small north-south carrier. Today we fly between 75 cities all over the U.S. and the world.

Now we expect to perform a similar feat in the area of service. We promise to do everything we can to give you not just good service, but the best.

And when you make promises like these, you'd better be better.

1. We promise to knock ourselves out to be the world's friendliest, most professional airline personnel.

The rapid growth in air travel may have overwhelmed some airlines. Our people intend to go right on being friendly and professional. Because that's the kind of people we hire and train.

For example, we screen 160 candidates for every flight attendant job we offer. Then we give them an intensive 56-week course. And then to keep them sharp we retain them every year. The result is people who have the skill to do a good job and the confidence to be friendly.

2. We promise to provide frequent schedules throughout the U.S. and to Europe, Asia, Mexico and South America.

Braniff serves over 50 major cities in the U.S., 15 principal cities and capitals in South America and Mexico, 3 of the most important cities in Europe, and 5 in the Pacific and Far East.

And because of its remarkable hub-and-spoke design, our system often provides the fastest service between many of the regions and countries we serve.

3. We promise to do everything we can to run an on-time airline.

Braniff now has a good on-time record. Of course, we'd like to have a 100% on-time record. We can. No airline can. Weather and airport congestion at peak hours—the cause of most late arrivals and departures—are beyond the airlines' control.

Here's some of what we do to minimize these delays: we provide standby equipment to replace delayed aircraft. We're expanding our terminals to expedite arrivals and keep schedules realistic by revising them to reflect wind and seasonal changes. And we use aviation's most advanced computers to generate flight plans that avoid potential delays.

4. We promise to provide quick, accurate ticket purchase and check-in.

Braniff has now linked all our airport ticket counters to a new computer that lets you pick up your ticket, check in and get your seat assignment all in one operation. When you're taking a connecting flight, with Braniff's Con- nect-Check-in you only have to check its once. And we've created Braniff's Advance Seat Assignment, so you can select your seat when you make your reservation by phone.

5. We promise to handle your bags with care and deliver them promptly.

You fly to save time. So the last thing you need is to waste time waiting for your bags. That's why we have baggage service teams assigned by zone for faster delivery of "finals" at even the most distant gates in our big terminals. And why we have special expeditors to insure delivery of "connects" no matter how far they have to travel through the airport.

6. We promise to serve some of the best food you've ever eaten on any airline.

Our meals are prepared from fresh food. We buy the food at its source in markets all over the world and fly it—still fresh—throughout our system.

And there's another reason our food is better—variety. We prepare dishes based on the cuisine of the many nations we fly to. That's why you could fly with us four weeks in a row in the U.S. and probably never get the same meal twice.

7. We promise to fly young, beautifully decorated airplanes.

Braniff's fleet is one of the youngest of any major airline in domestic or international service. In the U.S. we fly young Boeing 727-200s. Across the Atlantic or Pacific we fly young Boeing 747 Jumbos and, the newest of the new, the Boeing 747SP. All these airplanes have exciting colors and bold designs to look at. The fleet of course includes the sleek, quiet, comfortable, Hapag-built 747SPs and all have real leather seats to enjoy on the insides.

8. We promise to fly airplanes you can depend on.

We've built our fleet on what we consider to be the two most dependable aircraft in commercial aviation today—the Boeing 727 and the Boeing 747. Both aircraft have a brilliant record of performance with us. And this year we'll be adding even more of them to our fleet including the most advanced 747 in the sky—the Boeing 747SP.

In the most recent survey published by the Airline Passengers Association the 727 and the 747 were chosen as the preferred airplanes for short and long distance flights respectively. So they're not only the airplanes we prefer to fly. They're the airplanes frequent travelers want to fly on, too.

9. We promise to offer bargain vacation fares to every Braniff city.

We can save you up to 50% on international fares including our new budget fares in the Pacific. And we can save you up to 40% domestically. And to some destinations we can save you even more. For example, we have standby fares to Britain and Europe that can save you up to 60%.

10. We promise to answer our phones and provide information promptly.

Braniff has just installed the most advanced telephone reservations and information system in the airline business. It has increased by a full 30% the number of calls we can handle at a given time.

The new information system is officially called "Cowboy." It's for schedules, fares or other information on 7,500 flights between 15,000 city pairs, flown by 70 different airlines, in 100 countries around the clock, call 800-527-4000.

"Cowboy" has the answers.

We better be better. We're Braniff.

More Confident Campaigners

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The 1970s are turning out to be the most crucial election years since the 1960s, when the New Deal Coalition was solidified. The new campaign styles, themes, and strategies are giving more confidence to the candidates in their ability to win.

No Politics For Carter

Controversy

Some opposing views are just as predictable as the candidates themselves. For example, the conservative political action group, Citizens for Eisenhower, has launched a nationwide campaign to unseat President Johnson. The group's leader, Robert E. Kellogg, said, "Our goal is to defeat President Johnson and his policies."

Productive Squeeze

In Dover, New Hampshire, a group of citizens has formed the "New Politics" movement. The group's leader, John Smith, said, "Our goal is to make government more productive and less political." The group has sponsored a series of public meetings and forums to discuss the issues of the day.
