In a statement of their own, the authorities of Iran have vowed to pursue the commanders of the Islamic Republic of Iran’s armed forces, who crossed into Israeli territory and shot down the helicopter of the late President moderately level, which is both a sharp contrast to the military strategy of Iran, which is based on the principle of self-defense and national security.

EROQUETT (UPI) — President Carter is scheduled to arrive in New Hampshire today, where he will campaign for the upcoming presidential election. The governor of New Hampshire has requested a visit from Carter, who is expected to discuss economic issues and the state's current political climate.

BOSTON (UPI) — President Carter has announced his resignation from the presidency, effective immediately. Carter is stepping down after reaching a compromise with the House of Representatives and the Senate, which would have allowed him to remain in office. He will remain in the White House for a 90-day period, after which he will return to private life.

Deported Paul McCartney Says He's Victim Of Casual American Drug Attitude

London, November 28, 1968

Paul McCartney, former Beatles star, said today that he was deported from the United States because of his association with drugs.

"They're after me because I have a beard," McCartney said in a press conference at Heathrow Airport.

"It's not just drugs. They're after me because I'm a Beatle. They want to destroy the Beatles."

McCartney was deported from the United States last Wednesday, and he has been a target of drug allegations since he met John Lennon and other Beatles in 1964.

"I'm not a drug dealer," McCartney said. "I'm just a musician."

Oklahoma Got Vote Of Confidence Early

By Warren Broder

Oklahoma's annual outing to the Oil Bowl in Little Rock last season was anything but an easy win. In fact, the Sooners were down 10-7 at halftime, and it looked as if they'd have a tough time breaking away for a 14-7 victory.

But Oklahoma came back in the second half, scoring 41 points to beat Arkansas, 55-24. Now, the Sooners are looking to repeat that performance this year.

The Sooners, who are ranked No. 1 in the nation, are coming off a 14-7 win over Arkansas last season. They are favored to win the game by 14 points.

The Sooners are led by freshman quarterback Sam Bradford, who has thrown for 2,000 yards and 18 touchdowns this season. He has also run for 425 yards and six touchdowns.

Bradford is expected to lead Oklahoma to a victory over Arkansas.

Sooner Stun Mizzou, Nation's No. 10 Team

The Sooners stunned the nation's No. 10 team, the Missouri Tigers, 56-21, in Columbia, Mo. The Tigers were playing their first home game of the season.

The Sooners, who are ranked No. 1 in the nation, dominated the game from the start. They scored 42 points in the first half, including a 58-yard touchdown pass from Sam Bradford to Javon Harris.

The Sooners also had impressive defensive play, holding the Tigers to just 217 total yards.

OU Finds There's No Place Like Home

The Oklahoma State University football team is playing its first home game of the season tonight at Stillwater, Okla. The team is looking to get back on track after a tough loss to the University of Kansas last week.

The Sooners are currently ranked No. 1 in the nation and are looking to maintain their top spot.

Cowboy Recruiters Keep Pressing On

The taking prices that make the National Football League's biggest teams are, in fact, the ones that are not sustainable. The money that flows into these teams is not only a function of their success, but also of their brand value. The success of the teams is directly tied to the success of their cities, which in turn drives the value of their properties. The teams are essentially public entities, and their success is a reflection of the success of their cities. The teams are not just businesses, but also institutions of civic pride.

U.S. Action Underscores Gold Prices

By Stan Toki

Matt Molson, editor of the New York-based Underwriter, says that the United States' recent move to boost gold production is likely to have a significant impact on gold prices.

"The U.S. government has announced plans to increase gold production by 10 percent," Molson said. "This move is expected to put pressure on gold prices and could lead to a decline in their value." Molson added that gold has been a staple of global investment for centuries and is often used as a store of value in times of economic uncertainty.

"The U.S. action underscores the importance of gold as a precious metal," he said. "I believe that gold prices will continue to fluctuate in the coming years, but the overall trend is likely to be upward." Molson predicts that gold prices could reach $2,000 per ounce by the end of the decade.

Cents-Off Coupons Use Grows With Inflation

In the U.S. economy, the use of cents-off coupons is growing rapidly as a way to combat inflation. "It's a way to save money on everyday purchases," said Jane Smith, a coupon expert.

"With food prices increasing, coupons allow consumers to stretch their budgets," she said. "Many stores are now offering cents-off coupons on a variety of products, including groceries, toiletries, and household items." Smith added that coupons can save consumers significant amounts of money, especially when used in conjunction with store sales.

Is It MorMAN Church Or Christ's Church On Earth?

By Sarah Johnson

The MorMan Church, a controversial religious group, has been the subject of much debate in recent years. The group, which was founded in the 1980s, has been accused of promoting polygamy and sexual misconduct.

"The MorMan Church is a dangerous cult," said John Doe, a former member of the group. "I was a member for several years, but I was eventually able to break free of their control." Doe added that the group used tactics such as mind control and manipulation to keep members loyal.

"It's crucial that people be aware of the dangers posed by groups like the MorMan Church," he said. "I encourage anyone who is in a similar situation to seek help and support from others who have been through similar experiences." Doe is now a member of a support group for former cult members and is working to raise awareness about the dangers of cults.

Raleston Promotes Two Executives

Raleston, a leading manufacturer of household products, has promoted two executives to its top ranks. "I'm excited to see these talented individuals take on new responsibilities," said CEO John Smith.

"Jim Brown has been named president and CEO of Raleston's Office Products division," Smith said. "Jim has been with the company for 10 years and has held a variety of positions, including vice president of marketing and sales." Smith added that Brown's leadership skills and experience make him an ideal candidate for the role.

"Janet Lee has been promoted to senior vice president of marketing," Smith said. "Janet has been with the company for 15 years and has been instrumental in the development of our marketing strategy." Smith added that Lee's expertise in marketing and her passion for the company make her a valuable asset to the organization.

Is there an annual tax break I don't know about?

"How can I cope with today's staggering inflation?"

"How should I prepare for retirement security?"

We've got the answers to help you win the battle with taxes and inflation.

An Individual Retirement Account (IRA) is one answer if your employer does not offer a retirement plan or profit-sharing plan.

Each time your salary rises by 1%, your personal income tax could go up by more than 1½ times as well as an IRA, your deposits (up to 13%) of your income or a maximum of $1,500 a year are tax deductible.

IRA helps you hold the line on annual income taxes and estimates the industry effects of current inflation. All the while you'll be saving for a better retirement future. Ask your Liberty banker if an IRA plan could go to work for you.

For tax relief today and retirement security tomorrow, we've got the answers.

KARL MALDEN STARS AS PETE
"SKAG" SKAGSKA IN NBC'S
DRAMA "SKAG" AIRING THURSDAYS

LISTINGS FOR JANUARY 27
THROUGH FEBRUARY 2
“Marathon”

Bob Newhart stars as a bemused middle-aged husband who takes up running and wins up chasing a beautiful young woman in the new motion picture for television, “Marathon,” televised by NBC on the CBS Wednesday Night Movie, Wednesday, Jan. 30 (8:00-10:00 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network.

Newhart stars as mild-mannered accountant Walter Burton; Leigh Taylor-Young as Bárbara Johnson, the beautiful runner; Herb Edelman and Dick Gautier as Walter’s two best friends, Saul and Bud; and Anita Gillette as his non-running wife of 20 years, Anita Burton.

Walter’s approach to running is hopeful but unspectacular until he spots the gorgeous Bárbara during a ten-kilometer race (6.2 miles) and is struck by what Saul calls “The Life Force.” beguiled and hopelessly drawn to the lissome, fast-paced beauty, he is encouraged by his friends to press on for “The Forbidden Fruits.”

Burton’s passion, however, is frustrated in the beginning by a guilty conscience and also his inability to track down the beautiful object of his interest. Brushing all obstacles aside, he subsequently runs towards a destiny that includes participating in the New York Marathon, all 26 miles and 385 yards of it, and the surprise of his life.

Newhart starred in six years on the Network’s comedy series, “The Newhart Show,” and most recently co-starred with Walter Matthau and Julie Andrews in the remake of the film “Little Miss Marker.”

Leigh Taylor-Young was an instant sensation in her youthful role of Rachele Woll in “Payroll” and later starred in the feature films “I Love You, Alice B. Toklas,” and “Soylent Green.”

Edelman starred in the series “The Good Guys” and also appeared with Miss Taylor-Young in “I Love You, Alice B. Toklas.” His varied career includes New York stage performances in “The Telephone Man” and “Ring of the New York Gypsies.”

Dick Gautier is a Tony Award nominee for his Broadway performance in “Bye Bye Birdie,” and is remembered for a variety of comedy highlights on television in such roles as Hymie, the Control robot, in “Get Smart” and as Robin Hood in Mel Brooks’ “When Things Were Rotten.”

Anita Gillette counts her starring role as Sally Bowles in the Broadway musical, “Cabaret,” as her favorite musical role. She also starred in “All American” with Ray Bolger and “The Producers” with Robert Ryan. Her television credits have included starring roles in “All That Glitters,” “Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice” and “Me and the Champ.”

“Tele-Versions: LIVE TELEVISION”

TONY RANDALL: “Live television can be nerve wracking. When I was substituting one week for Steve Allen on the original ‘Tonight Show,’ I was doing a Broadway show at the same time. Wow! I would literally have to run from the National Theater on 41st Street to the Hudson on 44th Street, always arriving about four minutes late.”

JACKIE GLEASON: “The most terrifying thing that happened when we were doing ‘The Honeymooners’ live was the time Sheila MacRae and Art Carney both came down with a virus. The two of them were so sick during the last rehearsal that they stumbled over all their lines. I never thought we would make it through the final performance. But we did!”

JANE CURTAIN: “Maybe comedy is too little to prepare on ‘Saturday Night’ but at least, because you’re a part of it, you assume a good idea of how to work in that situation—but not with a movie.”

“ACTING: TRAINING”

ROBERT WAGNER: “I got all my filming from the pros. In the ’60s, I had done some good pictures with skilled actors like Spencer Tracy and Robert Mitchum. I got to know them, and I learned my principal ambition to learn everything I could from them about acting.”

WAYNE NEWTON: “I got all the training I needed in Vegas. You have to learn pretty fast in that environment. While I worked in those lounges, people died. Bottles were thrown at me. Ashtrays, plates, anything you can imagine. That was my show-business training.”

BARBRA STREISAND: “Even though I got my start training by acting itself. I got my most valuable advice from a drama coach. When I kept insisting I wanted him to make me a tragic actress, he finally told me to forget it and develop the gift I had for comedy.”

“NEW YORK/HOLLYWOOD”

GARY BURGOFF: “I can live with Hollywood, but New York’s a hassle. When they were looking for the ‘50th Street Creeper,’ they grabbed me as I was climbing a fire escape to get into my apartment (which I had locked up by accident). Six cops tumbled down my window, and handcuffed me and took me to jail.”

JOEY DEWITT: “One time, at Hollywood, I knew it would be much easier to be a star actress on a beach in the West Coast than on a city street in New York. If worse came to worse, I would pick grass.”

JOHNNY CARSON: “New York has changed. A stranger there, the first reaction is that he’s attacking. Things are much more open in California. There’s a feeling of peace here.”

99. I DREAM OF JEANIE

January 28, 1980

A professional getaway driver is the target of an obsessed police detective in "The Driver," action drama starring Ryan O'Neal, Bruce Dern and Isabelle Adjani, to be broadcast for the first time on network television, on "The CBS Saturday Night Movie," Saturday, Feb. 2 (8:00-10:00 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network. The movie, which features Ronny Baker, was released theatrically in 1978 by Twentieth Century-Fox.

Ryan O'Neal portrays the driver, a man of detached emotion and nerves of steel whose incredible prowess behind the wheel make him a much sought after accomplice in the underworld. The driver has never been caught, but there is a police detective (Denn) who expects to change that record. To the detective, policework is a game with only winners and losers, and he is determined to keep his winning record clean.

The detective is willing to use any method—fair or foul—to catch his prey. He sets up a phony robbery with two thieves as his decoy to lure the driver into a trap. A beautiful young woman (Miss Adjani) is drawn into the game when the driver's connection (Miss Blackley) hires her as a coverup for an earlier crime. The game is played out on the streets of Los Angeles as each of the players unleashes his strategy and deals with the duplicity of the others in a series of hair-raising auto chases. "The Driver" was a Twentieth Century-Fox EM Films Production. Lawrence Gordon was producer and Walter Hill directed from his own screenplay.

A MUST: Mark your calendars, please! I strongly recommend that you urge your family and friends to watch CBS on Wednesday night, Feb. 11 when the network will present an extraordinary, sensitive drama, "The Boy Who Drank Too Much." I’m sure you know that teenage alcoholism is a major problem in this country, and this special program not only approaches this subject in a meaningful, helpful manner, it does this without preaching or teaching in the slightest. It does this while presenting a marvelous story about friendship and loyalty. Scott Baio from "Happy Days" stars, and he is most ably supported by Lance Kerwin, who portrayed the title role in "James at 16.

MORE BERT: Much more may happen before this goes to press, but as these words are written, the latest I have on the Robert Parks/Miss America controversy (and it comes from an inside source) puts a somewhat different complexion on the matter. The decision by "Miss America" management to drop Bert as host did not come about with any abruptness, I am told. On the contrary, the end of Parks began two years ago when the actor/host took a guest role on "The Bionic Woman." If you happened to see this show, you will recall that Parks portrayed a Miss America-type beauty contest host who was out to kill one of the contestants. According to my source, "Miss America" management was very worried about having an independent actress who had accepted such a role and would have discontinued his hosting chores at that very moment had they been certain who they wanted as a replacement. They wanted, I am told, until they had the perfect new hostess. I’m sure they found one.

AWARDS: Well, it looks like the Academy Awards will have some tough competition. On Monday, Feb. 11, NBC will present the first "American Movie Awards," a program which will present the choices of the American public for such categories as Best Actor, Best Actress, Favorite Male Star, Favorite Female Star and Best Picture. Jack Haley Jr., producer of the program says, "Fifteen million ballots have been distributed to theatres across the country. For the first time, we will have an opportunity to evaluate directly by public preference on a scale that is staggering. How will this new awards show affect the Oscars? Only time will tell, but the feeling here is that "American Movie Awards" will do little if anything to dent the image and prestige of the Academy Awards."

ZERO: This is 1980, a year of special importance to certain performers—stars like John Lennon or Clint Eastwood or Peggy Lee. What do these three performers have in common? They are all dead. John Lennon was assassinated by Mark David Chapman on December 8, 1980. Peggy Lee was born in 1920; Clint Eastwood in 1930. John Lennon in 1940. According to those in numerology, Decembers tend to be extremely imaginative and to take their emotional responsibilities more seriously than others. This year is important to Decembers because zero years bring them success. So, keep your eyes on your favorite Decembers. Here is a few of mine (in addition to the three mentioned above). Born in 1910: Joan Bennett, Robert Cummings, E.G. Marshall, David Niven, Born in 1920: David Brinkley, Charles Bronson, Imogene Coca, Bill Cullen, Nanette Fabray, Tony Randall, Lana Turner, Born in 1890: Robert Culpe, David Janssen, Ben Gazzara, Grace Kelly, Robert Wagner, Steve McQueen, Andy Williams.

Mel's waitresses, played by (left to right) Linda Lavin, Polly Holliday and Beth Howland, picket the diner when he installs a time clock and orders them to use it, on "Alice." Sunday, Jan. 21 (8:30-9:30 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network.

A look at Bill Cullen

By Grace C. Bigger

Bill Cullen, Ma. Game show himself, is back with a new one on NBC daytime. The game is "Chain Reaction." It's a little that might be used to describe this performer's show business career. When Grenchen Kraus failed for the butcher, and they fear he won't ask for his cut, unless he becomes more alluring. Of course, Cullen is a panelist, with Arlene Franges doing the hosting. The idea was for panelists to look at clothing or props and identify the performers to whom the articles belonged. It was not a raging success. But that same year, Cullen became a panelist on a much more popular program. "I've Got A Secret." Remember?

In 1953, Bill moved up the game show ladder to become the "assistant host" in a show called "Why?" Here, panelists were told the Who, What, Where and When of a particular situation and they were supposed to guess Who? The audience did not seem to care.

But in 1954, Cullen took over the hosting chores on two programs which were to enjoy greater success. One was "Name That Tune" and the other was "The Price Is Right." In the same year, Cullen also had a brief hosting stint on "Bank On Our Stars." Paar had been the GBS host for this one, but Cullen took over when the show moved to NBC. It did not last long.

In 1955, there was "Down You Go," a rather simple word game where a panel tried to guess a word or phrase submitted by viewers. This, too, faded quickly.

In 1957, Cullen was selected for the series with which he is closely associated, "Jeopardy!"

Now he is back with a new one. Why? Why him? Why do the networks and producers keep using the same host? Is there some secret "image" for the most successful of such performers?

"Mark Goodson, Goodson & Toomey thought so back in 1954," he said. The panel shouldn't, in some way, be a celebrity to begin with. Also, he must reflect something other than mere show biz. Most actors don't do well here because they are too prissy or their way of living. Most important, a good host will not play a part. He must expose himself as he is, have no inhibitions, be a talker and have the capacity to communicate.

"Obviously, Bill Cullen fits the mold perfectly. So, since he is the perfect host, all he needs for success is the perfect show. How does Cullen feel about the new one, "Chain Reaction?" Is it different from all those other game shows?

"Well, it's a word association game," says Cullen. "One word leads to another, but it's different from 'Password' or 'Pyramid.' It's being done by the producer of 'Pyramid,' and I think it's the kind of game people will enjoy. But we have to see what the public says. They could hand it back to us in a box."

Cullen likes the show. But is that only because it was offered to him? Put another way, would Bill Cullen ever turn down a game show offer?

The performer is quick to answer. "I certainly have. I don't touch the kind of show where the contestants are put down. I insist on a show where we're on the same level, in other words, I have as much fun as the contestants do."

I think there is one other criterion Mark Goodson should have included for the "perfect host." He ought to be able to talk to the audience as a very nice young man. Cullen does—because he is.

"Fireball Forward" is the name of the show.

RUNNING
Okay, joggers. CBS has a primetime movie just for you this Wednesday night (Jan. 30). The title is "Marathon," and Bob Newhart is the star. He plays a mild-mannered married accountant who decides to take up running. And guess what happens? Probably something which never happened to any jogger reading this column.

It seems that, while running, the mild-mannered accountant spots a gorgeous lady who is also running and the mild-mannered accountant, suddenly forgetting his wife, is hopelessly drawn to the lady. What happens next may do more to increase the ranks of runners than anything since the invention of sneakers.

JAWS
"The American Sportsman" returns for its 16th season this Saturday (Feb. 2), traveling around the globe, from remote Antarctica to the wildest of Africa, in search of the unusual. The premiere episode promises to be a great one—a real "first." The episode presents a fascinating look at a great white shark which was "tagged" with sophisticated sonar equipment. The results are spectacular.

And this is only the beginning. With Curtis Gowdy as host, future episodes of "Sportsman" will not only deal with a wide variety of sports and sporting subjects—hunting, fishing—but will offer a bevy of celebrities. A couple of examples:

Cliff Robertson, a great flying enthusiast, will man the controls of a World War II fighter plane and chase the Red Baron. Beverly Johnson, top woman climber, will defy the hazards of environment in this exciting series.

This is an exciting series, one that truly deserves the support (viewing) of all good sports fans.

JOYCE'S JOB
Please tell me how Joyce DeWitt got her job on "Three's Company." She's my favorite actress! C. Binghamton, N.Y.

A: Joyce DeWitt won her role on this series by auditioning for another part, that of Pinky, "Fonzies" girlfriend. On "Happy Days," although the actress did not win the role on "Happy Days," the producer was so pleased with her performance that he immediately put Joyce under contract for a different series, "Three's Company."

MARTIAN MYSTERY
Q: All these years I've been wanting to know how the heck they got the Martians' accent on "My Favorite Martian" to come out of his head. Also, didn't the guy who played the Martian star in a Broadway musical some years before that show? J. T., Little Rock, Ark.

A: To accomplish the special "Martian" effect, Ray Walston, the actor who portrayed the Martian, would push a button which would cause the twin antennas, strapped to Walston's back, to rise. For longshots, this button was operated out of camera range by a prop man. Yes, Walston did star in a stage musical before the premiere of "My Favorite Martian." He was "Barnum" in the Broadway musical version.

Big Cats and Big Magic
BY KAREN COTERO

Now that Super Bowl XIV is history, many people are probably wondering if either of the networks can follow an act like that with something equally as exciting. Well NBC concluded that it would take nothing short of magic to accomplish this feat, and that's exactly what they've resorted to. This Friday, Feb. 1 (9:00-10:00 p.m.), viewers can see a truly "magic" offering when "Siegfried and Roy, Superstars of Magic" airs on NBC.

If you think this is just another magic act, then you haven't seen these German-born masters of illusion at work. No disappearing bunnies for these handsome gentlemen, but rather an entire entourage of tigers, leopards, cheetahs, panthers, jaguars, lions and an unusual new cross-breed called "Leopard," all in the act. Beasts change into humans, and humans change into beasts, and they all change into nothingness right before your eyes. It is no wonder that in Las Vegas, Siegfried and Roy are the highest paid specialty act in that city's history.

I spoke with Siegfried from Las Vegas about the special and learned of an illusion to be performed that is bound to have people talking for some time to come as to how it was accomplished. An elephant, suspended 5 feet above the audience in a glass cage, will vanish while in clear view. And there will be absolutely no trick photography.

The special, following as it does the NBC special "Highlights of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus," will undoubtedly provide the perfect climax to a full evening of family entertainment. So have the peanuts and popcorn ready!

ASK THEM YOURSELF

FOR DAVID P. CHINOWETH
senior editor, Consumer Research Institute of America

What are the benefits of using soapless dishwashing detergents? — N.S., White Plains, N.Y.

Dishwashing detergents are designed to be effective and efficient in cleaning dishes. They contain surfactants and other chemicals that help to remove stubborn stains and grease. In addition, soapless detergents are generally less likely to be harmful to the environment than traditional soaps, which can contain chemicals that can be harmful to aquatic life. However, they are not always better for the environment than traditional soaps, and it is important to choose a product that is appropriate for your needs and lifestyle.

FOR THE "ASK" EDITOR

Dad. Sam Simon, the little girl making news for her bravery, doesn't need some scoundrils to help. — G.L., Green Bay, Wis.

The thing that comes naturally to 3-year-old Danny is riding his tricycle, not asking for help. Danny is better off without the help of others. He can ride the tricycle by himself, and he does it with great skill. Men are more interested in the little girl's brine than in the tricycle's, causing the potential closure of carbon dioxide resulting from the combustion of fossil fuels. Methane that is produced from bromine would avoid this problem.

FOR ANNE MURRAY, recording star

Do you get a let-down feeling if you have a concert in a small town on the road, after all your big-time engagements? — T.J., Athens, Ohio

No, because I'll tell you the truth, I'd rather sing for a hundred in Yellowknife than for thousands in big cities. The audience of the town seems to be much more appreciative. I think it's easier to make a record with a small group of friends. I have to be careful with the audience because I want to be more friendly with them.

FOR SENATOR ALAN CRANSTON, California

You've pegged a "liberal senator." Just what, in a few understandable words, does "liberal" mean? — Mark, Carmel, Calif.

"Liberal" is a term that has become somewhat loaded in recent years. It originally referred to people who were more open-minded and willing to accept new ideas and new ways of thinking. However, it has been used as a derogatory term to describe those who are more progressive and more willing to challenge the status quo. The term is often used as a pejorative term by those who oppose change and who seek to maintain the existing social and political order.

What's your biggest concern in putting out the Winter Olympics at Lake Placid next month? — N.W., Anchorage, Alaska

My biggest concern is that the weather will be cold and that the athletes will be able to perform at their best. I also worry about the transportation and communication systems, as these are essential for the smooth running of the event. However, I am confident that we will be able to overcome these challenges and put on a successful Winter Olympics.

FOR KATHERINE MACGREGOR, featured in NBC's "The Young and the Restless"

What do you think you'll do after you retire? — T.R., Galesburg, Texas

I'm not sure what I'll do after I retire, but I think I will probably continue to work on some of the projects that I'm currently working on. I also think I will probably spend more time with my family and friends.

FOR STACY KEACH, star of The Greatest Battle, and market research director for the Society of Women Artists

How do you think your character's decision to give up his career for love will be received by the audience? — P.F., Los Angeles, Calif.

I think that the audience will be able to identify with my character's decision to give up his career for love. It is a common choice for many people, and it is one that is often made out of love and loyalty. I think that the audience will appreciate the character's strength and courage in making this decision and will be able to relate to the challenges and difficulties that he will face.

FOR BARBARA BLOW, Deputy Administrator, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

Is soap a chemical? — J.B., Silver Spring, Md.

Yes, soap is a chemical. It is a compound that is formed when fatty acids and alkalis are combined. These chemicals are used in a variety of products, including soaps, detergents, and cosmetic products. The use of these chemicals can have both positive and negative effects on the environment, and it is important to use them responsibly and to minimize their impact on the environment.

PRO AND CON

Should There Be Severe Penalties for Dumping Chemical Wastes? — W.R., Inc.

CON

Marvin R. Kastner, research director, Government Research Institute

No. Current chemical waste disposal standards are already so rigid that there is no longer a market for chemical dumping. The surrounding area of the Great Lakes is now so polluted with toxic chemicals that it is not possible to dump any more. Moreover, the cost of disposing of chemical waste is so high that there is no incentive for anyone to dump it. The penalties for dumping chemical waste are already severe, and they are intended to deter this activity. Therefore, any further penalties would not be justified.

PRO

William D. Johnson, professor, Environmental Science and Policy

Yes. Current chemical waste disposal standards are based on outdated and inadequate science. More research is needed to understand the long-term effects of chemical waste disposal. Moreover, the current standards are not based on the best available science, and they are not protective of human health and the environment. Therefore, it is important to increase the penalties for dumping chemical waste to provide a stronger incentive for proper disposal.

FOR THE "QUICK" EDITOR

What do you think of the idea of having a new beer company that uses only the freshest and most delicious ingredients? — J.D., Chicago, Ill.

I think it is a great idea. The use of high-quality ingredients will result in a beer that is fresher, more delicious, and more enjoyable. It will also result in a beer that is more environmentally friendly, as it will have a lower carbon footprint. However, it will also be more expensive, as the use of high-quality ingredients will increase the cost of production.

A TRADITION OF NUTRITION
Coping with Inflation: How to Survive the Hard Times

By Nancy Josephson

The problem, of course, is inflation — inflation brings with it rising prices for many of the necessities of life. For some time now, the cost of living has been rising faster than the average rate of income. This is due to the fact that prices are increasing faster than incomes. In other words, the standard of living is declining. As a result, people are finding it more difficult to make ends meet.

The problem is not unique to the United States. People in other countries are also experiencing inflation. Inflation can be caused by various factors, such as an increase in the money supply, a decrease in the supply of goods and services, or a combination of both.

The effects of inflation can be seen in a variety of ways. People may find that their wages do not keep up with the rising prices of goods and services. This can lead to a decrease in their standard of living. In addition, inflation can lead to a decrease in the value of savings and investments, as the purchasing power of money decreases over time.

The solution to inflation is not easy. It requires a combination of economic policies and actions on the part of individuals. Some of the measures that can be taken to reduce inflation include reducing the money supply, increasing taxes, or implementing price controls.

In the end, the best way to cope with inflation is to be prepared. By understanding the causes and effects of inflation, and by taking steps to protect yourself, you can better prepare for the future.

The Rev. Donald Wildmon’s Crusade
Against TV “Sexploitation”

Donald Wildmon’s ministry is tiny Tupelo, Miss., but his influence extends far beyond. Through his National Federation for Decency, Wildmon has emerged as the most active — and controversial — TV watchdog.

By Harry F. Walters

The face behind the name of the campaign’s prime mover is Donald Wildmon, whose TV crusade is the subject of this article. Wildmon, 49, is the director of the National Federation for Decency, which has been fighting against what it considers “sexploitation” on television for over 25 years.

Wildmon’s crusade began with a letter to television networks in 1970, expressing concern about the use of violence in television programs. This led to the creation of the National Federation for Decency, which has since grown into a powerful force for change.

In 1981, Wildmon was awarded the National Medal of Freedom by President Ronald Reagan for his work in fighting for decency on television.

Wildmon has been a vocal critic of what he considers to be inappropriate content on television, including sex, violence, and profanity. He has been involved in numerous lawsuits and legal battles against networks and programming, often using these battles to draw attention to his cause.

Wildmon’s crusade has been controversial, with some people criticizing him for being overly strict and unfair in his judgments. However, he remains committed to his cause and continues to work towards a more moral and family-friendly form of entertainment.

Wildmon’s work has had a significant impact on television, leading to changes in programming and ratings. He has been a driving force behind the movement to remove offensive content from television, and his efforts have brought about a more responsible approach to television programming.

Wildmon’s success has been recognized by many, including President Reagan, who awarded him the National Medal of Freedom. His work continues to inspire others to fight for decency on television, and his legacy will undoubtedly continue to shape the future of television for generations to come.

Newest Research Findings: Low tar MERIT preferred over high tar leaders in tests comparing taste and tar level.

Merit Wins "Choice" Test.

Smokers Report MERIT Taste Matches High Tar Cigarettes. New taste tests with thousands of smokers prove it. Proof: A significant majority of smokers rate MERIT taste as good or — better than — leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar.

Proof: Of the 95% stating a preference, 3 out of 4 smokers chose the MERIT low tar/good taste combination over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed.

- MERIT: Proven Long Term Alternative To High Tar Brands. New national smoker study results prove it.

Proof: The overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers polled feel they didn't sacrifice taste in switching from high tar cigarettes.

Proof: 96% of MERIT smokers don't miss former high tar brands.

Proof: Out of 10 enjoy smoking as much since switching to MERIT, and 8 of 10 find the taste andtar level they've been trying.

You've read the results. The conclusion is clearer than ever: MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar.

A combination that's attracting more and more smokers every day — and more importantly — satisfying them long term.

Easy, One-Stitch Crochet Magic

It's not really magic, but it almost seems that way. Using one easy stitch and one sewing needle, you can make just about anything. This simple technique is used in making the apple holder shown in this picture. Stitch a length of yarn through the center of each apple and tie the ends in a knot to make a holder for the apple.

Ingredients: Yarn (any color), knitting needle, scissors. Stitch the yarn around the middle of the apple. Tie the yarn in a knot to make a holder for the apple.

Craft: A crocheted apple holder for stringing.

Slipper socks can be made with one easy crochet stitch.

A strip of hat with a button to match can be easily made with the basic stitch.

Runaways: Tripping Toward Terror

Each year, nearly one million kids run away from home. Many are as young as 11. For 90 percent of these kids and boys, it’s back to home safety within a few days. But for the other 10 percent, the dream of city glitter becomes a nightmare.

By Sandy Johnson

Two weeks before her 12th birthday, Nicole W., decided to run away from her middle-class home in a small Connecticut town. She had been物联网地 in her bedroom for the past two days, feeling as if she were one of the people who lived there — including her parents, who loved her. After being abandoned by her mother, she walked to the train station and left her posh home in a garment bag, miles to the north. She didn’t know where she was going. It was the only way she knew to get away from home.

Nicole’s parents were shocked. They had never heard of anything like this before. Nicole had always been a good student, but now she was gone. Her parents were worried about what might happen to her on the streets. They didn’t know what to do.

Runaways are often not aware of the dangers that await them in the city. Many runaways end up in shelters or on the streets, where they are vulnerable to exploitation. Some runaways are even forced into prostitution.

The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, along with other social service agencies, have set up shelters and hotlines for runaway youth. These organizations provide food, clothing, and medical care, as well as counseling and education programs.

If you or someone you know is in danger, please contact your local police department or a social service agency. They can help you find the resources you need.

Sandy Johnson is the author of the novel "Runaways," which is based on true events. The CTEP, Connecticut Educational Publishing, Inc.

Some people think we're crazy to still make books this good.

For over 50 years, we've been making fine editions that are a sheer pleasure to hold in your hands.

In this age of mass production and corner-cutting, some people think that we're crazy. But what do you think?

Would you like to build a truly fine home library, without spending a small fortune? If so, we'd like to put three examples of our work into your hands so you can judge their worth for yourself.

Accept these three books for $1 each.

We'll send you every word William Shakespeare ever wrote, plus a commentary, in one 1,373-page volume printed on thin, opaque Bible paper.

We'll add a second volume with 128 unexpurgated tales of love and irony by Guy de Maupassant, French master of the short story. And an edition of Kipling that includes a complete novel and 139 stories and verses such as the Man Who Would Be King, Gunga Din, and The Phantom Rickshaw. Take a good look at these books. Each is clothed in a binding of antique cloth that has the look and feel of real leather. All this and only $1 each.

Note how the pages are meticulously Smythe-sewn into the binding, not stuck together with glue. They will never drop out or flutter away. And our books still have sturdy head and footbands so they can hold up under constant use.

All three books are yours for just $1 each, as your introduction to our Golden Giants of Literature Series. After which, you can go on to choose other works by authors such as Hugo, Swift, Cellini, Poe, Wilde, and Dostoevsky.

Because we distribute directly to loyal subscribers, we can charge only $7.99 plus shipping for each subsequent edition. That's a sensible savings over the $30 or more per volume a lot of people ordinarily pay to build themselves impressive home libraries.

You don't have to take every volume in the Series. You may reject any book before or after you receive it. And you may cancel your subscription at any time.

Send no money now. All we hope is that you and others who still love well-made books will take a moment to use this coupon on this page or write directly to us, Black's Readers Service, Roslyn, New York 11576.

Fine editions anyone can afford.
Our Story: Sir Gawain led the Thundering Cavaliers in the defense of the fortress under construction. The ground was defended with very strong walls. Within minutes, Gawain had the place in flames.

Gawain's knights dismount and follow the enemy. To where? A fortress of timber is under construction. The ground is defended with very strong walls. Within minutes, Gawain has the place in flames.

As long as the enemy can wield a sword, the battle continues. And it is noted that not one of Gawain's troops was harmed in the battle.

If you spot the cavalry, whistle.

Got it? Right! I give a whistle.

Relax, men! Tanglefoot will give a whistle if the cavalry shows up.
