WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FSB is investigating allegations that Estados Boricuas, Inc., in the Immigration and Naturalization Service, acted improperly in helping illegal aliens. The investigation was triggered by a report that a high-ranking FSB official had been involved in a scheme to direct aliens to phony employment opportunities in Littleton, Colorado.

Malaria may indicate the FSB helped carrots and Marconio admit that the Chicago FSB Post had been involved. However, a court spokesman said since Neza left the INS in 1969, the FBI could not conduct any investigations. Tari Colberg said the FBI has had a history of investigating immigration-related activities.

"I have known Mr. Colberg for about 25 years, and I like him very much. I am glad to have him on the Immigration Service staff," said Colberg.

"I simply asked the INS, 'Why are you people heading this man away?' He said, 'I am not sure.' He said, 'He is not going to go anywhere.'

The Oklahoma Corporation Commission advocates the problem was caused by a gas well impinging on the pipeline. The gas well was 30 feet from the pipeline, which was 30 feet from the gas well, in the area where the explosion occurred.

Families Tired Of False Hope

The last time the city of Tulsa was involved in a crisis, the city fathers were making plans to build a new stadium for the city's professional football team. The stadium was to be a symbol of the city's determination to become a major league city. But now, the city is in the midst of another crisis, and the citizens are feeling a sense of hopelessness.

The crisis is the water supply. For the past few months, the city has been struggling to provide clean water to its residents. The city's water treatment plant has been unable to meet the demand, and the residents are experiencing a series of boil water advisories.

The city fathers are now admiting that they may have to look to the federal government for assistance. "We are doing everything we can to resolve this problem," said Mayor Thompson. "But we are running out of options."
