Pres. Carter Choice In State Caucus

By Barry Carter

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — President Carter faced intense pressure yesterday to name Oklahoma as his home state for the Democratic presidential caucuses.

Carter met the Mecklenburg County, N.C., three-mile deadline set by the state convention with a statement that he is "not ready to vote." Carter's statement was met with enthusiastic applause from the 2,000 delegates who gathered in the county court house in Greensboro, N.C.

Thoughts on Carter's choice of Oklahoma as his home state varied among the delegates. Some were excited by the prospect of voting for Carter, while others were skeptical about his chances at the national convention.

Iran Solution Weeks Away

By United Press International

A United Nations commission, investigating the Iran hostage crisis, has recommended that the United States negotiate a plan to withdraw its forces from Iran. The commission was appointed by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, who said in a statement that the United States should continue diplomatic efforts to end the crisis.

The recommendation was well received by President Carter and American officials, but some observers believe that the situation remains tense.

No Gas Lines For Us This Summer?

By United Press International

Americans are not likely to face any fuel shortages or raising prices because of a slowdown in U.S. highway expansion, a government official said today.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said that the government had revised forecasts of highway construction for this year, especially in the Midwest and Southeast, and that the revision was based on a continuing decline in the rate of highway growth.

"I don't see a problem with gas lines or availability this summer," he said. "I don't expect much of a problem. But gas prices will probably be steady at their current levels, and we will continue to monitor the situation closely."

WASHINGTON — South Florida's oil after 10 years of turmoil as a staging area for the Middle East oil embargo, has been filled with new hope for a return to the supply of crude oil from the Persian Gulf. Last week, President Carter announced plans for a massive airlift of Persian Gulf crude to the United States, a move that could dramatically reduce the cost of oil imports.

Ford Near Decision On His Candidacy?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald Ford's line was that he would decide whether to run for the presidency within the next four months. But sources said Thursday he was leaning toward running and would make a decision soon.

Ford, who has been considered a viable candidate since he was named vice president by President Richard Nixon in 1973, has been wrestling with the decision for months. He has been torn between his desire to run and his reluctance to abandon his supporters. He has been considering the possibility of a third-party candidacy, but sources said he was leaning toward running as a Democrat.

Merciful At The Mercy Of Merciless

Anger is the major emotion that could be felt in the United States on Thursday as President Carter announced his decision to run for the presidency. The announcement, which was made in a televised address to the nation, came as a shock to many people who had expected Carter to announce his candidacy in January.

The announcement was met with mixed reactions. Some praised Carter for his decision, while others expressed concern about the impact it would have on the country. There were also concerns about the possibility of a third-party candidate.

Campaign Slogans Lagging

WASHINGTON (AP) — If there was one campaign season that should see a strong showing of candidate slogans, it is the one currently in progress. But so far, the slogans seem to be lagging behind the candidates themselves.

Although the new candidates are making a strong showing, their slogans have not caught on with the public. One candidate, for example, is running on the slogan "No More Taxes," but the slogan has failed to catch the public's interest. Another candidate, who is running on the slogan "Building a Better Country," has also failed to catch on with the public.

No Penny For This Thought

Dear Mr. Chairman,

I am writing to you to express my concerns about the proposed increases in the cost of gasohol. I believe that these increases are not only unfair, but also unnecessary.

Gasohol was a product that was developed by the government to help reduce our dependence on foreign oil. However, the cost of gasohol has been steadily increasing, and it is now more expensive than regular gasoline.

I am concerned that these increases will hurt consumers, especially those on fixed incomes. I believe that the government should be doing more to keep the cost of gasohol affordable for all Americans.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Bob Greene

More On Amtrak

More On Amtrak

As the debate over the future of Amtrak continues, there are many who are concerned about the impact of the proposed cuts on the service. Many riders have expressed concern about the potential for delays and disruptions if the cuts are implemented.

I am writing to express my concern about the proposed cuts to Amtrak. I believe that it is important to maintain a robust public transportation system, and I believe that Amtrak plays an important role in achieving this goal.

I understand that the need to cut costs is a concern for many, but I believe that the proposed cuts are not necessary.

Thank you for your consideration of this matter.

Sincerely,

Billy Graham
