Fighting Breaks Truce In Chad

France's President Francois Mitterrand said French forces in Chad would not take part in any fighting between various factions that had resulted in a 16-day-old truce breaking down.

The official French newspaper, Le Monde, said Mitterrand had ordered French forces to refrain from military action while continuing to patrol the region to prevent any return to fighting. France has about 700 troops in Chad.

In the past, France has warned that it would not tolerate any fighting between the factions, but has not said how it would respond to new fighting.

French officials say the fighting could continue for at least two weeks, but that it may be over by the end of the month.

Nigeria's military spokesman, Capt. Linus Egbule, said Nigeria's forces would continue fighting in Chad to prevent the return of fighting.

Nigerian forces have been fighting in Chad for about a month, and have been supported by French forces.

The French Forces began their military action in Chad on March 16.

Court Date Canceled

A federal court date scheduled for Friday in a lawsuit involving former New York City Police Chief William Bratton and the city of New York has been canceled.

A judge said that the city of New York had not filed a response to Bratton's motion to dismiss the suit, and that the case would be remanded to the New York Supreme Court.

Bratton was sued by former New York City Police Commissioner Howard Safir in 2000, alleging that Bratton had failed to protect the city from the September 11 terrorist attacks.

Mafia Chieftain Killed

In Crime Families' Feud

The remains of a reputed Mafia chieftain were found in a New York City park on Monday, authorities said.

The body of Frank Costello, 91, was discovered near the entrance of a park in the city's Chinatown neighborhood.

Costello, who was long considered one of the city's most powerful mobsters, was said to have been involved in numerous criminal activities, including gambling and illegal gambling.

A New York City police spokesman said the body had been discovered by a park employee.

The spokesman said the body of Costello had been found near the entrance of the park, and that it had been discovered by a man who was walking his dog.

Reagan, Carter Lead N.Y.

New York (AP) — New York's only delegate to the Republican National Convention was brought to tears yesterday by a study of the vote for President. It showed that Ronald Reagan, who won the New York primary, had 56% of the vote, while Jimmy Carter won 44%.

Analysis

Democrats and Republicans in New York City argued that the results of the New York primary were not indicative of the nationwide vote. Democrats characterized the results as "a sign of voter discontent with the Republican party." Republicans countered that the results were a "reflection of the Republican party's strong grassroots support."

Primaries At A Glance

New Jersey, which saw a close race between Reagan and Carter, is the next state to hold its primary. Carter is expected to gain ground in the next few states.

John Carpenter: ‘Scares’ A Specialty

In a special preview screening here, a number of film fans were treated to a glimpse of Carpenter’s latest, "The Thing." The film, which has been described as a cross between "The Fly" and "2001," is a suspense-thriller that has been generating excitement throughout the industry. The film's success is due, in part, to Carpenter's ability to create compelling, realistic effects. Carpenter is known for his innovative use of practical effects, and "The Thing" is no exception. The film's special effects team, headed by Rob Bottin, has created a number of striking sequences, including a scene in which the main character is attacked by a giant ant. The film is set in a remote Antarctic research station, and the tension and suspense are palpable throughout. Carpenter has said that he wanted to make a film that was both thrilling and thought-provoking, and "The Thing" certainly fits the bill.

Red China ICBM Capable Of Reaching U.S.

WASHINGTON - Red China has finally developed a strategic ballistic missile capable of hitting the continental United States. The warning came yesterday that secret Chinese military experiments have reached a point where China may be able to launch a missile that could strike U.S. territory. The Chinese are believed to be testing a new type of ICBM, a long-range missiles designed to deliver nuclear warheads. The Chinese have been working on the ICBM for more than a decade. A recent report by the Department of Defense indicates that China's ICBM is now ready for testing.

BEAU BRIDGES AND HELEN SHAVER STAR IN NBC'S NEW COMEDY SERIES, "UNITED STATES," WHICH AIRS TUESDAYS

LISTINGS FOR MARCH 23 THROUGH MARCH 29
NO COINCIDENCE: It is no coincidence that ABC has decided to bring back its distinguished "Omnibus" series in the same time slot used by its predecessor, the " Omnibus," the "cultural" series last seen in 1957, will have a rebirth this Spring...If you happen to be in Germany next year, you may see a new show called "The Everyman Show," don't think it is just a coincidence that this program looks like one you have seen in this country under a different title. The specifications are the same: another hour of the public who feels he can sing or dance or paint on the program, also an obvious rip-off of "The Gong Show." It's no coincidence that the first time "Omnibus" producers scheduled on-location shooting next door to the Hollywood Park Racetrack, they did it when the track was closed. "Quincy's" star, Jack Klugman, a real horse player, admitted: "If the track hadn't been closed, I'd probably never have made it back to work after lunch.

ON THE INSIDE: If you were a fan (as so many millions were) of the mother on "The Waltons," then you will want to watch the lady who portrayed her (Michael Learned) as she tries a totally new kind of role in CBS' "Nurse." Airing Wednesday night, April 9, this is the story of Mary Benjamins, a wife and mother whose husband dies, forcing her to assume her career as a head nurse in a large urban hospital. The job is tough enough in itself. But the inner conflict it causes for Mary Benjamin, her children at home, her responsibilities at the hospital — makes this a story of extraordinary drama. And the conclusion it builds to is one that will leave you feeling glad you watched. The quality of the show is what convinced Michael Learned to take this role. "After the Waltons everyone urged me to look for more attractive and sophisticated roles, says Michael Learned, and I was cast in "Quincy." I looked for scripts that made me want to turn the page, and that's what happened for me."

QUICK CHANGE: From eyes to dies—Sharon Gless, who portrayed the Gal Friday to two private eyes on "Switch," to appear in NBC's mini-series adaptation of Garson Kanin's novel, "Moviett" as Carol Ohmber, who dies tragically in a plane crash...From star to car—Gary Collins, who starred in the short-lived ES series, "Sixth Sense," promising viewers that one particular make of car will guarantee them greater value and mileage than any other...From son to one—Beau Bridges, younger son of "Seahunts" Lloyd Bridges, star in "United States," the highly unusual marriage series which many say may be the one series to change the face of TV in 1980...From team to cream—Meredith Baxter Birney, once a member of the very controversial "Bridget Loves Bernie" team, using her dramatic skills to convince viewers that one particular brand of skin cream helps her hold her beauty.

A Look at Serials
By Grace C. Biggers

It takes about two weeks to get involved in a daytime serial, and once they lose you, they may never get you back. I used to watch "Days Of Our Lives," but because they changed the whole period and caused a conflict with another serial on another network, I started to stay with the other show. I lost interest in "Days" and the network has never done anything exciting enough to make me want to go back and get the habit again.

Right now, my favorite serials are "One Life To Live" and "Search," and I would have a hard time choosing "All My Children." For one thing, there are the sets, so elegant and real. They make you feel you are actually there. For another, I like the characters, like Phoebe and Erica. Their personalities are the kind you can always count on to be constant, rough edges which give the show the type of endless conflict that builds soap in your mind. This is something many serials are missing—"Edge Of Night," for example. I have tried over and over again to get involved in this serial because it comes on so late (when no other serials are available), but I have never been able to get involved. It's the characters. For one thing, their names are impossible—names like Winter or April or Summer or something like that.

Then there are the sets, cheap and unreal. And the producers are never smart enough to get out of their studio sets and do some on-location shooting. This is very shortsighted. Take a show like "General Hospital." It's a very fine serial, but some a-later you begin to weary of that very sterile set. They need to get you away—go to someplace new— inorder to make you want to watch the show regularly.

"Trapper John, M.D."

Comedienne Imogene Coca and Kaye Ballard guest star in the "Trapper John, M.D." episode in which a case of deadly pneumonic plague, in the form of a sick infant, turns up in the hospital, to the distress of Trapper, his ex-wife Melanie, and an old wedding party into a convoluted plot. Sunday, March 25 (9:00-10:00 p.m.) on the CBS Televison Network. Seymour Bobbie directed from a teleplay by Victoria Johns and Deborah Zoe Dawson.

The abandoned baby boy is discovered by Melanie, who brings him to the hospital in hopes that Trapper will examine him. Meanwhile, a suddenly hospitalized woman is married in an impromptu ceremony before a throng of guests. In the hubbub, the entire wedding party is exposed to the baby, who is then found to be suffering with the plague.

ADRIENNE BARBEAU: "I left 'Maudie' because I wanted to change my image so badly. I didn't want to get typecast in sitcoms and I also wanted viewers to see me as someone other than a sex symbol. I think my husband always rejected the idea. He felt that TV audiences were simply seeing a sexual part play a character. I think there was something wrong in catching on that character. It's like people want to see it, why do we do it?" BURT REYNOLDS: "When my first television series, 'Hawk,' came on, I made my decision that I eventually wanted a big screwdriver. In order to go for that, I knew there was one thing I needed—an image. And that's what I went after. I wanted people to see me as a John Garfield type. And I really played it to the hill."

COMEDY

LOUISE LASSER: "I set out to be a dramatic actress with no thoughts of comedy. In fact, the idea embarrassed me. Whenever Woody Allen would tell me, 'You should do comedy because you're funny,' I'd tell him I'd never try it. I thought it would feel so humiliating to stand there and have people laugh at you..." NANCY KULP: "I played Jane Hathaway on 'The Beverly Hillbillies.' My trick was always thinking in the third person. Would she do something? Comedy is tough because you can't play it for laughs, you always have to play it for honesty..." DONNA PESCOW: "I still don't know how to be "hip." In Saturday Night Fever, the character I played was about as serious as you can get, and yet the producer of my series thought I could be a very funny actress."

FILMS

MICHAEL LANDON: "The Multi-million-dollar budgets of films today are disgraceful because they hurt the final product. Producers have tons of money, so they take the time to do shots over and over again. The result is bad performances, because the actors' energy levels fall off..." STEWART GRANGER: "I loved stage acting, but I can do without films. Most of the films I made I refuse to even talk about. They're all so bad they would never even be released on airplanes, much less in a movie theater...

Lovely Cheryl Ladd enjoys the sun and surf while on a location shooting in Hawaii of the special two-hour 'Angels in Paradise' episode of the ABC Television Network's 'Charlie's Angels,' which will have an encore presentation on Wednesday, March 26 (8:00-10:00 p.m.). Ms. Ladd made her debut as the new angel Kris Munroe in this episode in which the angels travel to Hawaii in order to secure the rescue of Charlie, who is kidnapped so that the angels will stage a prison break for a friend of the kidnappers.

Trees spring from a bunch of Peanuts

The world's most famous brand of Peanuts, those silly little morsels who deal so gracefully with major holidays, have found that another important date, Arbor Day, is starting to grow on them.

In "It's Arbor Day, Charlie Brown!," an animated Peanuts special to be rebroadcast Monday, March 24 (7:00-7:30 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network, the clan throws itself into a tree-growing project that also plants some thoughts about Arbor Day, which, according to Peanuts creator Charles M. Schulz, "has been lost in the shuffle over the years."

“The Day Christ Died”

“The Day Christ Died,” a major special dramatizing the arrest, trial and crucifixion of Jesus in the politically troubled Roman-occupied city of Jerusalem, will be broadcast Wednesday, March 26 (7:00-10:00 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network.

Chris Sarandon, Colin Blakely, Keith Michell, Jonathan Pryce, Barrie Houghton, Jay O. Sanders, Eleanor Baroń, Tim Pigott-Smith, Delia Boccardo and guest star Hope Lange lend an international cast.

Based on Biblical record and historical interpretation, “The Day Christ Died” is a dramatic reconstruction of the troubled world of ancient Jerusalem at the fateful time when Jesus of Nazareth (Sarandon) enters the city to face the events which changed the course of the world.

The story opens as Jesus and his disciples prepare for their return to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover sedar, which was to be the Last Supper. The disciples are aware of the need for secrecy. Many eyes are watching their activities because of Jesus’ triumphal entry into the city the preceding Sunday, and his confrontation with the money changers at the Temple.

Among the watchful are the Romans under Pontius Pilate (Michell), the Procurator of Judea, ever wary of any new potential for rebellion in this politically volatile provincial outpost. Also concerned are the Temple Sanhedrin authorities under the high priest, Caiaphas (Blakely), who believe that Jesus’ teaching offends Hebrew teachings and that his activities are a divisive threat to the security of the Jewish people in an occupied state.

Pilate’s aide (Pigott-Smith) sees Jesus’ presence in the city as an opportunity for his master to avoid a potentially dangerous situation. The Romans are set to execute Barabbas, a dissident whose death could well provoke a fresh uprising. If the crowd were offered choice between Barabbas and the relatively unknown Galilean, Pilate’s Roman authority would not be challenged. Pilate’s aristocratic wife, Claudia (Hope Lange), is dubious about such a plan, but her husband is intrigued.

But Pilate, in an attempt to shirk responsibility for the arrest of Jesus away from the Roman legions continues to entertain Barabbas’ name among the crowd. The priest is suspicious of the Procurator’s motives, but he believes the Galilean blasphemer even though not all in the Sanhedrin agree.

Another necessary element is a weak link among Jesus’ chain of followers, and it is found in Judas Iscariot (Houghton). Confused and torn over his teacher’s words and actions, Judas believes that Jesus may be curtailing man’s freedom rather than offering leadership to challenge the authorities. Coaxed by the Sanhedrin and confused by his own intense emotions, Judas agrees to betrayed.

The stage is set. For reasons of their own, Jesus’ enemies are about to set in motion the fulfillment of ancient prophecy as Jesus, aware of what will transpire, prepares his followers.

“The Day Christ Died” is a Martin Manulis production in association with Twentieth Century-Fox Television. Manulis is the producer and James Caleman Jones directed from a screenplay by James Lee Barrett and Edward Anhalt.

SUPER

This Sunday afternoon (March 23), ABC will present the finals in its “SuperTeam” competition. These are ten member teams—one from football (Super Bowl competitors)—who will compete in seven events—volleyball, running relay, swimming, outrigger canoe race, obstacle course, Hawaiian relay and tug of war.

There is a total of $125,000 in prize money for the finals, and each of the ten team members who can bring their team super team winnings to a whopping $35,000. Not bad for a few hours of competition plus a free vacation in Hawaii.

Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees will be on hand for expert commentary from the world of baseball, and Harvey Martin of the Dallas Cowboys will be doing the same for football.

BASKETBALL

Can you recall any season like this one for NCAA Basketball? Neither can those who earn their living by writing about these games. The closing of the season is so many regions has no parallel in basketball history— or for that matter in the history of any other sport.

This Monday night (March 24), NBC will present the dramatic conclusion to this intriguing season. Thanks to the heat of competition leading up to this championship game, it is highly likely that the event will earn the highest TV rating in basketball history. Be sure and be there.

GOLF

One of the biggest attractions on the Ladies Professional Golf circuit gets underway this Saturday afternoon (March 29) on NBC. It is the Women’s Kemper Open, which made its debut last year with some extraordinary fireworks. Odds are there will even more surprises this year.

"The Ordeal of Dr. Mudd"

"The Ordeal of Dr. Mudd," a dramatic special movie presentation starring Leonard Baker as the Maryland physician who, because he unwittingly aided in the escape of Abraham Lincoln's assassin by setting his broken leg, became the subject of one of the country's most infamous trials, will be broadcast on the CBS Television Network Tuesday, March 25 (7:00-10:00 p.m.).

Susan Sullivan, Richard Benjamin, Michael McGuire, Nigel Davenport and Arthur Hill also star in the film, which dramatizes the events surrounding Dr. Samuel Mudd's arrest, trial and imprisonment for conspiring in the Lincoln assassination—about which he claimed he had not even heard when the President's disabled and injured killer, John Wilkes Booth, appeared at the Mudd home demanding medical attention.

The dramatic film, which was shot entirely on location in and around Savannah, Ga., because of the area's similarity to the Washington, D.C., and Maryland of the mid-1860s, focuses on just over four years in the life of the man who became the prototype for the doc-torate expression, "your name is mud." It follows his ordeal and that of his family from the early morning hours of April 15, 1865, when Booth shot the peace of the Mudd farm, to the day when the doctor, almost broken in body and spirit, leaves the steamboat Fort Jefferson prison on an island in the Dry Tortugas after having been released by President Andrew Johnson.

News of Lincoln's assassination had not reached the Maryland countryside when Dr. Mudd treated Booth, who was wearing fake whiskers, with a splint and a few hours of rest that April night. While Booth was in the White House, a doctor who supported the Union during the Civil War, later goes to the Union soldiers to tell them of his suspicions regarding the man whose leg he set, and is ordered to accompany them to Washington.

While he is in Washington being questioned by Edwin Stanton, Secretary of War, news of Booth's death reaches the capital, and Mudd is arrested as a conspirator since Stanton "will not allow Booth's dying in obscurity to deprive the nation of the cleansing it needs."

Susan Sullivan portrays Francis (eq.) Mudd, the doctor's young, devoted wife, who oversees the initial horrors of seeking her husband arrested "for being a doctor at the wrong time and place," her house ransacked and her four small children terrorized by soldiers. She keeps her farm and family together and conducts a pro-union campaign to free her husband by enlisting the aid of a top lawyer, Stanton's wife, and finally President John-

Randy and Diane Gill reap the role of the unwavering Stanton, who will not allow Dr. Mudd to have a civil trial, insisting on a military one since he considers the country still to be at war.

Michael McGuire is seen as the insensate Captain McDonald who is in charge of the evening, gray-bearded "Amos Fortune's Island" prison to which Dr. Mudd was sentenced—Fort Jefferson under the "white-hot sun" in the Dry Tortugas Islands off southwest Florida.

Nigel Davenport portrays Col. George S. Leger Grenfell, a colorful fellow prisoner and cellmate of Dr. Mudd at Fort Jefferson. An elderly statesman in fighting for lost causes, he has a positive approach to life and assists the doctor in a brave attempt to escape from prison.

Arthur Hill plays the role of General Thomas Ewing, a lawyer whoelects to free Dr. Mudd, volunteering his services when Francis first seeks help in Washington and continuing to support her through the bleak years ahead. He considers himself "a lawyer out of practice but with a cause, the truth."

"The Ordeal of Dr. Mudd" was written and co-produced by Michael Berkeley and Douglas Schwartz, whose writing credits also include the motion picture-for-television "The Incredible Journey of Doctor Meg Laurel."

Executive producer of the B.S.R. Production, in association with Marble Arch Productions, was Paul Radin, whose numerous credits range from such theatrical motion pictures as "Born Free," "The Magnificent Seven" and "The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance," to the recent motion picture-for-television "The Incredible Journey of Doctor Meg Laurel" and "The Two Worlds of Jimmie Logan," both seen on the Network.

Is There a Cure For Hypochondria?

Gordie Howe Bids Hockey Fans Adieu

In Our Cookbook:
4 Pages of Brunch Recipes

Since the late 1960s, smokers have sought ways to reduce their tobacco exposure. Many have turned to nicotine replacements such as gum, patches, and lozenges. These products have been shown to help alleviate withdrawal symptoms and reduce cravings for cigarettes.

Before you make the decision to quit smoking, consider the benefits and drawbacks of each option. Consult with your healthcare provider to determine the best course of action for you.

For advice on quitting smoking, please contact your local tobacco control program or visit the American Cancer Society's website at cancer.org/smokefree.

FOR THE "ASK" EDITOR

Paul or Brian thatbamap ign or cir, smokes. Has been smoking for 25 years. Any advice on how to quit? - L.A., West, N.D.

Paul: Of course, I'll do the honors. First, let's understand the problem. Second, let's agree on a strategy. Third, let's get started.

Brian: This is a complex issue, and there are no easy solutions. Quitting smoking requires time, patience, and commitment. Here are some tips to help you get started:

1. Set a quit date.
2. Plan your day-to-day routine.
3. Use nicotine replacement therapy.
4. Seek support from friends and family.
5. Join a support group or online community.

Remember, quitting smoking is not easy, but it's worth it. Good luck!
Is There a Cure for Hypochondria?

For some people, curiosity about their own health can be a real problem. But the hypochondriac's condition does not necessarily mean he is a for sale.

The term "hypochondria" comes from the Greek word "hypochoile," which means "to be one's own disease." A person with hypochondria is one who is always on the lookout for disease, even when there is none.

Some people may be more prone to hypochondria than others. For example, people who are already healthy may be more likely to think they have a disease. This is called "false health." People who have a disease may be more likely to think they have a disease too. This is called "true health." People who have both are more likely to be diagnosed with hypochondria.

For some people, hypochondria can be a real problem. They may have trouble sleeping, have trouble thinking, and have trouble doing their work. They may also be more likely to have accidents and injuries.

Is There a Cure for Hypochondria?

There are several different ways to treat hypochondria. Some people find that taking over-the-counter medications helps. Other people find that talking to a therapist helps. Still others find that eating healthy foods helps.

In some cases, hypochondria can be a serious problem. If you think you may have hypochondria, it is important to see a doctor. The doctor can help you figure out what is wrong and what can be done about it.

What an Important Book! It is estimated that more than 1 billion dollars per year is spent on prescription drugs, as well as the cost of doctors, nurses, and other medical personnel. The total cost of prescription drugs is projected to reach $100 billion by 1990. In addition, the cost of medical care is rising at an alarming rate, and many people are unable to afford the necessary medications.

To prepare this volume, the author consulted the various pharmacological references manuals plus the literature drug companies send to doctors and pharmacists. Then he edited the material into laymen's language explaining the conditions under which each drug is prescribed. And the book includes a very special collection of 200 drugs right alongside the brand names in each of the categories. People like prescriptions are written by doctors in the U.S. at each page. Offers free consultation on all types of medications, giving you a better idea of the cost of medications. People take prescription drugs to make these feel better. They're called "One Step Up" instruction books because unlike ordinary instruction books that teach you the melody, you really learn to play with both hands. You play chords that make the harmony as necessary to a professional sound.

These amazing books even include special charts so that even if you've never played before, you can learn to play every tune with ease and enjoyment. No guestbook. No memorizing. And Hansen House has written these books so they can be used not only for the piano, but for guitar, the organs, and more.

Now, for a limited time, you can get all three of these marvelous books for $14.95 value for only $8.95.

Here's what you get: Liberace "One Step Up" books with a total of 109 favorite tunes including "If You Need Me", "What I Did For Love" and other hits from Chorus Line, "Music Box Danse", "Feeling"

Too Busy Earning a Living To Make Any Money?

You're doing it wrong! Here's how to do it right.

1. Identify your expenses. Write down everything you spend money on. Include both large and small expenses.
2. Make a budget. Plan how much money you can spend each month on each expense category.
3. Track your spending. Use an app or a spreadsheet to keep track of your expenses.
4. Cut back on unnecessary spending. Look for ways to reduce your expenses. For example, you could cut back on takeout, subscriptions, or additional subscriptions.
5. Find extra income. Consider taking on a part-time job, selling things you no longer need, or starting a side business.

The Over-Mothered Plant
Q: My beautiful jade plant is dying. It looks like it's drooping and turning yellow. What should I do? I've tried watering it, pruning it, and giving it more light and less water. What can I do?
A: First, check the drainage. Make sure the pot is not sitting in water, as this can cause root rot. If the plant is still not thriving, consider repotting it in fresh soil.

Family Jewels
Q: My family has been passing down a few family heirlooms from generation to generation. How can I protect them from damage?
A: Store them in a cool, dry place away from direct sunlight and humidity. You can also use a soft cloth to dust them regularly to keep them clean.

Family Forum by Marilyn Mercer

Job vs. College
Q: My husband and I are currently trying to decide if my daughter should go to college or take a job after high school. We've heard mixed opinions from friends and family. Can you offer advice?
A: It's important to consider your daughter's interests and goals. If she is passionate about a particular field, going to college may be the best option. However, if she is unsure or prefers a different path, a job might be a good temporary solution.

Party for New Neighbors
Q: We've just moved into a new neighborhood, and I'm planning a party to introduce myself to my new neighbors. What tips do you have for hosting a successful event?
A: Consider inviting family and friends to help you introduce yourself to potential neighbors. Make sure to have plenty of refreshments and treats available, and be open to meeting and chatting with your guests.

Can a Landlord Raise the Rent?
Q: My landlord wants to raise the rent for my apartment. What can I do to negotiate or dispute the raise?
A: It's important to review your lease agreement to understand the terms of rent increases. If the increase is substantial or violates your lease, you may have grounds to dispute it. Consider speaking with a legal professional for guidance.

The Over-Mothered Plant: 1. Check the drainage. 2. Repot if necessary.

Family Jewels: Store in a cool, dry place.

Job vs. College: Consider your child's interests and goals.

Party for New Neighbors: Have a variety of refreshments.

INTRODUCING ULTRA TASTE—AT ULTRA LOW TAR.

(And we do mean ultra low. At only 6 mg of tar, it's less than 9% of all the cigarettes that people buy.)

How is it possible? Through a unique blend of very select, flavorful tobaccos. That's the Ultra Cigarette—new Vantage Ultra Lights from Vantage.

that the season lay in Howe's own house.

"I think it's a good way to do it," he said. "I think it's a good way to do it."

Lindblom estimates. "Every year he was on the other side of the room, covering it. He's been in the game,
and nobody would argue against it.
My guess is he's going to try to get his job. He'll do it the best way he can."

The late male has not only been mentioned to lose the best players on the team, but he's also been discussed about his future with the team. But Howe's father was ready even enough to force him to a decision.

"They've been talking to him. They've been talking to him. They've been talking to him."

Mancini, a 64-year-old kid who participated in the 1940s, said:
"I'm not sure if I know how much power he has. But you have to know somebody. Like most hockey fans, I have a certain amount of respect for players."

Alcohol: Two-thirds of the people in the country are over the age of 21, and alcohol consumption by American teenagers has become a serious problem. Some states have tried to combat the problem by raising the drinking age, but this has not been effective. Other states have imposed severe penalties for drunk driving, which has helped to reduce the problem.

Cigarettes: Cigarette smoking is a major health hazard, and efforts to reduce smoking are ongoing. The government has imposed strict regulations on the tobacco industry, and health warnings are required on all cigarette packages.

Out in the Wilds

Summertime is an experience usually enjoyed in the great outdoors. The National Wildlife Federation has observed that the season's wildlife is on display for the entire family. Each year, the organization sponsors various events, such as bird watching, nature walks, and photography workshops. The summer months are ideal for outdoor activities and exploration.

What Are the Rules?

We all know the rules, but sometimes it's hard to remember them all. For instance, if you're planning to hike in a national park, you should be aware of the rules regarding campsites and fire restrictions. It's also important to know the regulations regarding wildlife and the environment.
