BRAHMSBERG, Pa. (AP) — Mothers, little girls, preschoolers and promenaders with candles and song. "No more wars, My Lord!" at Three Mile Island Friday to observe the first anniversary of the area's most celebrated battle: the Battle of the Boys.

"We really don't know what it's all about," said Mildred Conley, mother of two, "but I know we'll be back."

The three mile island was involved in a spiraling visual whirlwind as the second anniversary of the accident was observed at the Three Mile Island Nuclear Power Plant in Pennsylvania. The site of the accident was observed at the Three Mile Island Nuclear Power Plant in Pennsylvania.

"We have always been proud of this community," said Edith Conley, mother of two, "but I think we'll have better."

"We are sure we can still afford another accident," said 11-year-old Carlos Conley, a survivor of the Brahmbergs.

A survivor of the Brahmbergs, a 13-year-old girl, said: "I'm so thankful that I could save it in time to give it to another." They were "Carol By Yahn, an African religious faith song that asks, "come by here, with the improved, and sing together."

Numerous commemorative prayers around the U.S. were observed at the anniversary, including a prayer service at the home of the parents of the first victim, T. A. Worker, Metropolitan Church in Philadelphia, N.J. At least 400 people were expected to attend.

"We still have to face the fact that we will be here," said John By Yahn, a survivor of the Brahmbergs.

Vital Count

Within the next week every household in the United States will receive a questionnaire asking them to mark their choice for President of the United States. The respondents will be asked to vote for the candidate they feel is best qualified to be President. The questionnaires will be accompanied by a card that contains the names of eight candidates. The respondents are to mark an "X" on the name of the candidate they feel is best qualified for the office. The results of the questionnaire will be tabulated and announced in a national newspaper on the Saturday after the election.

No Mystery

By Billy Graham

Numbly, I am told by my pastor, is the American's answer to the mystery of the world. Many people are bewildered and discouraged by the problems of their daily lives. They wonder why they are here, what they are doing, and where they are going. They are uncertain about the future and the meaning of life. In the face of such uncertainty, many people seek escape or avoidance. They may turn to alcohol, drugs, or other forms of self-destruction. They may try to escape into a dream world or into a fantasy of their own creation.

The New Army Needs Old Intelligence

By Art Buchwald

The New Army Needs Old Intelligence. The New Army, as everyone knows, is the Army of tomorrow. It is an army of the future, an army that is prepared to meet the challenges of the 21st century. But the New Army lacks one important thing: intelligence. The New Army has no intelligence at all.

Nigh Hopes Conference Works

OLYMPIA (AP) - Gov. George Nigh said Monday that state officials and representatives of the Indian tribes are working toward a settlement of the dispute over recognition of the tribes.

Nigh said the federal government has agreed to discuss the issue with the tribes, which have been seeking recognition for several years. He said a commission would be formed to study the matter.

The governor said it was important to reach an agreement because it would help the tribes to gain access to federal funding and other resources.

Delegates Favor Kennedy?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Candidates for state legislature and their supporters are expected to endorse Kennedy in the upcoming election.

State Sen. Ed Day, a Democratic candidate for re-election, said he would support Kennedy if he wins the nomination. He said Kennedy has a strong record on issues important to the state.

Day said that if Kennedy wins, he would work closely with him to ensure that the state's needs are met.
