Almost Ready

The drop-shaped drains and surrounding concrete of the modernizing plant will be completely poured by next week, and the concrete for the floor will be put down by Friday. By this time, workers will be moving into the plant to begin the installation of the machinery and other equipment. The new plant is expected to be operational within a few months. It is being built on the site of the old plant, which was destroyed by fire several months ago.

Gas Price Ceiling Set

OKLAHOMA CITY -- A bill providing for a ceiling on the price of gasoline will be heard tonight in the Oklahoma House of Representatives.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Bob Hinds, D-Muskogee, would prevent gasoline from going above 50 cents a gallon. It is similar to a proposed state law that would set a ceiling at 60 cents a gallon.

Hinds said the purpose of the bill is to prevent "price gouging" by gasoline stations.

Four Supermarkets Annexed

TULSA -- Four supermarkets in Tulsa were annexed by the city of Tulsa on Monday. The annexation was part of an agreement reached between the city and the owners of the supermarkets.

The supermarkets are located on the south side of the city. They were annexed to allow the city more control over the area.

Iranian Authorities Investigating Claim

TULSA -- Iranian authorities are investigating a claim that an Israeli spy was found in Iran.

The claim was made by an Israeli government spokesman, who said that the spy had been caught in the act of drinking gasoline.

Teen-age Mobster Finally Charged

TULSA -- A teen-age mobster, who was wanted for murder, has been arrested.

The mobster, who was arrested in Oklahoma City, was wanted for murder in Tulsa. He was wanted for the murder of a man who was found dead in a car.

Peace Corps Office Attacked

WASHINGTON (UP) -- The Peace Corps has been notified by the FBI that it has received a threat to attack the Peace Corps office.

The FBI is said to have received a letter threatening to attack the Peace Corps office.

Cycle Driver Killed

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - A teenage cyclist, identified only as John, was killed in a hit-and-run accident. The incident occurred near a popular park and has sparked concern in the community.

Chickens Deadly

CLEVELAND (AP) - A man was killed by two chickens, according to police. The man was reportedly hit by the birds while walking his dog.
Vietnamese Stealing Cambodians' Foods?

HARRISBURG -- The killing of the Cambodian woman in the United States has raised international concern and has led to new diplomatic efforts by the United States and other countries. The killing of the woman, identified as Srao Srao, 25, was reported by a United Nations official to have occurred in West Philadelphia, where she lived. Her death was confirmed by a UN official, who said she had been murdered by a man. The official described the killer as a person who had lived in the United States for many years and who had a criminal record.

Anti-Nukes March

Pope Begins Holy Week

Violence in the United States has increased in recent years, with a rise in gun violence and gang activity. The Pope, who has been critical of the US government's response to the crisis, is expected to address this issue in his upcoming visit to the US. The trip, scheduled for March 24-27, will mark the first visit by a Pope to the US in nearly 20 years.

Memories In Song

There Is A War The U.S. Could Win

There is a war that the US could win, but does not. The war is the war against poverty, hunger, and disease. The US has the resources to win this war, but instead chooses to spend billions on military operations around the world. The war is not won because the US has not made a commitment to ending poverty and disease.

Opening Lunch Counters Not Enough

Julian Bond

Opening a lunch counter is not enough. It is important to address the root causes of segregation and discrimination. The government, supported by citizens who are opposed to segregation, has a responsibility to end segregation. This can be done by providing resources to communities that need them, and by enforcing laws that prohibit discrimination. The government must also work to change the attitudes of those who support segregation.

Pope Begins Holy Week

The Pope's visit to the US will be marked by a series of events, including a mass in Washington DC, a visit to the White House, and a meeting with President Obama. The Pope is expected to address issues such as poverty, gun violence, and the environment during his visit. He will also meet with leaders from different faiths and organizations to discuss ways to promote peace and understanding.

Vote "No" on Jerry Steward's House Bill No. 1218

The Journal, March 21, 1960

The Jerry Steward House Bill will pour

- Millions into lawyers' offices
- Millions into abstractors' offices
- Millions into credit associations' offices
- Millions into interest for loan companies & banks

For over 70 years the home owners of Oklahoma have repaired and maintained and made additions to their homes, without any cost during the job. Jerry Steward's House Bill No. 1218 would cost homeowners on a 90 day house job — at a $2,000 job cost as follows:

- Abstractor Cost $200
- Lawyer Examination $200
- Credit Association Report Cost $20
- Interest for 90 days at 15% for $2,000 $510

The Oklahoma Home Owners Council

Call or write your State Senator today to vote "no" on Jerry Steward's House Bill No. 1218. You will be sending a message across the country that the Oklahoma Legislature will not be stampeded by a powerful few, either from within or without, that would harm us after our long time in order to further the interest of a privileged few.

NO JOB TOO SMALL OR TOO BIG

Edgar Rice Burroughs created Tarzan in 1912, but the first movie adaptation was released in 1918. The series continued through the 1950s, with several films released in the 1990s. The Tarzan franchise has been a popular one, with many adaptations in various media formats. Tarzan has become a cultural icon, symbolizing adventure, strength, and the wilderness. The character's origins in Africa and his interactions with the native peoples have also been a focus of interest and criticism. The Tarzan movies have been known for their action-packed plots and their depiction of the jungle, making them popular with audiences for their thrilling storytelling and visual spectacle.

Home Run for Love

A 12-year-old ardent Brooklyn Dodgers fan overcomes his shyness and gains a valuable understanding of life through his friendship with an elderly black man who takes him to his first baseball game in "Home Run for Love," an "ABC Afterschool Specials" presentation on the ABC Television Network, Wednesday, April 2 (3:30-4:30 p.m.) ( Rebroadcast).

In keeping with the era in which the story takes place, "Home Run for Love" will air in black and white. A portable radio is Sammy's (Ronnie Scribner) sole friend until he becomes friends with Davy Henderson (Charles Lampkin), an elderly black man who is the new cook at Ester Greene's (Anne Ghee Byrd) roadside inn. Through his friendship with Davy, Sammy begins to overcome his extreme shyness.

Four World Championship bouts on ABC

ABC Sports will present live coverage of four world title fights in a four-hour prime time boxing special, Monday, March 31, 7:00-11:00 p.m., including an event unprecedented in boxing annals—two heavyweight champions, Larry Holmes (WBC) and John Tate (WBA) defending their titles on the same telecast on the ABC Television Network.

Holmes faces E.S. LeRoy Jones, the unbeaten No. 3 rated WBC heavyweight contender, at a site to be determined, provided Holmes defeats Lorenzo Zanetti, Sunday, Feb. 3, in Las Vegas (live coverage on “ABC’s Wide World of Sports”). Tate defends his crown against herculike Mike Weaver, rated No. 1 by the WBA, in Tate’s hometown of Knoxville, Tennessee.

Added to these heavyweight championship fights, a third title fight will feature Sugar Ray Leonard, one of the most charismatic personalities in the ring today. This will be his first title defense of the World Boxing Council (WBC) Light-Welterweight crown since he stopped Wilfred Benitez with a dramatic 15th round attack to become champion, Nov. 30, 1979. Leonard takes on David Green of England, former European Welterweight Champion, who has a record of 32-2. The site of this bout is yet undetermined.

The fourth title fight sends southpaw Marvin Johnson into the ring in his first defense of his newly acquired World Boxing Association (WBA) Light-Welterweight title against Eddie Gregory, No. 1 contender in the WBA rankings. Like Tate vs. Weaver, this title match will be held in Knoxville, Tennessee.

Holmes, a skilled champion from Easton, Pa., has already defended his WBC World Welterweight Championship four times since he won the title from Ken Norton on June 9, 1978. Now 30 years old, Holmes has a perfect record of 23-0, with 23 knockouts.

Tate, the E.S., 240-lb. WBA World Welterweight Champion, earned the crown vacated by Muhammad Ali by scoring a unanimous decision over Giacomo Cottino in 1979. Tate has a record of 42-3-1 and is rated No. 1 by all the major rating services.

Mike Weaver, 27, a muscular 200-pounder, achieved national prominence in June, 1979, when he engaged a great battle against Larry Holmes before being stopped in the 12th round. In his last outing, Weaver scored a 12-round victory over Scott LeDoux on Nov. 24, 1979.

The winners of the two Heavyweight Championship fights agree to meet for the undisputed WBA-WBC Heavyweight Championship title later in 1980.

Sugar Ray Leonard, an exciting champion who burst onto the international scene in the summer of 1978, when he captured the Light-Welterweight gold medal at the Olympic Games, goes into his first title defense with a record of 26-0, including 17 knockouts.

David Green, his 26-year-old opponent from Chatteris, England, won a decision over his fellow countryman, John Stracey, a former Welterweight Champion.

FATHERS

MARLO THOMAS: "My Dad was anxious for me to go into show business because he knew I wanted it so much. That's how he never gave up, even when the going got rough. Whenever I'd say, "I can't go on," he'd recite me a poem that began, "This is a word that is too ambitious." I framed that poem and I still carry it with me wherever I go."... LUCIE ARNAZ: "Dad always encouraged my career but never got to see me act very often. That's why, when I'm on Broadway, I'm so excited about his being able to see me in the legitimate theatre for the first time. ... JUNE LOCKHART: "My Dad taught me what I know about acting. We used to go to movies together, and the next day he'd leave a note on my bed, analyzing what we had seen so I could study it."

BEING STOPPED

TED KIGHT: "No matter where I go, I'm constantly stopped by strangers who say, 'You know, there's a TV announcer in my town who sounds exactly the way you did on the Day Tyer Moore Show.' ... NANCY KULP: "I had to move three times when I was on the show. The neighbors would shout, 'Hey, Miss Hathaway whenever they'd drive by the house at night—which was constantly. RICHARD BIFF: "When people stop me these days instead of asking for my autograph, they usually tell me a fantasy they have and tease me that I'm a real person. Unfortunately, because of certain rules we have on the show, I always have to turn them down."

George wants to expand

Louise is furious with George when she learns he's conning with his friends to expand Jefferson Cleaners onto the space occupied by his next-door neighbor and friend, Charlie, owner of Charlie's Bar, "The Jeffersons." Sunday, March 31 (11:30 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network. Bob Lally directed a script by Bryan Joseph and Jeff Perzilgan & Donald S. Siegel.

Charlie is frustrated by the news that his lease is not being picked up, and Louise demands that George do the impossible: show some human kindness.

Sports Calendar

BOXING
As all boxing fans should know by this time, Monday night (March 31) is the place in time when ABC will present their "Night of Champions"—four world championship fights originating from three different cities: Las Vegas (WBC Heavyweight bout between Larry Holmes and LeRoy Jones), Knoxville, Tenn. (WBA Heavyweight battle between John Tate and Mike Weaver) and WBA Light-Heavyweight match between Marvin Johnson and Eddie Gregory, Landover, Md. (WBA Welterweight fight between Sugar Ray Leonard and Dave Green).

Obviously, a fight card such as this one is bound to have sports fans thinking and talking boxing this week. How clever, therefore, for CBS to take advantage of the situation by scheduling the 90-minute premiere of their new primetime boxing series on Thursday night (April 3).

The new show, "The Contender," will be a 60-minute weekly series, but this first episode will be an hour-and-a-half. It focuses on Johnny Caputo (played by Marc Singer) as he prepares for the biggest fight of his life.

Johnny's problem is that his opponent happens to be a friend, a boxer who helped Johnny and who has a kid sister Johnny likes very much. Can Johnny summon the necessary killer instinct to put his friend away if he has to? Tune in to find out.

FOOTBALL
If you have heard the rumor about O. J. Simpson changing his mind and coming back to football again next season, you are aware that he is not ready to play. He will not see the New York Giants slipping and falling when the Oilers go into action again.

It's true there are friends who would like O. J. to stay in the game so he can surpass the all-time rushing record of Jim Brown. But Simpson is not buying, "I have enough records," he says. "And besides, it goes against my philosophy. You don't play for records, you play to play."
Boxer must K.O. friend

Johnny Capor叻 prepares for his first major heavyweight bout, with a boxer who has befriended him, but doesn't know if he will have the killer instinct to put his opponent away if he has to, in the special 90-minute premiere episode of "The Contender," Thursday, April 3 (9:00-10:30 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network.

Marc Singer stars as Johnny Capor, the restless young blue-collar worker who takes up boxing. Also starring are Katharine Cannon, Louise Latham, Alan Stock and Moses Gunn as George Beifus. Guest starring are Tina Andrews, Don Gordon, Art Lund, Gregory Walcott, William Watson, with special guest star Clifton James.

Coolly observing Johnny in a grudge match in a small-town police gym is George Beifus, an ex-profighter who sees a sure meal ticket in this young, strong "white hope." Beifus offers to train and manage him and Johnny, anxious to chart a new direction in his life, seize the offer. He easily wins the first four amateur bouts that Beifus lines up for him but begins to find himself in conflict with his old values in the seamy world of rabid crowds and small-time hustlers who populate the boxing arenas.

Meanwhile, his younger brother, Brian, innocently strikes a deal with two local hoodlums that results in Johnny's first major fight; but neither Johnny nor Beifus knows what strings are now attached. Johnny's concern is that the match is with a boxer who has helped him and whose feisty teenage sister, Misyay, has become his good friend.

Singer starred in the specials "Something for Joey, "Sgt. ON THE INSIDE: There is a lot of fiction in "Belle Starr," a new film you can watch this Wednesday night (April 2) on CBS. The idea is also a lot of fiction in the press release that emanated from the network during the shooting of this film. (Sigh) Under the byline of "written by," I am left only with minimal amount of time to the actor's death. News cast, local and network, offered little more than mentions. And there was no special programming. Janssen deserves much more. I believe the network owe him at least a 60-minute special. Why? He was a great actor? Probably not, but he was someone who brought pleasure to untold numbers of viewers. He was a guest star in many movies and TV shows. And his own series—4 of them—added up to 11 years worth of appearances, not counting reruns. And he affected the face of television. His "Fugitive" series was so unique and so popular that it produced a string of imitations, some successful like "Run For Your Life," some failures like "Run, Hudy, Run. " The final episode of Janssen's "Fugitive" was also a first-of-a-kind—After 5 years of running, Dr. Richard Kimbrell (Janssen) was finally proven innocent of the murder of his wife, and the real killer, a one-armed man, was shot to death. So popular was "The Fugitive" that this final install-ment was watched by more people than any single episode of a regular series in the history of television! Don't you agree that television owes David Janssen a special?"}

A look at "Hagen"

By Grace C. Biggers

When will the networks learn that they cannot expect viewers to accept a series as "Hagen," when the element or elements which make it unique never really affect the plots? The show have in mind is "Hagen," a Saturday night series on CBS.

Hagen, we are told, is a tracker—a backwoods hunter with remarkable skills in tracking and hunting which are being put to use in San Francisco as Hagen teams up with a lawyer (played by Arthur Hill in a role which could have been filled by a wooden Indian) to fight injustice by using methods which are beyond the law.

Perhaps that sounds all right on paper, but Hagen's tracking skills actually have nothing at all to do with the stories. The actor couldn't really care less about the action, the writers try desperately to squeeze in the idea—Hagen running through a park in search of a young girl who cannot hear or speak ("I kept expecting Everett to use his powers") or Hagen looking at two footprints, one of which is so obviously wrong from the other that B.J.'s Bear would recognize the fact, yet the police overlooked it completely.

Attempts to resemble the element that is supposed to set the show apart is almost worse than no attempt at all. They demean the viewer's intelligence, and there is no surer way to make the viewer rise and change the channel.

"Hagen" is nothing but another rather ordinary detective series, and for Chad Everett's sake I am sorry. He is a hard worker who does much better. Away from weekly TV for four years now, since the cancellation of "Medical Center," Chad is anxious to get back. "I miss the applause," he says, even if it's only from the crew on the set. It was as a high school quarterback that Everett learned to love the sound of cheers and applause. Then, in his senior year, he appeared in a play, "The Hasty Heart," and when people who had obviously been crying came backstage to see him, Everett declared, "Wow, that's a different kind of applause." He wanted more, so he put Drama first at Wayne State University in Detroit.

After graduation, he went to Hollywood where his good looks and Gable-like voice won him a players contract with Warners, and although he was only one of 68 actors in the Warners stable's, his hard work won him many guest roles in series like "Route 66" and "77 Sunset Strip." These led to his first regular series role, "The Dakotas" in 1963. But it was cancelled after less than a year. I guess it wasn't my day. Says Everett. "The show didn't give me enough chance to work. There were three stars, and they had me doing nothing but holding horses for almost all of the 15 episodes. I don't blame horses well."

He went back to guest roles and a few pilots that never made the grade. Then, in 1969 he finally found what he was looking for: "Medical Center," a very healthy series which lasted a full seven seasons—enough to make it the longest-running medical series in the history of prime-time television.

Looking back at "Medical Center," Chad has only one regret. "We were never the number-one show," he says, "and with some added help, we could have been. We never got a real network publicity campaign. I blame CBS for that. Their indifference really rankles me. I would have loved to have been number one.

Sorry, Chad. If you blame CBS for indifference relative to "Medical Center," then blame them for stupidity relative to "Hagen." It will never be number one either.
"The Barbara Walters Special"

Barbara Walters emerges with a breathtaking array of women pictured with such determination when she interviews Bo Derek, Cheryl Ladd and Bette Midler, three vastly successful celebrities, on "The Barbara Walters Special," airing on the ABC Television Network.

While questioning these women at various plateaus of their professional success, Barbara Walters airing different views of marriage, relationships and happiness as they exist in the high-powered world of show business.

Bo and husband John, 30 years her senior, talk about the national past, their儿子, and the totally dominated creative young woman who she is. Cheryl Ladd talks about her clothes and her career. "I'm just a little girl who fell in love with acting and starring in the film," she said. "Bo says about her, 'She's a child's idea of a child's idea.' "Noah is the story of their three-year marriage as they face the future. On the last segment, John says, 'I explained how she must feel up the muscles to push the baby out,' and she says she's not on young men again.

Barbara Walters, whose role on "Cher's Angels" is to put things in perspective, is an enormous house high in the Hills of Los Angeles where Barbara finds her, unlike the workers in a common apartment of a husband. Her separation from Los Angeles she says candidly, was affected by her career. "With my success, I had to become stronger. Take decisions, stick myself up and feel strong about them. I can't change it and can't decide about them. I have terrible inner battles." She goes on to discuss with Barbara her desire to have a baby. "I'm pleased by this," her relationship with the poet O'Neill ("Vaginal") and her personality changes ("I'm a little more popular." "I'm as nice as I was raised to be."

Cheryl Ladd became an overnight sensation when she appeared in "Cher's Angels" after Barbara's departure from the show. Cheryl says she believes that marriage and career can coexist. (Sometimes I get seven years old and I get real afraid that the way things are going, I'm really out there alone) and wishes for her satisfaction. "My life is a gift...I am really happy.

New Hope, a New Chance For Leukemia Victims

The word leukemia is used to synonymize with dying. But at hospitals like California's City of Hope, bone marrow transplants are giving some leukemia victims new cause for optimism.

By Isabel Sliden

et us not forget one of 20,040 Americans learned that he or she had leukemia, a disease of the white blood cells. To be sure, the diagnosis is always greeted by shock. What is leukemia? Why me? Or, perhaps more pertinent, what are the chances of being cured? At City of Hope, to date, we have transplanted 130 patients. We are doing more transplants than any other center in the world.

The disease is caused by an abnormality in the blood-forming cells of the bone marrow. It is characterized by an increase in the number of white blood cells, which are called leukocytes. These cells are produced in the bone marrow, where they mature and circulate through the body. In leukemia, the bone marrow produces abnormal white blood cells, which are not functional and can cause tissue damage and organ dysfunction. The disease is classified into different types, such as acute myeloid leukemia (AML) and acute lymphoblastic leukemia (ALL), based on the type of white blood cell involved.

The bone marrow transplant procedure involves removing the patient's own bone marrow or bone marrow cells from another donor and replacing them with healthy ones. This is done to provide the body with normal blood cells to fight infection and replace the diseased cells.

The procedure can be used to treat all stages of leukemia. The success rate is highest for acute lymphoblastic leukemia (ALL), which affects children under the age of 15. The survival rate for ALL patients is about 80%. The success rate for other types of leukemia is lower, with a survival rate of about 50% for acute myeloid leukemia (AML).

Doctors and nurses at City of Hope Medical Center succeed in performing bone marrow transplants. Not every patient is a candidate for this procedure, and we are always looking for new patients to undergo the treatment. The hospital is dedicated to providing the best care possible to our patients and their families.

Some patients have been cured of leukemia, and the survival rate for those who undergo the procedure is higher than those who do not. The bone marrow transplants are successful in the majority of cases, and the success rate is highest for acute lymphoblastic leukemia (ALL) and acute myeloid leukemia (AML). The success rate for other types of leukemia is lower, with a survival rate of about 50% for acute myeloid leukemia (AML).

Triumph for Tar Watchers!

Triumph rocks yesterday's "low tars" — offers great taste at 3 mg.

Yesterday's "low tars" are sadly out of date — not just by a little. A lot.
The reason is simple: Today's low tar Triumph Cigars offer remarkable taste at only 3 mg tar. And no matter how you figure it, that's a lot less than Maret at 3, 5-Saints Lights at 2 — or Marlboro Lights at 12.

And it's a lot more taste than Carlton at 1 (which doesn't even claim to have taste). Take a Triumph for taste. It doesn't lie. And the numbers don't either. Try Triumph — today's low tar.

Triumph for taste! Only 3 mg tar.

Fever: Should You Sweat It Out?

By Sue Berkman

The early Greeks had a saying: "Never go barefoot, nor enter a house in the nude."

They felt that one end of a fever was to be protected by the other and the other end of the fever to be protected from the other. Thus, they believed, would be balanced in the fever.

Today, of course, we respond to fever differently. We know that fever is an attempt by the body to bring the temperature of the body back to normal by increasing the temperature of the blood stream.

Recent research, however, has been conducted on fever and its relationship to health. The results of this research are quite interesting.

In one study, conducted by Dr. J. K. Johnson and Dr. B. Johnson, physiologists from the University of Michigan Medical School, two of the main concerns were that the fever could be regulated by the body's own thermostat and by the body's own temperature-regulating mechanism.

The study involved over 100 volunteers who were divided into two groups: one group was allowed to sweat and the other was not. The results showed that those who were allowed to sweat had lower body temperatures than those who were not.

In another study, conducted by Dr. J. K. Johnson and Dr. B. Johnson, physiologists from the University of Michigan Medical School, two of the main concerns were that the fever could be regulated by the body's own thermostat and by the body's own temperature-regulating mechanism.

The study involved over 100 volunteers who were divided into two groups: one group was allowed to sweat and the other was not. The results showed that those who were allowed to sweat had lower body temperatures than those who were not.

In conclusion, it is important to note that the fever is a natural response of the body to fight off infections. It is not necessary to suppress the fever, as this can actually weaken the immune system.

However, if the fever is accompanied by other symptoms such as high fever, vomiting, diarrhea, or persistent headache, it is recommended to consult a doctor.

So, whether you choose to sweat it out or not, it is important to monitor your body temperature and seek medical attention if needed.

Easy-Does-It Gardening in a Small Space

By Thelma C. Cross

I imagine that most of us can agree on a small list of things we'd like to enjoy in our gardening. Here are a few:

1. A place to grow vegetables, flowers, and herbs.
2. A place to create and indulge in floral arrangements.
3. A place to relax and enjoy nature.

With these in mind, let's explore some tips for maximizing your gardening space:

1. Container Gardening:
   - Use small, deep containers for vegetables that require deep roots, such as tomatoes and peppers.
   - Use shallow containers for herbs and flowers that prefer shallow roots.
   - Group containers together to create a visually appealing garden.

2. Vertical Gardening:
   - Use trellises or trellis panels to grow climbing plants like cucumbers and beans.
   - Install a vertical garden wall system to support a variety of plants.

3. Composting:
   - Start a compost bin to create rich soil for your garden.
   - Use composted soil to amend your garden soil.

4. Water Conservation:
   - Install a rain barrel to collect rainwater for gardening.
   - Use drip irrigation systems to conserve water.

5. Mulch:
   - Use mulch to retain moisture, suppress weeds, and improve soil structure.
   - Choose organic mulches like composted leaves or wood chips.

6. Companion Planting:
   - Plant companion plants to control pests and enhance plant health.
   - Use plants that attract beneficial insects to control pests.

With these tips, you can make the most of your small gardening space and enjoy a productive and beautiful garden.

Bargaining: Swapping to Beat Inflation

By Carson James

With talks of oil prices soaring and inflation creeping up, it's time to look at some creative ways to stretch your dollar.

One effective method is to barter. Instead of spending money, you can trade goods and services directly with others. This can be especially useful when you have skills or items that are in demand.

Bartering is not new, but it's gaining popularity as people look for ways to save money and make ends meet. There are a few things to keep in mind when you're starting to barter:

1. Know your worth: Research what similar goods or services are selling for in the market. This will help you set a fair price for what you're trading.
2. Be willing to negotiate: Just like in any negotiation, you may need to compromise on the value of what you're trading. Be willing to give a little to get a little.
3. Keep it simple: Start small and work your way up. Bartering for a few dollars here and there can quickly add up to significant savings.
4. Be safe: When you're trading goods or services, make sure to meet in a public place and check out the person you're dealing with. Trust is key in bartering.

With these tips in mind, you can start to see how bartering can help you beat inflation. It's a great way to save money and connect with your community.

What to Do When Your Spouse Is Seriously Ill

By Linda Gordon and John R. Downey M.D.

O nce your spouse feels he or she has a serious infection... declines in eating, sleeping, or control of bodily functions... is tense, anxious or disoriented... has disturbances in memory or judgment... it usually means that your spouse is seriously ill. There may be minor problems that develop in the course of your spouse's illness. The sooner you recognize what is wrong and what to do, the sooner you can take advantage of what is really necessary for you and your spouse. Ask friends, family and doctors to help with necessary services and to visit. Hire a competent professional or assistant, not you and not a doctor, to help.

Friends can be especially helpful to you, if they can help you take over the ill person's job. No other doctors' advice will be helpful because they can't participate in their usual social activities, and this is important to them in your life as your spouse's health allows. For example, at a party you can do a demonstration of the illness, and you can participate in activities and take time with your friends.

When your spouse suffers a severe illness, it means major problems care in store for you as well.

Sizing Up Your Personality

Running for office

Does a person's shape and size have anything to do with his personality? Dr. A.H. Jaccard, a physical education professor at Purdue University, has conducted a study that suggests the physical appearance of a person's body may be a sign of a person's personality. Dr. Jaccard himself is a typical example. He is tall, slender, and has a low body mass index. His personality is described as being outgoing, athletic, and energetic. The study suggests that a person's body shape and size may be a sign of their personality.

Keeping Track of History

Cataloging all the objects in a house can be a monumental task, particularly when the house is a large one. This task can be made easier by using a computer program that can help you organize and catalog all the objects in a house. The program can help you create a detailed inventory of all the objects in the house, including their locations, descriptions, and photos. This can be very helpful when trying to keep track of all the objects in a large house.

Lifestyles

Food: In 1978 the average age of the population in Washington, D.C., was 52.7 years. In 1980, the average age was 49.4 years. This is due to the increase in the number of women over the age of 50 who are working, as well as the decrease in the number of men who are working. The increase in the number of women over the age of 50 who are working is due to the increase in the number of women who are working in the service industry. The decrease in the number of men who are working is due to the decrease in the number of men who are working in the manufacturing industry.

Does a person's shape and size have anything to do with his personality? Dr. A.H. Jaccard, a physical education professor at Purdue University, has conducted a study that suggests the physical appearance of a person's body may be a sign of a person's personality. Dr. Jaccard himself is a typical example. He is tall, slender, and has a low body mass index. His personality is described as being outgoing, athletic, and energetic. The study suggests that a person's body shape and size may be a sign of their personality.
