Body Of Kidnapped Woman Found

By Kelly Hall

OKLAHOMA CITY — A body was found in the backyard of a house that was searched by FBI agents for clues to the whereabouts of the woman who was kidnapped last week. The body was discovered by agents and the Oklahoma County Sheriff's Department about 10:30 a.m. near NE 85 and N. Lincoln, in the area where the woman was last seen.

The woman was last seen on March 12, and since then, authorities have been searching for her. The FBI has been involved in the search since the woman was kidnapped last Friday.

Hostages Threatened With Death

The Los Angeles Times reported yesterday that the country is on the brink of a major crisis following an apparent threat by the kidnappers of the Los Angeles Times. The kidnappers, who have been holding the newspaper hostage for several days, issued a last-minute warning to the city's mayor, threatening to kill the hostage unless certain demands are met. The mayor was reportedly in a state of shock, as the city was bracing for a potential hostage situation.

State Opens Tax Ruling Appeal

The Oklahoma Tax Commission has opened an appeal to a tax ruling that could have major implications for the state's economy. The ruling, which was issued last month, is being challenged by several major companies that claim it will result in significant tax savings. The appeal is expected to take several months to resolve.

Rock Groups May File Suit

The Oklahoma City Planning Commission is being sued by several rock groups, who claim that a new downtown development is threatening their existence. The development, which is expected to house a large number of tourists and businesses, is located near the area where several of the groups' fans frequent. The groups claim that the noise and traffic will make it impossible for them to perform.

Here’s How To Clean Your Brick Fireplace

DEAR HELIOSE,
 How do I clean my brick fireplace?

Hints From Heloise

A brick fireplace can be cleaned with a strong solution of water and baking soda. Apply the mixture with a brush or sponge, then rinse with a clean sponge. Repeat this process until the fireplace is clean. To prevent future buildup, use a vacuum to remove ash and debris regularly. For stubborn stains, you may need to sandblast the area. Be sure to follow all safety guidelines when using any cleaning materials.

U.S. Military Couldn’t Back Up Carter’s Words

WASHINGTON — after the blast swept into Amherst, the President’s former home on the West Side of the city, local police and fire officials said the town was on alert. The blast was reported at 1:20 a.m. in the middle of the night, and the town’s emergency services were scrambled to the scene. The blast caused widespread damage, including the collapse of several buildings, and left at least three people injured. The cause of the explosion is under investigation, and authorities have urged residents to stay away from the area. The blast was the latest in a series of incidents in the town, which has been hit by a string of explosions in recent months.

Olympic Vote Soon

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (U.S.) — In a bid to boost the chances of securing a vote for the Olympic Committee, organizers are planning to launch a campaign to persuade the city’s residents to support the bid. The campaign will involve a series of public events, including a rally and a town hall meeting, and will be aimed at convincing local residents of the benefits of hosting the Olympics. The campaign is expected to begin in the next few weeks, and organizers are hoping to secure a majority vote in favor of the Olympic bid. The vote is scheduled to take place in November, and the winner will be announced in December.

Recession Avoidable?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said the recession can be avoided if the economy is given the proper tools. He said that the government is already working on a new economic package to stimulate the economy. The package includes tax cuts, increased spending, and increased aid to the unemployed. The President said that the package will be enough to get the economy back on track. The package is expected to be unveiled in the next few weeks.

Can The IRS Make Them Pay?

Tax Resisters Refuse To Pay Taxes

By William W. Slocum

Washington, D.C. -- The U.S. government is determined to collect taxes from its citizens, but it faces a formidable foe in the form of tax resisters who refuse to pay their share. The IRS has been putting pressure on these individuals, but they remain steadfast in their refusal to pay. The conflict has escalated, with both sides taking extreme measures to enforce their positions.

Tax reform and resistance have been a part of American history for centuries. The colonists fought against British taxation, and the Civil War saw the North and South divided by the issue of slavery. In modern times, the anti-war movement has been a powerful force against the draft and military service.

The IRS is a powerful force in the government, with a mission to ensure that taxes are paid fairly and accurately. It has the authority to audit tax returns, assess penalties, and even seize property if necessary. But some individuals believe that the government has exceeded its authority in collecting taxes.

Tax Rebolt Urged

Said one tax resister: "We are charged with the crime of not paying our taxes. We are seen as criminals by the IRS, but we are simply rebelling against an unjust system. The government has no right to take our hard-earned money without our consent."

Attacking The 16th Amendment

The 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which authorizes the federal government to collect income taxes, has been a source of contention for many. It was passed in 1913, in response to the income inequality of the time. But some argue that it has been misused and that it infringes on personal liberties.

Frozen Zoo May Save Animals

Animals in the frozen zoo are threatened with death by starvation. Conservationists are working to save them by transporting them to new homes. But the political climate has made it difficult to find new homes, and the animals are in urgent need of rescue.

Bootslegger Disputed Test Case

The Supreme Court is currently considering the case of a bootlegger who refused to pay his taxes. If the Court rules in favor of the bootlegger, it could have significant implications for tax reform. But the government is fighting back, determined to hold tax evaders accountable.

Can Anyone Evade Taxes?

One man who is evading taxes is a former tax collector who now lives in hiding. He believes that the system is rigged against him and that he has no choice but to evade taxes. But the government has been hot on his trail, and he may be forced to come out of hiding.

Urban League Complains

The Urban League has complained about the IRS's treatment of its members. They argue that the government is targeting them because of their race and that this is a violation of civil rights.

Hansen To Speak

A prominent speaker will be discussing the importance of tax resistance. He argues that the government is too powerful and that individuals have a right to refuse to pay taxes.

The future of tax reform is uncertain, but the conflict between the government and its citizens is likely to continue. The pressure to collect taxes will remain, but the resistance to pay them will also persist. The battle between the government and its citizens will continue to be fought in the courts and on the streets.
Stocks Rise Sharply

NEW YORK CITY - Prices rose on Wall Street today as the market continued its recent gains. The Dow Jones Industrial Average closed at 25,500, a 2% increase from yesterday's close of 24,500. The Nasdaq Composite Index also rose, finishing at 5,000, up 1.5%.

In other news, the Federal Reserve announced a 0.25% increase in the federal funds rate, citing inflation concerns. The move was expected by market analysts and did not significantly impact the market's performance.

Dollar Suffers Breathing

By United Press International

The U.S. dollar suffered a slight decline today against most major currencies. The currency softened after the release of weak economic data, including a drop in retail sales and a rise in the unemployment rate. Analysts predict the dollar may continue to weaken as global economic uncertainties persist.
Children Add To New York Transit Chaos

NEW YORK (AP) — One police officer shot and killed a young man Sunday night after the man pulled out a gun during a struggle to control the steering wheel of a car. The police officer then fired shots at the man, who later died at the scene. The incident occurred at 9:00 p.m. on the West Side highway, near the George Washington Bridge.

FBI Gathers More Evidence On Terrorists

Dire warnings about the possibility of terrorist attacks on American soil have heightened the need for more intelligence gathering. Terrorism experts say that the ongoing investigation by the FBI has revealed new leads that could help prevent future attacks. The FBI is currently conducting interviews with witnesses and suspects in the case.

Oil Group Sees Drop In Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Petroleum Institute reported a 3.2% drop in oil prices last week. This is the largest drop in oil prices since the recent sanctions imposed on Iran. The API said that the drop in prices is due to a decrease in demand and a surplus of crude oil in the market.

Shah Moved To Cairo Palace

The Shah of Iran has been moved to a new residence in Cairo, Egypt. The Shah, who is currently under house arrest in Iran, was transferred to a large palace in the city. The move was made to provide better security and to ensure the Shah's safety.

Israeli Troops Move Into Lebanon

In a surprise move, Israeli forces have moved into Lebanon. The troops are reportedly occupying a strategic position near the border with Syria. This action is believed to be a response to recent tension in the region and the threat posed by Hezbollah fighters.
