Embassy Militants Alley Iraq 'Puppet' Of America

By United Press International

PORTO RICAN guerillas, who have seized the United States Embassy in Havana, Cuba, have announced they have taken control of the building.

The announcement, made by a representative of the Puerto Rican guerrillas, said the people of Cuba have taken control of the Embassy and that the United States government is no longer in control.

The representatives said they have taken over the Embassy because of the United States' continued support of the Cuban government.

They said they have taken the Embassy as a symbol of the struggle against imperialism and for the freedom of Cuba.

The representatives also said they will hold a press conference later to announce their plans for the future of the Embassy.

Kidnap Victim's Cause Of Death Undetermined

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) - An autopsy failed to determine the cause of death of an 88-year-old Oklahoma man who was left tied to a bench in a local life of exposure, an FBI spokesman Wednesday.

The man, identified as James E. Brown, was found dead outside the Oklahoma County Courthouse late Tuesday evening.

FBI spokesman John Warrister said the man's death was being investigated as a possible arson.

An identity check was made, but no further information was available.

Warrister said the man's death was not being investigated as a possible homicide.

Lawmakers Go Home To Await Tax Appeal

By Harry Culver

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) - Oklahoma's Legislature resumed regular business Tuesday as the state's Supreme Court heard arguments in a case that could decide the fate of the state income tax law.

The Senate and House adopted a general conference resolution Saturday that would allow the state's Supreme Court to hear arguments in the case.

The court has agreed to the state's request to hear arguments in the case.

The case, State v. Taxpayers, involves a constitutional challenge to the state's income tax law.

The court has agreed to hear arguments in the case.

Judges Say Ake Insane

EL SEGNO, Calif. (UPI) - A district judge Thursday ruled Ake Bates, an 18-year-old man who killed his father, is mentally incompetent to stand trial.

Judge John G. Hildes declared Bates ineligible to stand trial because he is currently suffering from a mental illness.

Bates, who shot his father to death, was ordered committed to a state hospital for further evaluation.

Testimony indicated Wright was beaten to death with a stick and club and had been subjected to prolonged abuse.

Wright was found dead in his home with multiple injuries, including broken bones and internal bleeding.

The trial is expected to last several more weeks, with testimony from family members and friends of the victim.
Carter To Take Action?

By Peter B. Wetherby STERLING, Colo. (UPI)— President Carter threatened to call in National Guard troops to keep American students at the University of Missouri from being expelled and returned to Missouri if they will not leave the campus.

The U.S. Supreme Court said it would hear the case of non-registered student Douglass D. O'Sullivan of Sterling, Colo., who was suspended from the University of Missouri because he was a non-registered student.

O'Sullivan is a non-registered student who has been suspended from the University of Missouri because he is a non-registered student.

Saddat Wants Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat told the United Nations General Assembly today that Israel must withdraw from the occupied territories and accept a settlement similar to the one reached in 1967.

Sadat's speech was the first time a U.S. president has called for the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Israel.

Sadat's comments came in response to Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin's call for a "united" Middle East.

Sadat's speech was met with a standing ovation by the UN delegates, who applauded the Egyptian leader's call for peace.

Castration Bill Tabled

OKLAHOMA CITY — A bill to give a 10 percent cut in the state budget for the next fiscal year was tabled in the Oklahoma House on Monday.

The bill, which was introduced by Rep. John E. Davis, would have cut the state budget by $200 million for the next fiscal year.

Davis said the cuts were necessary because of the state's financial problems.

Malpractice Charged

OMAHA, Neb. — An Omaha doctor has been charged with medical malpractice.

Dr. John D. Anderson, who was once a popular doctor in the area, has been charged with performing unnecessary surgery.

Anderson is accused of performing a plastic surgery procedure on a patient who had no medical need for it.

Anderson's trial is scheduled to begin next month.

Petition Signed

OKLAHOMA CITY — A petition to recall Oklahoma Governor David Boren was signed by more than 100,000 residents.

The petition, which was submitted to the Oklahoma Secretary of State, calls for the recall of Governor Boren.

Boren has been facing criticism for his handling of the state's budget

Sex Trials Ordered

OKLAHOMA CITY — The Oklahoma Supreme Court has ordered sex trials for two men accused of raping a 12-year-old girl.

The court ruled that the men must face sexual assault charges.

The case involved a teenage girl who was raped when she was 12 years old.

The trial is scheduled to begin next month.
Auto Layoffs Remain High

DEADLINE (Oklahoma City) — Nearly $30 million in layoffs and other cutbacks will plague the nation's largest newspaper publisher, The Oklahoman, as it struggles to weather the economic downturn.

The newspaper, which is owned by Gannett Co. Inc., said it will cut its workforce by 25 percent, or about 800 employees. The layoffs will affect all areas of the company, including newsroom, advertising and operations.

The Oklahoman, which is the state's largest daily, said the layoffs are necessary to reduce costs and improve profitability. The paper's circulation has declined by 15 percent in the past year, and advertising revenue has fallen by 20 percent.

The newspaper's parent company, Gannett, said it also plans to cut its workforce by 25 percent, or about 460 employees, across its other newspapers. Gannett said the layoffs will affect all areas of the company, including newsroom, advertising and operations.

The Oklahoman and Gannett are among the nation's largest newspaper publishers, with combined circulation of more than 3 million.

Carter Says Charges Ridiculous

WASHINGIOTN (UPI) — President Carter said Sunday the allegations of conflict of interest and impropriety in his administration are "ridiculous" and "false." Carter, speaking at a press conference, denied any wrongdoing on his part.

The allegations, which have been circulating in recent months, have centered on the appointment of a former aide, Juanita Broaddrick, as a special assistant to the president. The appointment has been characterized as a conflict of interest because Broaddrick was a former employee of the White House.

Carter said he was surprised by the allegations and that he had not been aware of any improprieties.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A New York Medical Center study has found that people with low blood sugar levels have a higher risk of developing heart disease.

The study, which was published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, found that people with low blood sugar levels have a 50 percent higher risk of developing heart disease than people with normal blood sugar levels.

The study, which was conducted over a period of three years, included more than 20,000 people.

Amarillo Fire Kills Man

 Amarillo Fire Kills Man

DEADLINE (Amarillo, Texas) — A man died in a fire early Sunday morning.

The fire, which started in the early hours of the morning, destroyed a home in the city's north side.

The cause of the fire is under investigation, but authorities said it appeared to be accidental.

The man, who was identified as John Doe, died at the scene of the fire.

Dollar Drops

The US dollar continued to decline Tuesday, falling to a new low for the year against the yen. The dollar was down 0.5 percent against the yen, to 120 yen per dollar.

The dollar's decline was attributed to a decline in US interest rates, which made the dollar less attractive to foreign investors.

The dollar had been strong earlier in the year, but has been declining since then due to the US economic slowdown. The dollar has fallen from a high of 140 yen per dollar in January to its current level.

Carter Finally Running Out Of Patience In Iran

By Robert Thomas

In Washington, President Carter's patience is wearing thin as he faces mounting pressure to take stronger action against Iran.

Carter had hoped that the negotiations would lead to a peaceful resolution of the crisis, but the talks have made little progress. The Iranian government continues to refuse to comply with the demands of the United Nations Security Council.

While Carter has not ruled out military action, he has expressed a desire to avoid confrontation if possible. However, he has also made it clear that the situation is becoming increasingly tense.

In response to the growing pressure, Carter has threatened to take strong measures if Iran does not comply with the demands of the Security Council. This has raised concerns about the possibility of a military conflict.

Carter's administration is working closely with its allies to coordinate any potential military action. The United States has been joined by other nations in calling for a diplomatic solution to the crisis.

In the meantime, the situation remains fluid, and Carter's patience is being tested. The president is under pressure to act, but he is also aware of the risks involved in military intervention.

East Under Water, Mud

United Press International

Our reporter, John Smith, has just returned from a visit to East Under Water, a small town in the region affected by the recent floods. Smith reports that the town is still struggling to recover from the disaster.

East Under Water, a small town in the region affected by the recent floods, is still struggling to recover from the disaster. The town is located in the United States, in the state of [state name].

The floods hit the town on [date], causing widespread damage and forcing many residents to evacuate. Since then, the town has been working to repair the damage and get back on its feet.

Smith reports that the town is facing a number of challenges as it recovers. The primary issue is water, which is still a major concern. The town has been without clean water for several weeks, and many residents are relying on bottled water.

Another issue is mud. The floods left a layer of mud over much of the town, and it is still a significant problem. The mud is difficult to remove, and it is causing damage to homes and infrastructure.

Despite the challenges, the residents of East Under Water are determined to rebuild. They are working hard to get their lives back on track, and they are receiving support from the community and the government.

Smith notes that the town is making progress, but there is still a long way to go. The residents are grateful for the help they are receiving, but they are also determined to take care of their own needs.

East Under Water is working hard to recover from the disaster, and it is a story of resilience in the face of adversity.
Transit Strike Dragging On

NEW YORK - Transit officials continued to demand that the union representing drivers, conductors, and other workers also accept wage and benefit cuts aimed at resolving the bitter transit strike. "We are ready to talk," said a transit official. "We are ready to negotiate." But the union leader responded, "We are not ready to talk." The strike has now entered its seventh week, with no end in sight. Passengers are reporting delays and service disruptions, causing frustration and inconvenience. "The strike is having a serious impact on our lives," said a commuter. "We are tired of waiting." The union and the transit officials are facing a deadline of next week to resolve the dispute. If an agreement cannot be reached, the strike will continue indefinitely.

Lance Defense Begins

ATLANTA - The defense opened its case in the trial of Lance, a former soldier accused of murder. Lance is charged with the shooting of a fellow soldier during a training exercise in 2020. Defense attorneys argued that Lance was acting in self-defense and was attempting to save other soldiers from potential harm. The prosecution countered that Lance had a clear view of the target and should have been able to avoid the shooting. The trial is expected to last several weeks, with testimony from eyewitnesses and forensic experts.

Harassment Charged

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — A former employee has filed a lawsuit against a Tallahassee hotel, alleging that she was subjected to a hostile work environment due to her race and gender. The employee said she was the subject of constant harassment and was eventually forced to resign. The hotel denies the allegations and countersued, arguing that the employee was not a credible witness. The case is expected to go to trial in the coming months.

FBI Finds Weapons

MILWAUKEE — The FBI has found a large cache of weapons in a Milwaukee home, including guns and ammunition. The search was conducted as part of an investigation into a local gang that has been involved in several violent incidents. The police have arrested three suspects and are looking for two others. The operation was successful and resulted in the seizure of several firearms.

War Games Start

WASHINGTON — The U.S. military has started war games in the Middle East, with a focus on preparedness for potential conflicts. The games involve simulated attacks on U.S. forces and will test the readiness of the military. This comes as tensions with Iran continue to escalate, with the possibility of a conflict on the horizon.

Britain’s ‘Odd Couple’ Is Still A Hot Item

LONDON — A recently released memoir by an ‘odd couple’ has become a bestseller. The memoir, titled “The Odd Couple,” details the couple’s unique relationship and the challenges they faced together. The memoir has been praised for its honesty and wit, and the couple has become something of an internet sensation. The couple is planning to go on a book tour to promote the memoir.

Interest Rates May Cut Construction Jobs

WASHINGTON — A rise in interest rates is expected to cut construction jobs in the coming months. The Federal Reserve has raised interest rates several times, leading to concerns about the impact on the housing market. The rise in rates could make it more expensive for homebuyers to finance new homes, potentially leading to a slowdown in the construction industry.

Anderson Not Giving Up On GOP

WASHINGTON — Former South Carolina Gov. Mark Sanford has not given up on his efforts to challenge President Donald Trump within the Republican Party. Sanford has been critical of Trump’s leadership and has called for a more moderate approach. "I am not going to be silent," Sanford said. "I am going to stand up for what I believe is right." Sanford is set to announce his presidential bid in the near future.

If Reagan Wins, He Has Bush Support

WASHINGTON — Former President George H.W. Bush has not explicitly endorsed his son, former Vice President George W. Bush, for the presidency. However, Bush has expressed support for Bush's campaign, saying that he believes Bush is "the right choice" for the country. Bush is expected to officially endorse Bush in the coming weeks.

Cancer Victims Face Discrimination

WASHINGTON — Cancer victims face discrimination in the workplace, with many employers denying them reasonable accommodations. This has led to a lawsuit being filed against a major corporation. The corporation has denied the allegations and has countersued, arguing that the employees should have found alternative employment. The case is expected to go to trial in the coming months.

Therapy Is Risky

TAMPA, Fla. — A Tampa psychologist has been accused of sexual misconduct with a patient. The psychologist, Dr. Jason Smith, has a large practice and has treated many patients over the years. Smith has denied the allegations and has countersued, arguing that the patient is not a credible witness. The case is expected to go to trial in the coming months.

Buses Bring Elderly, Frugal To Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP)—There are so many old ladies at the casinos you'd think they'd want it nice and cool—right?—was the reaction on the Jersey shore.

"If it got too hot, an angle-shooting, half-smoker might go down to the bus stop and catch the next one to go home," said one elderly lady, "a bus trip is half the fun of it."

You'd want to go to the beach, but the weather's not too bad."

"Old ladies don't want to get too hot," said the operator of the bus going to Atlantic City.

One of the passengers from the bus was Mrs. Martha H. Martin, 80, of Elizabeth, N.J.

"I like the weather, it's not too hot," she said. "I like the noise, it's not too loud."

When the bus arrived at the boardwalk, Mrs. Martin was one of the first to get off. She said she'd been to the boardwalk before and that she liked it.

"I like the noise, it's not too loud," she said. "I like the weather, it's not too hot."
Bing's boy Harry finding his own direction

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Harry Lila Crosby III, Bing's son who was not a chip off the old block, is on the making of a career in stage and films. The 18-year-old Harry has been a junior college student for four years, but is now concentrating on his profession.

Harry has a knack for doing things on his own, and his ability to do so has been recognized by film historians. His first screen appearance was in a minor role in a 1938 film, and since then he has worked steadily on both stage and screen.

Harry's first love is the stage, and he has appeared in several productions. His latest role is in a new play that is currently in rehearsal.

He is also involved in film production, and has worked on several projects. His latest film is due to be released next month.

Harry's father, Bing, is one of the most successful actors of all time, and his influence is evident in his son's work. Harry is determined to make his own mark in the industry, and is not content to follow in his father's footsteps.

Newman, Bisset in last of the biggies

By Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "When Time Ran Out," a new film starring Newman and Bisset, may be the last successful international action film made. The success of the film is due to the chemistry between Newman and Bisset, as well as the action sequences.

The film centers around a group of international agents who are forced to work together to save the world from a deadly virus.

Newman and Bisset are the stars of the film, and their chemistry is evident on screen. Newman plays the role of a tough but compassionate agent, while Bisset plays the role of a brilliant but calculating agent.

The action sequences are intense and exciting, and are sure to thrill audiences. The film is set to be released next month, and is expected to be a box office hit.

A rose by any other name...

By Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Rose," a new film by Michael Schumacher, is a story of a rose that grows in a pot on a windowsill. The rose is loved by a young girl, who is never able to fully experience its beauty.

As the film progresses, the rose begins to wither and die. The girl realizes that she must learn to appreciate the beauty of the rose while it is still alive, and begins to cherish every moment.

The film is a poignant reminder that life is precious, and that we must learn to appreciate the beauty around us.

Held over again...

By Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Held Over Again," a new film by director David R. Taylor, is a sequel to the popular film "The Held Over." The film follows the lives of the main characters as they face new challenges and try to keep their lives together.

The film is set in a small town, and is a heart-warming story of hope and resilience.

It is due to be released next month, and is expected to be a box office hit.

Spanish art: Alive and burning

By Norman Nadel

NEW YORK (Via AP) — At last week's preview of the work of Spain's living artists, the brutally reproductive regime of the late and solemnly dedicated Communist Francisco Franco was left behind.

The artists are all in their late 30s and 40s and their works are an expression of liberation from the year of isolation. But here there were two Spanish passions: they burned fiercely.

It has been a surprisingly galling moment, especially the Museum of Modern Art's show of "The Spanish Painting Group," here in New York in 20 years ago. And a few very Spanish artists, such as recordatorio Edward Cella, have gotten openings. In 1957 he opened the Graham Foundation's premiere of the art of the Group Nine, one of the Carriagio di Paris International Exhibitions of Contem:-

I regard it as a cornerstone of my small motor sport library.

In the afterword, South Africa, must know what he is talking about. And for the aficionado to the car races this book, edited by Maurice Hamilton and published by Poulter, must be of great help because of its attention to detail in the form and for me, it will make even better reading in the years to come when I’ve drifted from motor racing. I regard it as a cornerstone of my small motor sport library.
