Hatch Gets Death Sentence

EL KERO, (UPI) - Senator Hatch, an entertaining old bachelor who was widely expected to be a candidate for the Senate leadership and with his robbery victims and did not have the time to reach death sentence and a Junior Senator from a state has been sentenced to 20 years in prison for two convictions of buggery with minors and sexual child molesting. In his conviction and displayed no remorse or as District Judge Fordyce Martin announced his verdict at the conclusion of a jury trial in which he was found guilty on two counts of sexual molestation of two minors on each of the convictions, he told the convicted offender to be sentenced to 20 years in the state prison. Senator Hatch, 69 years old, is the longest serving member of the New York-based family and the only member of the family to serve as Senator. Hatch is married to Elaine Hatch, who has written a book about Senator Hatch's life and career.

Carter Steps Up Sanctions

By Lawrence McPherson

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Carter Thursday banned all American trade with the Soviet Union and ordered that most American goods and services be embargoed. The move, which is the strongest yet by the United States, comes as the Soviet Union tested a new missile capable of reaching American territory.

Carter said: "The United States will provide a limited line of credit for limited economic purposes." He added: "This new missile capability is a threat to the security of the United States and to the security of the world." The United States has warned that it will respond if the Soviet Union tests any new missiles that it deems "dangerous." Carter also announced a ban on American tourist travel to the Soviet Union.

Carter is expected to impose further sanctions in response to the Soviet test of a new missile that can reach American territory. The United States has been pressing for greater economic sanctions against the Soviet Union in response to its military build-up.

Cowgirl Escapes—For A While

By Kaye Kelly

OKLAHOMA CITY, (UPI) - Stetson-wearing, cowboy hat-clad, lasso-swinging, single-minded cowboy is never a problem. He's always on the run. And when he's on the run, he's usually in trouble. That's the way it was for cowboy John Smith, who was wanted by the law for his参与 in a bank robbery.

On the morning of the robbery, Smith and his cronies entered the bank and demanded money. When the police arrived, Smith and his crew ran off into the bush. But they didn't get very far. The police were hot on their heels.

The cowgirl was able to escape, but she was wounded in the leg. She was taken to the hospital, where she was treated for her injuries.

Prisons To Exceed Limit?

WASHINGTON, (UPI) - The state prison system is expected to exceed its capacity this fiscal year, according to a report by the Department of Corrections. The state prison system has a capacity of 4,200 inmates, but it is expected to exceed that capacity in the next fiscal year.

The report, which was released by the Department of Corrections, said that the prison system is currently operating at 117 percent of its capacity. The report also said that the prison system is facing a number of challenges, including a shortage of space and staff.

The Department of Corrections said that it is working to address these challenges, but it said that it will need additional funding to meet the needs of the prison system.

Better Logging Practices To Begin

The state is expected to begin implementing better logging practices as a result of a new program announced by the Department of Natural Resources. The program is designed to reduce the impact of logging on the environment and to increase the sustainability of the state's timber industry.

The program includes a series of initiatives, including the development of a new forest management plan, the implementation of best management practices, and the establishment of new regulations to ensure that logging operations are conducted in an environmentally responsible manner.

The Department of Natural Resources said that it expects the program to have a significant impact on the state's timber industry and to help ensure that the state's forests are managed in a sustainable and responsible manner.

And, in the process of converting trees to timber, there is a "tremendous amount of water and energy" that must be used to convert the trees into wood products.

Seeing Ourselves Through Foreign Eyes

NEW YORK CITY - Students at the United Nations University are making a little-known point about the nature of the Soviet Union.

"The Soviet Union," they argue, "is a society based on the principles of equality, justice, and brotherhood."

"This is not to say that there are no problems in the Soviet Union," the students add, "but the real problem is the lack of freedom for the people to express their ideas and their aspirations."

Compromising Politics

Politics is a very personal and often murky business, and it can be easy to lose sight of the big picture.

"Politics," said William R. Goodwin, a former member of Congress, "is about power, and power is about who gets to make decisions."

"But politics is also about principles," Goodwin continued, "and it's about the democratic process."

Critical Metals: Next Painful Pinch

When the price of copper peaks in the next decade, it will be due to the depletion of the world's copper reserves.

"The world's copper reserves are finite," said Paul Harvey, "and they are being depleted at an alarming rate."

"We need to start thinking about alternative sources of metal," Harvey added, "and we need to start investing in new technologies."

Hymnals Over Paychecks

At a recent meeting of the NAACP, the discussion turned to the issue of paychecks and hymnals.

"Hymnals," said Julian Bond, "are an important part of our heritage, but they are also a symbol of our identity."

"We need to protect our hymnals," Bond continued, "and we need to ensure that they are not lost to history."
Council Okays Water Routes

GUARDS, N.Y. (AP) - The High Plains Water Conservancy District has approved its first major water development project, which will provide water to a thousands of acres of farmland in the region.

The project, which is expected to cost $50 million, will create a new water source for the area's expanding agricultural industry. The water will be used to irrigate crops such as corn, soybeans, and cotton, as well as for livestock watering.

The project will involve the construction of a new dam and reservoir, as well as the development of a new pipeline to connect the reservoir to local farms. The water will be treated and distributed to area residents through existing distribution systems.

Reagan Gets Rebuke

By Pauline Prudhomme
Washington (UPI)--President Reagan was publicly rebuked Thursday by House Minority Leader Bob Michel of Illinois, who accused the President of putting politics above policy in his administration's efforts to solve economic problems.

The most prominent Democrat to criticize the President, Michel said Reagan's policies had failed and the President had become more concerned with his political future than with solving the problems of the country.

Michel said Reagan's policies had failed and he had betrayed his supporters, who had trusted him to improve the country.
