Student Shuffling Pondered

By Martin Cook

When the Oklahoma City school board meets in a special session Wednesday the pressure will be on for the group to transfer some 30,000 students from overcrowded schools. The board will be faced with 13,000 students whose programs cannot be accommodated in the present school buildings and two other plans have been recommended to the board but not acted upon.

One plan places the burden of transfer on students. The other plan is to move five waves of transfer each day in an attempt to keep the black and white students from bouncing against each other.

The second plan favored by the administrator, J.S. Dieterling, is that five waves of transfer would be moved from the white schools to the black schools and vice versa.

Dieterling said the transfer would be made more efficient by having a black student transfer to a white school and vice versa.

The third plan is the only one that would be acceptable to the board.

The board operators have stated they would resist any changes that don't go along with a county plan of PITTSBURGH (AP) — Late only showing is an admission fee for the Westmoreland County Playhouse, which is to open its season Saturday night at the playhouse in Greensburg.

While the Democratic National Committee and the White House are still in the process of selecting convention sites for the party's convention, which will be held in October, the committee has asked the town of Greensburg to host the event.

The town council has accepted the request, and plans to hold the convention on a site adjacent to the Greensburg Convention and Visitors Bureau, which is located on Third Street.

Several other sites are under consideration, including the Westmoreland County Fairgrounds in Greensburg, the Westmoreland County Airport in Greensburg, and the Westmoreland County Recreation Center in Greensburg.

The primary site for the convention was chosen after a lengthy review of the various options, which included site selection criteria such as proximity to the airport, accessibility, and availability of meeting space.

The Westmoreland County Playhouse in Greensburg was selected as the primary site because it is located within walking distance of the airport, and it has a large capacity for seating and a well-equipped stage.

The convention will be held on October 27 and 28, and will feature keynote speeches, panel discussions, and workshops on a variety of topics related to the Democratic Party, including the economy, healthcare, and foreign policy.

The event is expected to draw thousands of attendees, and will provide an opportunity for Democratic candidates to connect with voters and gain support for their campaigns.

Oklahoma City — The Oklahoma City Public Schools have announced plans to eliminate all teachers and administrative staff from the district's schools.

The district has been facing financial difficulties in recent years, and officials say the plan is necessary to ensure the long-term viability of the schools.

"We are facing unprecedented challenges," said Superintendent Robert Anderson. "We have been working hard to find solutions, and this is the only way we can ensure the future of our schools.

"We understand that this decision will be difficult for everyone involved, but we believe it is necessary to protect the education of our students.

"We will be offering generous severance packages to all of our current employees, and we will be working with state officials to help find new employment for them.

Sports

TUESDAY, APRIL 22, 1980

The University of Oklahoma baseball team won a thrilling game against the University of Texas, 8-5. The Sooners took an early lead and never looked back, despite a strong comeback attempt by the Longhorns in the late innings. The game was filled with dramatic moments, including a bases-loaded walk in the top of the 9th inning. Oklahoma's pitcher, Smith, pitched a strong game, allowing only five runs on seven hits. The win improved Oklahoma's record to 25-10, while Texas fell to 24-11.

Women's Marathon Results Questioned

BOSTON (AP) - A British runner wondered why she wasn't on the medal podium of the Boston Marathon. "I don't know if I'm here," said the woman, who was not identified. "I've never been here before." She was one of three women who crossed the finish line of the Boston Marathon on Monday, and she was wearing a red shirt and black shorts.

The British runner, who was among the top 10 finishers in the women's division, said she was disappointed that she didn't win the race. "I was supposed to be first, and I was fourth," she said. "I thought I was going to win." She then added, "I'm still trying to figure out what happened." The British runner said she was wearing a号码 1223, and she was wearing a red shirt and black shorts.

The other two women who crossed the finish line were wearing black shirts and shorts. They were both wearing号码 23 and 25, respectively. They said they were happy to be finished, but they were not happy with the result.
