Hart Attorney Made
No Deal For Testimony

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Attorney General John W. Hart, Jr. said yesterday that he was considering a deal with the Senate Ethics Committee to provide evidence of wrongdoing by the late Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia in return for testimony by Byrd's former chief of staff, Bill Allen. Hart, in a statement to reporters, said he was weighing the possibility of providing evidence to the committee as a way to secure Allen's cooperation. Hart said the decision would be made in consultation with his legal team.

Securities Commission Shuts Down Firms

The Securities and Exchange Commission announced yesterday that it had ordered the dissolution of two firms accused of engaging in illegal activities. The commission said it had evidence that the firms had engaged in fraudulent practices, including the manipulation of stock prices and the sale of unregistered securities. The firms, which were located in New York and Los Angeles, had been operating for several years and had a combined value of over $1 billion.

Report Says Race Winner To Be Disqualified

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Marathon has been thrown into chaos after a report was released that the winner of the race, a runner from Uganda, had failed a drug test. The report, which was published in a local newspaper, claimed that the runner had used performance-enhancing drugs. The Boston Athletic Association, which organizes the marathon, said it was investigating the report and that a decision on disqualification would be made in the coming days.

Workers Shorted $65 Million

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Department of Labor announced today that it had reached a settlement with a major corporation that had shorted its workers $65 million. The corporation, which operates in several states, had been accused of violating federal wage and hour laws. As part of the settlement, the company agreed to pay back the money owed to its employees and to implement new policies to prevent similar violations in the future.

Error May Blind Babies

TEKESSEL, N.D. — The North Dakota Department of Health announced today that a medical error may have caused eye damage to several infants in the state. The department said that the error, which occurred during a routine examination, may have resulted in retinal damage in some of the infants. The department is investigating the incident and has contacted the affected families.

Probe Of KOCO 'Process' Sought

SPOKANE, Wash. — The Washington State Attorney General has been asked to investigate a complaint that the KOCO network has been violating state law by failing to adequately protect the privacy of its employees. The complaint, filed by a former employee, alleges that the network has not taken adequate steps to protect the personal information of its employees.

Alcohol Fuel Of Future

Dear Editor:

I have been reading recent articles about the potential of alcohol as a fuel source, and I am impressed by the possibilities. While there are certainly challenges to overcome, the potential benefits are significant. I believe that we should pursue this option as a way to reduce our reliance on fossil fuels.

Mafia Men May Look Legit, But They Are Still Hoods

WASHINGTON - In the past few weeks, the media has been filled with stories about the mob. The public has been told that these men are legitimate businessmen, but the reality is that they are still hoodlums. They use their power and influence to further their own interests, and they do so without regard for the consequences.

Our intelligent, hard-working citizens deserve better. They deserve a government that works for them, not for the mob. It is time for us to stand up and demand change. We cannot allow these men to continue to operate in our society.

DJI Climbs 7 Points

NEW YORK (AP) — DJI, the global leader in commercial drones, announced today that its stock price has climbed 7 points in the past week. This is due to the company's recent expansion into the consumer market with the release of several new models. DJI's CEO, John Wang, attributed the increase to the growing demand for drones in both the commercial and recreational sectors.

The announcement was met with enthusiasm by investors, with many praising DJI's innovative approach to the drone industry. "This is a great day for DJI," said investor Robert Johnson. "Their ability to innovate and adapt to market trends is truly impressive."
Reagan Maintains Carter To Be Hurt

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — Ronald Reagan brushed off John Anderson’s independent candidacy for the presidency by calling the candidate a "worthless threat" to incumbent President Carter than the Republican nominee, and said it probably wouldn’t have a big impact.

"Reagan appeared unperturbed by Anderson’s decision to bolt the Republican race for an independent candidacy," said a Washington official. "He is not taking Anderson seriously, and he sees little possibility that Anderson can move the conservative mainstream back to the Republican party." The official added that Reagan views Anderson as a "worthless threat".

"I think that would be a terrible possibility," Reagan said in a press conference. "He has no chance of winning." The official said Reagan’s comments were a big signal to Anderson’s supporters that he is not taking Anderson seriously.

"In the first instance, I don’t think Mr. Anderson was ever going to have much success in the Republican party," the official said. "The reality is that he is a threat to the Republican party, and he is not going to be able to move the conservative mainstream back to the Republican party."

Kennedy’s Catholic Background Hurts

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Senator Edward Kennedy’s Catholic background has been a major issue in the Democratic primary campaign.

"The Catholic background has been a major issue," said a Democratic official. "We believe that it has been a major issue because the Catholic voters are important to both parties, and they cannot vote for Kennedy today because of his religion." The official added that Kennedy is facing the same issue that haunt his brother, Robert F. Kennedy, who dropped out of the race in 1968 after his assassination.

"Kennedy’s Catholic background has been a major issue," said the official. "It has been a major issue because the Catholic voters are important to both parties, and they cannot vote for Kennedy today because of his religion."

Thieves Burglarize Miss Lilian’s House

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — A burglar burglarized Miss Lilian Carter’s "house" near Plains, but police said Thursday they have no suspects.

"We have no suspects at all," said a police official. "We have no idea who did this." The official added that the burglars took some small items, including a watch and a necklace.

The official said that the burglary is a "House" burglary, and that the thieves may have been looking for money. "We don’t know what they were looking for," the official said. "We have no idea who did this." The official added that the burglars broke into the house through a window.
