Carvings Survive

Some of the most interesting items appearing in the book on Carvings survive from the days of the Civil War and the Spanish-American War. They were found in the attic of the Minnie Heise House, 901 W. Main St., where they were on display until 1933.

Up And Down

That's the way it is when you're 12 and in the middle of a Civil War battle. It's a hard life, but a charming one.

Floor-Care Hints

Dear Welch: I am writing to you because I am interested in floor care. I have a hardwood floor in my living room and I am not sure how to clean it. Can you provide me with some tips on how to clean it properly?

You are correct in your concern for floor care. A well-maintained floor not only looks better but also lasts longer. Here are some tips for cleaning your hardwood floor:

1. Use a vacuum cleaner to remove dust and debris. Be sure to use a brush attachment to reach corners and edges.
2. Avoid using harsh chemicals or abrasive cleaners as they can damage the finish of the wood.
3. Use a mop or microfiber cloth dampened with a mixture of water and a mild all-purpose cleaner. Avoid using too much water, as it can cause the wood to swell or warp.
4. For more stubborn stains, you can use a solution of white vinegar and water. Apply the solution to the stain and let it sit for a few minutes before mopping it up.
5. After cleaning, make sure to use a floor polish to maintain the shine and protect the wood.

Original 'Stews' Nurses First

By William F. Brown

The first group of nurses to serve in the American Civil War were initially called 'Stews.' They were recruited from among the women of the South and were often referred to as 'stew women.' These women were skilled in nursing and were responsible for caring for the wounded and sick soldiers.

Education

Vance Saw Futility In Iran Policies

WASHINGTON — Former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said in a telephone interview that the United States had lost its leverage with the shah of Iran and should ease its demands.

Kissinger said, "We have lost our leverage, that's the plain fact." He added, "There is no point in asking for more. It's better to lower our sights."

Kissinger said that the United States should lower its demands for an end to the shah's human rights abuses and for a more pro-Western foreign policy. He said that the United States should focus on getting the shah to allow the United States to establish a military base in Iran.

Kissinger said that the United States had failed to get the shah to accept its demands because of his unwillingness to compromise and because of the shah's reliance on his own military forces. He said that the United States should accept the shah's refusal to comply with its demands and focus on establishing a military base in Iran.

Kissinger said that the United States was unlikely to achieve its goals by imposing economic sanctions or by military action. He said that the United States should focus on establishing a military base in Iran as a way of gaining leverage with the shah.

Kissinger said that the United States should also focus on other issues that were more important to the United States, such as the war in Vietnam and the war in Afghanistan. He said that the United States should avoid getting involved in the Middle East because it was a "quagmire."
Arabs Free Another Hostage

LONDON (AP) - Arabs in a crowd of more than 200 gathered Saturday night in the central London suburb of Bayswater freed another British hostage, John Holdich, who was kidnapped Friday during a trip to the Middle East. Ancient Pumps Keeping New Orleans Afloat

NEW ORLEANS — In the city where the Mississippi River meets the Gulf of Mexico, the ancient pumps that keep the city dry are in dire need of repair. The pumps, originally built in the 1800s, have been running non-stop since the Great Flood of 1927. With the current surge in water levels, the pumps are struggling to keep up.

The pumps are in a critical state, with some parts worn out and others rusted. A recent assessment found that over 70% of the pumps are beyond repair. The costs of repairing the pumps are estimated at $1 billion, which the city cannot afford.

Mayor LaToya Cantrell has called for federal assistance to repair the pumps, but has been met with resistance from the federal government. The situation has become a political football, with both sides blaming each other for the failure to address the crisis.

Uncommitteds Snap Texas Vote Tailsies

DALLAS — President Carter scored a big victory in the Texas Democratic primary, while his chief rival, Sen. Gary Hart, struggled. Carter won by a wide margin, with over 70% of the vote. Hart, on the other hand, barely made it past the 50% mark.

The results are likely to solidify Carter's position as the front-runner for the Democratic nomination. Hart, who has been struggling to gain traction in the primaries, will need to regroup and come up with a new strategy.

Reagan, Carter Favored Tuesday

Washington, D.C. — President Reagan and Jimmy Carter are expected to be the top contenders in the Tuesday primary. Reagan, who has been leading in the polls, is expected to attract a large number of votes. Carter, on the other hand, is expected to struggle, with many voters switching to Reagan.

In other news, the results of the New York primary were announced, with incumbent Mayor Bill de Blasio winning by a narrow margin. The race was a close one, with de Blasio defeating his opponent by just 2%.

MX Funding Better Spent On Energy?

Washington, D.C. — The debate over the MX-missile has raged for years, with advocates calling for its expansion and opponents calling for its裁撤. The debate has taken on new urgency in light of recent events.

The MX-missile, a nuclear weapon, has been controversial from the start. Its supporters argue that it is necessary to maintain a strong nuclear deterrent. Opponents argue that the money could be better spent on renewable energy or other areas.

Talmadge Airs Personal Problems

ATLANTA — Sen. Zell L. Talmadge, in his first public statement since his divorce, has admitted to struggling with personal issues. Talmadge, a high-profile politician, has been the subject of much speculation in recent weeks.

Talmadge has not addressed the specifics of his personal life, but has said that he is undergoing counseling. The news has come as a shock to many, who had assumed that Talmadge's life was as perfect as his political career.

Wright Survives Early Scare, 8-3

By Marvin Showalter

Wright allowed only one other hit in the game growing early to return to the starting role, and suffered a setback in the seventh inning. He hit a single with a 2.50 ERA in his last start, and that's in the good role. Wright pitch a 7-inning workup of his first three outings, the best of which was a six-decker in the season opener vs. the Mets, when he started toNation's Ballpark.

Connors Begins Fight For No. 1

By Eddie L. Lippin

Connors won his second straight and set a career record with his third save of the season. He is the first pitcher to win his second straight game in a row for the winningest pitcher since 1949. Connors allowed only one hit in the first three innings, and walked none. His ERA is now 4.30. Connors was 4-4 last season, and he is the first pitcher to win his second straight game in a row for the winningest pitcher since 1949.

Velez Belts Four In Twinbill

By Paul J. Durkin

Velez belted four home runs for the second time in a season, tying the team record for the 19th time in a season. He is the first pitcher to win his second straight game in a row for the winningest pitcher since 1949. Velez was 21-8 last season, the same as the Mets, and he is the first pitcher to win his second straight game in a row for the winningest pitcher since 1949.

High Price Of Lumber Will Hit Housing Hard

By Harold Jones, Co.

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLAHOMA - The high price of lumber has been a concern for the construction industry for some time now, and it's not just a local issue. The price of lumber has skyrocketed due to various factors, including supply chain disruptions and increased demand. This has resulted in a significant increase in the cost of building materials, which in turn has impacted the housing market.

Builders and developers are finding it increasingly difficult to absorb these costs, leading to higher home prices for consumers. The situation is particularly challenging for first-time homebuyers, who are already facing higher mortgage rates and other expenses.

The Federal Reserve has been working to combat inflation, and some are speculating that the high price of lumber could be a sign of broader economic pressures. However, the construction industry is urging for a more targeted approach to addressing the issue, rather than simply increasing interest rates.

"The economic conditions are putting added pressure on the housing market," said a spokesperson for the National Association of Home Builders. "We're seeing a slowdown in new construction, and it's inevitable that this will have an impact on the housing market in the coming months."

The high price of lumber is not the only factor affecting the industry. Supply chain disruptions caused by the pandemic have also contributed to the problem. The construction industry is calling for a coordinated effort to address these issues, including increased investment in domestic timber production and efforts to diversify suppliers.

"We're not just looking for short-term solutions," said another spokesperson. "We need a long-term strategy to ensure the stability of the construction industry and the housing market."

For now, builders are facing a difficult reality as they try to keep up with the rising costs of lumber and other materials. The situation is likely to continue to be a concern for the housing market in the months to come.
