GASOLINE FEE HITS MORE SNAPS

OHIOATTOMS CITIES, Ohio—President Carter's lawyers Wednesday launched an unsuccessful legal assault on the former president’s time-gallant gasoline fee and said they might seek a court order to block it, Congress and the public later today.

Grand jury and a hearing were later on in the morning.

The fee, Carter said, was a necessary step to control the growing inflation in gasoline prices. Carter also said he would sign the bill into law if it passed.

The fee would be $0.15 per gallon and would be used to finance new oil terminals.

The fee was opposed by Congress, which had passed bills to block it.

The Supreme Court has already ruled that such a fee would be unconstitutional.

Carter said the fee was essential for the nation's economic health.

Carter also praised his former running mate, Walter Mondale, who had been a strong advocate for the fee.

The fee was approved by a bipartisan majority in Congress.

Dear [Name],

To prevent rust, make sure to wash your car regularly and apply a coat of wax. For removal, use a rust remover and a wire brush to scrub off the rust. You can also use a rust converter primer to prevent future rust. Good luck!

School Office Positions Cut

School Districts Across the Country

School districts across the country are facing budget cuts, which are leading to the reduction of positions. This is happening not only in Oklahoma but also in other states as well.

In Oklahoma City, the school district is considering cutting positions to save money. The district is looking at options such as reducing the number of support staff and administrative positions. This is due to the significant decrease in state funding for education.

In other states, similar cuts are being made. In Texas, for example, the state government has reduced education funding, leading to layoffs and reduced hours for support staff.

Education advocates are concerned about the impact these cuts will have on students. They argue that reducing support staff and administrative positions will lead to a decrease in the quality of education.

In response to these cuts, parents and teachers are calling for increased funding for education. They are also advocating for a state-wide initiative to address the funding crisis in education.

This is an ongoing issue, and we will continue to monitor the situation as it develops.

Right Signals But Wrong Time

WASHINGTON — There are two pieces of good news to report today about the Vietnam war. The first is that the United States has stopped bombing North Vietnam. The second is that we are sending more troops to South Vietnam.

These signals are not as good as they seem. The first is not a signal that the United States is prepared to give up its war on communism.

I more or less took it for granted that I'd be in the Olympics this year, and when I heard that I had qualified, I didn't really think much about it. I just thought, 'OK, I'll go and enjoy myself.'

I've been training for this for a long time, but I didn't really expect to make it to the Olympics. I just wanted to be in shape for the next year's Olympic trials, and I think I've done that.

I'm not looking forward to the Olympic trials, though. I've heard they're tough, and I don't really want to go through that again. I just want to focus on my training and get ready for the next year.

89ers Lose Again, 4-1

Missouri Wins

In the bottom of the ninth inning, Missouri scored two runs to win the game, making the final score 4-1. The Missouri players were very happy with the victory, as they had come close to losing earlier in the game.
