Reds Plan Long Stay In Afghan

By Ray McCarthy

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Devil’s Den is now in rare and active service. The Oklahoma's pink grenade holders and crewmen, in a steady rhythm, kept the red and white, and the white and black, at the station as a potential buyer... "It was very tense and very beautiful. I would have been out at lot," says Jack Kelly, who was"..."

Located just north of Tashkent in southern Afghanistan, the park covers an area of over 100,000 acres of waterfalls, springs, and rock formations, making it an ideal place for hiking and sightseeing. The park's facilities, which include a visitors center, picnic areas, and a campsite, are available to the public.

Nevertheless, a U.S. government official told the Associated Press that there is "no evidence that the Soviets are providing any help to the Afghan people." The official added that "the Soviets have been doing their best to keep the Afghans out of the war." The official's statement comes after weeks of speculation that the Soviet Union was providing military aid to the Afghan government.

The U.S. government has also been providing military aid to the Afghan government, including weapons and training. However, the effectiveness of this aid is questioned by some experts, who argue that it is not enough to defeat the Taliban fighters who are controlling much of the country.

In view of all this, the United States has increased its efforts to assist the Afghan government. The U.S. military has been working closely with the Afghan army to help them achieve their objectives and to prepare them for future international deployments.

The official said that although the Afghan government has made some progress in training its military, it still needs help to achieve its objectives. The official added that the Afghan army is still facing a number of challenges, including a lack of funding and training resources.

Bus No. 4508 Tool Of Death

At Petersburg Fire Department Station No. 1, this 1970 Model Bus was the scene of a fire last Monday night. The fire caused an estimated $20,000 in damage and was the result of a spark from a circuit box. The driver of the bus, who was not identified, was not injured. The fire was reported at 11:30 p.m. by a neighbor who saw smoke coming from the building. The bus was a 1970 Model Bus and was used by the fire department for training purposes. It was believed that the fire was caused by a fault in the electrical system of the bus.

City Shows Off For Citizens

The city of Petersburg showed off its new fire truck, which is the latest addition to the department's fleet. The truck is a 1970 Model Bus and is equipped with the latest in fire-fighting technology. It was displayed to the public during a special event at the fire station.

Hoe Down

A Hoe Down was held at the city hall to celebrate the opening of the new fire station. The event was attended by local officials and community members. A vintage fire truck was on display, and there was music and dancing.

Gas Prices Stabilized

Gas prices in Petersburg have stabilized after rising sharply last week. The average price for regular unleaded gasoline was $3.20 per gallon, compared to $3.40 the week before.

Cubans Die In Capsized Boat

A capsized boat in the Florida Keys claimed the lives of five Cuban refugees. The boat, which was carrying 12 people, sank in rough waters. The Cuban government said it was investigating the incident.

Inmate Dies After Gassing

An inmate at the Petersburg Correctional Institution died after being exposed to a gas leak. The inmate, who was not identified, was found unresponsive in his cell. An investigation is underway to determine the cause of death.

Firefighter Also Arsonist?

A firefighter at the Petersburg Fire Department is under investigation for theft and arson. The employee, who was not identified, was questioned by authorities after a fire was reported in a building owned by the city. The investigation is ongoing.

Journal Names Production Head

The Petersburg Journal has named a new production head. Paul R. Miller Jr. will take over the position, which has been vacant since the previous production head retired. Miller has 20 years of experience in the printing industry.

Chrysler's Losses May Climb Higher

Chrysler Corporation announced that its losses for the third quarter were $300 million, up from $200 million in the second quarter. The company said that the increased losses were due to higher costs and decreased sales.

Missing Child

Katrina Ann Davis, 2 years old, was last seen at her home on Spring Street. Anyone with information is asked to call the police. The child has light brown hair and blue eyes. She is 3 feet tall and weighs 25 pounds.

Restaurant Raters Imperfect Lot

NEW ORLEANS — When you order a dish at a restaurant, you expect to get what you ordered. But sometimes, you don't get what you ordered. That's because restaurant raters are imperfect.

It's easy to see why. Restaurant raters are not always accurate. They may be influenced by factors such as the time of day, the server, or the weather. And they may not be able to taste the dish as it was served.

I have been a restaurant rater for many years, and I have seen firsthand how imperfect they can be. I have seen raters give high marks to dishes that were overcooked, and low marks to dishes that were undercooked.

"Moviola" A Casting Coup

By Norma Scott

Electra's last movie, "Hollywood," was a huge success. The story of a young woman who becomes a successful movie star. The plot involves the ups and downs of a star's life, including the pressures of fame and the struggle to maintain her identity.

The story is based on the life of the late Norma Scott, who was a popular actress in the 1930s and 1940s. The movie was directed by John Ford and starred Paul Muni and Kay Francis.

The story of "Hollywood" is set in the 1930s, a time when Hollywood was at the height of its power. The movie was a huge success, both critically and commercially, and helped to establish Scott as one of the leading actresses of her time.

The movie was released in 1940 and was nominated for several Academy Awards, including Best Picture. Scott was nominated for Best Actress and won an Oscar for her performance. The movie was also nominated for Best Director and Best Screenplay.

Today, "Hollywood" is considered a classic of its time and is often cited as one of the best movies ever made about the Hollywood film industry.

TV Pushing Us Around, Says Schorr

The experienced observer looks at the new technology and the changes it is bringing to the way we watch television. He sees many potential advantages in the use of television, such as the ability to see events as they happen, and the fact that it can be used to create new forms of entertainment. However, he also sees some disadvantages, such as the way that television can be used to manipulate people's emotions.

Schorr suggests that television can be used as a tool of propaganda, and that it can be used to create a sense of national identity. He also worries about the way that television can be used to manipulate people's emotions, and the way that it can be used to control people's opinions.

Schorr believes that television is a powerful tool, and that it is important for people to be aware of its potential. He suggests that people should be more critical of the media, and that they should be more aware of the ways in which television can be used to manipulate people.

Max Coming Out Of Schell

By Bryan Stone

SOUTHERN U.S. (UPI)

Bollywood has learned that Manfred Schell will be acting in a role in the next film to be released in the United States, "The Man Who Could Work Miracles." Schell was the best actor for his age in the film, according to the Academy Awards.

The film, which is set in India, is based on a novel by D. H. Lawrence. Schell was the only actor to play the part of the young man who has the ability to work miracles.

The Soaps: Soapers Take To Road, Boards, Silver Screen

By Nancy M. Harkness

NEW YORK -

There's a lot of talk these days about how the soap operas are revolutionizing the entertainment industry. The soapers have taken to the road, the boards, and the silver screen.

Recently, a soap opera was filmed on location in the desert, and another set in the small town of Bethlehem, Arizona. The soapers are experimenting with different formats and styles, and are looking for new ways to reach their audience.

ABC Will Stick By The Sitcoms

By. Joan Rainer

Vice-President, Western Newspapers

NEW YORK CITY - ABC is said to have come out of the 1991-92 broadcast season with its sitcoms intact. In contrast to NBC's changes in scheduling, ABC did not make any major changes in its sitcoms for the coming fall.

The network's sitcoms, which include "Who's the Boss," "Soap," "Dynasty," and "28" on the Whirlin' Whirligig," are expected to return to their regular timeslots.

ABC is reportedly considering adding a new sitcom, "The Golden Girls," to its lineup. The show, which stars Ellen Burstyn, is currently in development.

FOR BOB BERGLAND, Secretary of Agriculture:
What is your office doing about the vanishing of the buffalo in America? What has been the impact of the American Bison on our wildlife? The American Bison is not in any danger of extinction. However, the American Bison population has declined significantly in recent years due to habitat loss, hunting pressure, and climate change. Efforts are being made to increase the population through conservation programs and reintroduction projects. The American Bison is a keystone species in the Great Plains ecosystem and plays a crucial role in maintaining the health of the ecosystem.

FOR THE "ASK" EDITOR:
I am new to the "Ask" section and I am interested in learning more about the effects of climate change on our planet. Can you provide me with some resources to get started?
Climate change is a complex and multifaceted issue that affects every aspect of life on Earth. There are many resources available to learn more about climate change, including books, websites, and scientific journals. Some notable books include "The Uninhabitable Earth" by David Wallace-Wells and "The Sixth Extinction" by Elizabeth Kolbert. Additionally, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) provides detailed reports on climate change and its impacts.

FOR CORINNE BOGGS, D.C.:
What background should someone have for government work? My goal is to get into a D.C. position. To work in government, it is important to have a strong foundation in public policy, law, and political science. These are critical areas of study that will help you understand the issues and policies that are currently affecting the country. In addition to these academic disciplines, it is essential to have strong communication skills and the ability to work effectively in a team environment.

FOR MIKE DOUGLAS, NBC News:
Some say you're a pain in the neck to deal with. Is there any truth to that? I have worked with Mike Douglas for many years, and he is always professional and courteous. He is a respected journalist and has a reputation for integrity and honesty.

FOR KURT W. HOFF, President of the National Rifle Association:
What is your stance on gun control? The National Rifle Association is committed to protecting the Second Amendment rights of the American people. We believe that citizens have a right to bear arms for self-defense and to protect themselves and their families.

FOR DIANE LADD, actress on CBS-4 TV:
Are you really as hard to work with as your on-screen depictions suggest? I have never received any complaints about my on-screen behavior. As an actress, my goal is to create a believable and authentic performance, and I strive to do so in every role I take on.

FOR MICHAELEA HAYS, executive assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture:
Are you really as hard to work with as your on-screen depictions suggest? I have never received any complaints about my on-screen behavior. As an actress, my goal is to create a believable and authentic performance, and I strive to do so in every role I take on.

FOR PROFESSOR BERNARD EISENHOWER, Harvard Business School:
What is your opinion on the impact of technology on business? Technology has revolutionized the way businesses operate. It has made it easier to connect with customers, streamline operations, and improve efficiency. However, it is important to balance the benefits of technology with the potential risks, such as security threats and job displacement.

FOR DIANA LADD, actress on CBS-4 TV:
Are you really as hard to work with as your on-screen depictions suggest? I have never received any complaints about my on-screen behavior. As an actress, my goal is to create a believable and authentic performance, and I strive to do so in every role I take on.

FOR W. R. KELLOGG, Jr., President of Kellogg's, Inc.:
Have you ever had a bad day? I have had many bad days, just like everyone else. However, I try to maintain a positive attitude and focus on the things that I can control. As a business leader, it is important to be resilient and adaptable in the face of challenges.

FOR JUDY WOODRUFF, NBC News:
How do you maintain your work-life balance? As a journalist, maintaining a work-life balance can be challenging. However, it is important to prioritize your personal time and hobbies. I try to make time for exercise, family, and hobbies, and I also make sure to take vacations to recharge.

FOR MICHAEL E. GARDNER, executive vice president of ABC's News Division:
Do you have a particular moment in your career that you are most proud of? There have been many rewarding moments in my career, but one that stands out is the time I covered the Space Shuttle Challenger disaster. It was a tragic event, but it also highlighted the importance of technology and the need for safety in space exploration.

FOR SADIE HUSTON, actress on CBS-4 TV:
Are you really as hard to work with as your on-screen depictions suggest? I have never received any complaints about my on-screen behavior. As an actress, my goal is to create a believable and authentic performance, and I strive to do so in every role I take on.

Rooting for the Red Sox: The Agony and the Ecstasy

The Boston Red Sox have had 13 winning seasons in a row — more than any other major league team. But they haven’t won a World Series since 1918, yes, 1918, when a kid pitcher named Babe Ruth overwhelmed the Chicago Cubs.

By Barry Stavro

The Agony: Boston Red Sox fans have had their share of heartbreak. The first was in 1967, when the Sox lost the World Series to the St. Louis Cardinals in seven games. Meanwhile, in 1968 they lost the pennant in a playoff. In 1972 and 1977 they lost the pennant in the last weekend of the season. In 1978 and 1979 they blew leads, and of course, they lose to the Yankees in the ’78 playoffs. Like I say, the lives here are tough.

The Ecstasy: On the other hand, everything would seem to be just right. The Sox won the World Series in 1918 and 1975, the Red Sox have been in the World Series in 13 of the last 15 seasons, including two pennants. And the Red Sox have been in the World Series in 13 of the last 15 seasons, including two pennants. And the Red Sox have been in the World Series in 13 of the last 15 seasons, including two pennants.

So why are Red Sox fans looking for their team to win the World Series? A major part of the Red Sox lore — and their unpredictability — is home to the home game. The Sox have been in the World Series in 13 of the last 15 seasons, including two pennants. And the Red Sox have been in the World Series in 13 of the last 15 seasons, including two pennants.

The Health and Welfare Of Patricia Harris

By L. B. Taylor Jr.

On May 3, two separate social work Government agencies came into existence, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW). They were the Department of Health and Human Services, as far as the Congress of the United States.

President Richard Nixon, in his address at the White House, said, "I am proud to announce that the Department of Health and Human Services has been created. ..."

Former HEW Secretary, Patricia Harris, who has been a prominent figure in the field of social welfare, is one of the new department's leaders. She was appointed as the Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation.

The new department is expected to be an important part of the Government's efforts to provide social services to Americans. It will be responsible for coordinating the activities of the various agencies that provide health and welfare services.

A Guide to (Almost) Gourmet Meals

By Phoebe Cowles

Travel has always presented a special challenge to the gourmet food lover. But a little planning can keep a camper's palate from being frustrated by an array of convenience foods that are available in most supermarkets and fast-food chains along the way. Obviously, the kinds of foods you eat on a camping trip will depend on the length of your stay. If you're camping at a fixed campground and taking along simple foods that you can store in the freezer, your cooking facilities may be limited to the stove top.

Stovetop cooking is a good choice because you can cook in small quantities. But you can also plan your meals to include freeze-dried or dehydrated vegetables and fruits. These products are lightweight and easy to pack, and they can be cooked quickly.

Stove Top Cooking

- One-Pot Meals: Use a pot or a pan to cook one-pot meals such as stews or soups. These meals are easy to prepare and require minimal cleanup.
- Grilled Vegetables: Grilled vegetables are a great option for a quick meal. They're easy to prepare and can be cooked over an open flame or on a camp stove.
- Campfire Cooking: Campfire cooking is a fun way to prepare food. You can grill or roast food directly over the fire, or you can use a Dutch oven or a cast-iron skillet.

Stove Top Cooking

- Wet-Cooked Vegetables: Wet-cooked vegetables, such as stir-fried or sautéed vegetables, are a great option for a quick meal. They're easy to prepare and can be cooked quickly.
- Grilled Meats: Grilled meats are a great option for a quick meal. They're easy to prepare and can be cooked quickly.

1958 FAMLY HOLID, May 10, 1958
What’s New for the 80’s

Americans channeled their environmental concerns toward outdoor recreational activities. One source estimates that, by 1980, there will be 15 to 20 percent more campers than today. There’ll be changes, too, in the way people go camping. Travel trailers and folding campers will be lighter in weight, more aerodynamically styled and easier to tow, while motor homes and trailer-towing vehicles will be significantly more efficient. And while the shapes, sizes and capacities of small recreational vehicles undergo obvious changes, a more dramatic but less obvious transformation will occur at the campsite level. Since a large percentage of the RV’s built in the 1970s will be small units without bathrooms, campground owners will be forced to provide more restroom facilities. In fact, according to Don Lowe, president of the National Association of RV Parks and Campgrounds, campground developers will be required to provide restroom facilities to existing campgrounds. This will include the installation of new septic systems or other waste disposal systems.

Before the end of the decade, a new breed of supercamper will be introduced. The new models will incorporate huge sections of land within a few hours' drive of major metropolitan areas, and they will be designed to provide types of camping experiences to fit every need. Each supercamper will be sectioned into clusters of campers, each cluster with its own set of activities and programs. Facilities will include full recreational and park facilities, and a variety of food and entertainment centers.

The most influential pressures on camping activities in the 1980s will, of course, be related to gasoline costs and fuel supplies. Gasoline prices alone will be enough to force the nation’s RV manufacturers to redesign their vehicles. Those manufacturers who have, within recent months, been building smaller, lighter-weight and more aerodynamic travel trailers and motor homes, and those most efficient units are likely to face the most severe competition. The most expensive units will feature enclosed underbelts that not only lessen wind drag but also provide improved insulation and under-floor space for routing wiring, plumbing, and heat distribution. Motor homes will continue to be built on lightweight chassis and powered by smaller, more efficient engines. More emphasis will be placed on improving the pulling power of rear axles, allowing motorhomes to be more maneuverable. Significant strides will be made in adapting the new, lightweight, V-6 engines to RV use. During the early part of the decade, camping facilities will spend weekends at the beach and vacations close to home in an effort to reduce fuel costs. But as the 1980’s progress, Americans will once again start traveling more extensively with that RV, as they have in the past.

Meanwhile, traditional mini-motor homes in the 20- to 25-foot range and family-size trailers in lengths of 26 to 28 feet will probably be discontinued by most RV manufacturers because they are not fuel-efficient enough for most camping devotees to operate. The more obviously being replaced by low-profile motor homes. The smallest of new travel trailers will weigh less than 2,000 pounds and have hitch weights of between 150 and 200 pounds. (The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that a 10 percent weight reduction can result in a 5 percent improvement in fuel economy.) The coaches will be more aerodynamic, with sloping, wedge-shaped front ends and smoother, streamlined and fuel-efficient units available. For every purchase of Schick blades and every quart of oil you buy, Schick will mail you an instant purchase-price refund, up to 50 cents a quart, in Schick Oil coupons.
CUTTING YOUR CAMPING COSTS

By Ginny Ade

As a camper who has camped ground-based because of seeing gas prices rise, $30-a-night camp hook-ups and electricity, my friends have asked me how to save money on camping costs. There are some ways to make an end run around these obstacles.

Why not consider the money-saving potential of leaving a seasonal site and camping on weekends with a buddy or two? Many people enjoy traveling with their friends while not using expensive campground services. Some individuals have used this idea to share costs with others and enjoy the outdoors without breaking the bank.

One example is a group of friends who share the cost of a campsite near a seasonal site in the Seattle area. They meet on weekends to camp together and split the costs for the site, supplies, and meals. This way, they can enjoy the outdoors without breaking the bank.

FINDING THE BEST CAMPGROUND SITE UNSEEN

By Paula Bronson

Finding a site for your next camping trip doesn't have to be a stressful task. With a little research and planning, you can find the perfect spot for your next adventure. Here are some tips to help you find the best campground site.

1. Determine your camping style: Are you interested in a rugged, nature-oriented experience or do you prefer a more luxurious setting with amenities like hot showers and pools? This will help you narrow down your search.

2. Consider the location: Think about the type of experience you want. Do you want to be close to nature, near a lake or river, or in a more secluded area?

3. Look for reviews: Check out online reviews from other campers who have visited the area. This can give you an idea of what to expect.

4. Budget: Don't overlook the cost of food, fuel, and other expenses when planning your trip. Make sure you have enough money to cover all your needs.

5. Pack appropriately: Bring all the necessary gear, including a tent, sleeping bag, and cooking supplies. Don't forget your sunscreen and insect repellent!

Remember, the best camping trips are those that are planned with care and consideration. With these tips, you'll be well on your way to finding the perfect campground site for your next adventure.
Vantage

The ultimate point in low far taste

Swimwear: Geometrics Are Riding High

Swimsuits for 1980 promises to be the best, and beyond, it’s never been—-in more ways than one.

Color makes a major splash in dramatic new and innovative geometric points, in bold black and white and in all shades of stripes in single and multiple color combinations of the season.

One-piece suits feature necklines that scoop slightly, plunging low or just enough to show the shoulders. And they come in an incredible array of new fabrics and surfaces.

But controversy is stealing the spotlight scene. It’s all in the way one-piece suits are coming off the cutting tables–stripped high-thighs, high-tops as well as there, there and everywhere. More styles are as sleek as second skins, leaving little to the imagination. Where will it all end?

Said Mickey King Holmes, 1972 U.S. Olympic gold medal winner for springboard-diving, "I find no fault with the new daring cuts in swimwear. My husband probably wouldn’t want me wearing a thing one of them, but they do reflect today’s beach and open leisure. She’s also pleased that competitive sports are influencing fashion from sweatsuits to swimsuits.

Free-style swimming champion Shirley Babashoff, also a gold medalist for the U.S. in the 1972 and 1976 Olympics, has some reservations about this new generation of swimwear. "The sleek fit is terrific. When you’re swimming, it really cuts down on the drag. But, she adds, if you can’t buy a quality suit, you may find some swimsuits rise up or pull away—and if they’re not in a deep enough color, they may turn green through the week.

She recalls, lamely, that when the East Germans were the first to show up at the World Championship Games in 1975 in the right swimsuits, "I was scared to death, but they meant an improvement in performance. We all started wearing them."

Designers of today’s innovative new swimwear confirm that there is a more relaxed fashion climate. Leading swimwear designer, Marche Tilly, said, "Swimwear this season looks like it will always be an ever-increasing."

Swimwear designer, who also had a flair for styling, she said: "These dresses are sophisticated, unique, and inexpensive, and in increasing acceptance, is in response to women taking more care of their figures, producing 'better-shaped bodies.'

In a word, a known designer John Wutz, now designing swimwear, couldn’t agree more. "At a time when more women are becoming interested in physical fitness, it is only logical that they are also becoming moreathletic in their bodies. Considering the scanty string bikinis of a few years back, you couldn’t wear them, today’s swimmer is a Hollywood legend.

What can you do to avoid that sinking feeling when you reach the bottom of earth in the fitting room? Here’s how to select the right suit:

1. Be sure to check your back, shoulders and legs to adjust styles that create bulges.

2. If you can’t match thumbs comfortably under straps, try the next-longer size.

3. Do your bottom—fit the same.

4. Make sure your dentures are comfortably in place.

PEOPLE QUIZ / By John E. Gibson

Does the Face Speak Louder Than Words?

TRUE OR FALSE?
1. The way you say a thing — the tone of voice and your facial expressions — is far more important than what you actually say.

2. Almost everyone would like to be judged by others as good-hearted and how you’re seen on the scene — as a benefactor or a scoundrel — is likely to depend on your voice and the way you speak.

3. If you’re trying to impress someone, it’s better to employ an impressive business contact with your companion, your status in society, than to create a situation where you are made to look silly, or lose your temper.

4. You can’t tell whether you’re correct when what you say on their behalf is to show you that you are listening and that you really do understand.

AnswErs
1. True. A study of the Brigham Young University and the National Institute of Education shows that the expression of emotions — whether it’s anger, fear, or sadness — is more effective when it is accompanied by a verbal message.

2. True. According to the National Institute of Education, emotions are more effective when they are accompanied by a verbal message.

3. True. According to the National Institute of Education, emotions are more effective when they are accompanied by a verbal message.

Why Purgatory?

The resource of faith is faith itself, and faith in God. If we believe in God, we have faith.

And if we have faith, we are saved.

Well, then, some will ask, "What is the meaning of faith?" And the answer is:

"Faith in God is the only true faith."

We would like to try to answer these questions, to explore the meaning of faith, to understand the concept of faith, and to study the nature of faith. We would like to explore the idea of faith, and to understand its role in our lives.

Enjoying Mother Nature

Whether your definition of camping means parking a tent in a backpack and setting off across mountain trails or just leisurely meandering around your RV site, 'The Magic of Making (Five Dollar) Backpacks' offers a number of tips on ways to make your camping more comfortable while walking in any environment—city or country. The book also includes recipes, both in this country and abroad, for information about walking vacations.

One advantage of walking, besides the good-for-you exercise, is that you're going at a pace that allows you to look around. And if you're interested in knowing exactly which one...

Vicki Career is a teen-age whose career plans are rolling along just as she'd hoped. Vicki, a Shammville, Ala., high-school sophomore who wants to get into show business, recently won the $2,500 Ladies' Award at the National Rodeo Drift-Skating Contest in Santa Ana, Calif. The 13-year-old Vicki, who's been skating since she was 3, had gone through the competitions to make it to the finals. "But since I practice every day, I'm sure I can compete for the competitors don't mean that much more," she declared in her soft Alabama accent. 'I skate at the local rink here every day after school, thou...

Merit Pre-Empts High Tars!

3 out of 4 smokers choose MERIT over leading high-tar brands in tests comparing taste and tar levels.

There's a low tar cigarette that's challenging high tar smoking—and winning.

The cigarette: MERIT.

High Tars Suffer Setback

Latest research proves smokers actually prefer MERIT over leading high-tar brands.

Blind Taste Test: The tests where brand identity was concealed, a significant majority of smokers rated the taste of low tar MERIT as good as—or better than—leading high-tar brands. Even cigarettes with twice the tar!

Smoker Preference: Among the 95% of smokers stating a preference, the MERIT low tar/good taste combination was favored 3 to 1 over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed.

Long-Term Satisfaction: In the latest survey of former high tar smokers who have switched to MERIT, 9 out of 10 reported they continue to enjoy smoking, are glad they switched, and reported MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

MERIT is the proven taste alternative to high tar smoking.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined that Cigarette Smoking is Dangerous to Your Health.

Kings: 10 1" 0.9, 5 mg nicotine—0.07 0.9. Regular: 10 1.9 0.9 mg nicotine—0.07 0.9 mg nicotine per cigarette. 750. Report Date 7/96.
