Legislature’s Farewell Party ‘Postponed’

By Ray McCarthy

Oklahoma City (UPI) — Oklahoma’s Legislature had all the appearances of a good-by party Thursday, but the feeling that it was a good-by party would be history before sundown.

Legislators were seen pouring bittersweet gifts in traditional adjustment ceremonies on the Senate (Doc., and Geo.-Dale) and House (Doc., Geo.-Dale) floors. The passage of the Senate’s adoption bills was ceremonial in nature and was a symbolic farewell to the Senate. In the House, the final hours of the session were marked by a series of emotional speeches and farewells to colleagues.

The street cheer was delayed on a last-minute technical adjustment that would have delayed the adjournment of the Legislature.

"It was a hundred thousand dollars less, and a hundred thousand dollars more," said one legislator, referring to the financial situation that caused the delay. "It was included in the appropriation bills."

Another legislator called it quits and vowed to return Monday for another try at adjournment.

State Sen. John L. Smith was the last speaker to make a speech when a large number of appropriation bills were still in committee. The Senate adjourned at 4 p.m. and went back into the 4 p.m. session to set the final adjournment bill and close the session.

The House gave final legislative passage to the defender’s receipt bill, which increases the defender’s receipt bill, that increases the retirement benefits 10 percent for the next three years and eliminates the present rate of 6 percent among other improvements.

The final day of the legislature, the House and Senate passed a resolution adding the adjournment date of the legislature to the appropriations committee at the end of the day. The resolution was passed by a vote of 127 to 3.

Declaring the adjournment was unwise, Governor General Pershing submitted a resolution that would have delayed the adjournment 12 weeks. The resolution was defeated by a vote of 127 to 3.

The adjournment was delayed on a last-minute technical adjustment that would have delayed the adjournment of the Legislature.

"This is the wrong way to go to bed," state Sen. John L. Smith was quoted as saying. "We are in a state of emergency, and we must act.

Smith added that the fate of the Senate and House would be decided by the voters, and that they would decide whether or not to continue the session.

The Legislature also passed a bill to send Governor General Pershing to the Senate, but the fate of the Senate and House would be decided by the voters, and that they would decide whether or not to continue the session.

What Caused It All?

What caused it all? The story of the shooting in the city of Oklahoma City is a tale of two worlds: the city of light and the city of shadow.

The shooting occurred in broad daylight, and it was witnessed by many people. The suspect, a young man known as Jack, was seen running away from the scene, but he was quickly apprehended by the police.

The city of light is where the shooting occurred. It is a city of hope and opportunity, where people come together to build a better future.

The city of shadow is where the suspect was raised. It is a city of despair and despair, where people are left to fend for themselves.

What caused it all? It is a question that will linger in the minds of the people of Oklahoma City for years to come.

Stocks Rise Again

NEW YORK (Dow Jones I/B/E/S News) -- Stocks rallied for a second session in a row Wednesday, extending a remarkable month of gains, as Wall Street消化了企业财报和美国联邦储备委员会更为鹰派立场带来的正面消化。

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 190.52 points, or 1.4%, to close at 13,897.60, after moving between 13,720 and 13,940 for most of the day. The market Morgan-Fitzgerald 500-stock index advanced 21.15 points to 1,509.48 and the Nasdaq composite index advanced 27.30 points to 2,546.20.

The gains came despite the strong dollar and a rise in world oil prices. The Dow Jones fell 300 points Tuesday, its steepest one-day drop since the Sept. 11 attacks.

The Nasdaq composite index advanced 27.30 points to 2,546.20.

The S&P 500 advanced 11.39 points to 1,484.25.

Investors appeared to be消化ing the stronger U.S. economy and the Fed's move to raise its benchmark interest rate by a quarter point to 1.25%, from 1%.

"The Fed's move to raise rates isn't the end of the world," said David Loeb, chief investment officer at Focus Financial Group. "I view it as a positive development for the economy and the market in the long term."

"I think the Fed is doing the right thing," said John Franke, chief investment officer at Fairhill Capital Management. "They're going to take the wind out of the momentum."
