ERA Forces Reject Compromise

DEERFIELD (RI) -- Setting the stage for a move to ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment in the Supreme Court, the National Right to Life Committee on Wednesday launched a sweeping, nationwide public education drive to counter the efforts of the 96th Congress to reach a compromise on the ERA that would have added the word 'sex' to the text.

The move came in the wake of the Supreme Court’s decision to vacate the New York state law that had prevented women from marrying in that state. The ERA forces denied the issue to sex discrimination and said that it was an opportunity for women to gain equality.

This week the ERA forces sought to make the decision a focal point of their national campaign. They plan to launch a campaign of public education and publicity to counter the efforts of the 96th Congress to reach a compromise on the ERA that would have added the word 'sex' to the text.
