COUNCIL REQUESTS
GRAND JURY PROBE

By Martin Zook

OKLAHOMA CITY — Members of the city’s Fact Finding Council were unanimous in their demand yesterday for a grand jury probe of the conflict of interest and other allegations that, according to the council, have kept the group from completing its investigation. The council also asked the mayor to resign, saying the city’s mandates are at stake.

The council had been meeting throughout the day to decide on its next move, and it was clear from the beginning that members were divided about what action to take. But by the end of the day, they had reached a consensus on the need for a grand jury probe.

"We’re not going to let this go on any longer," said council member Bill Bagley. "We need to get to the bottom of this and find out what’s really going on.

The council’s demands were met with mixed reactions from the public.

"I think it’s a good move," said one resident. "We need to know what’s going on in the city’s government.

But others were skeptical.

"I don’t know if a grand jury is the answer," said another resident. "We need to look at all our options before making a decision.

The council plans to meet again in the coming weeks to discuss their next steps.

Mount St. Helens Blows Top Again

By Donald E. Mullins

United Press International

Mount St. Helens erupted today for the fourth time in the past two weeks, sending a column of ash and debris 20,000 feet into the sky. The eruption was the most violent since the volcano’s catastrophic May 18 explosion that killed 57 people.

The eruption was first detected by military satellites, which detected a thermal anomaly in the area.

The volcano is the site of a recent eruption, which was the result of a build-up of stress in the magma chamber.

Seismographs recorded a series of earthquakes that preceded the eruption.

The eruption was visible from the air and was also seen from the ground.

The eruption was the result of the buildup of a large amount of magma in the volcano’s magma chamber.

The eruption lasted about 30 minutes, and the ash plume reached a height of about 20,000 feet.

The eruption was accompanied by a strong shock wave that was felt over a wide area.

Several geologists working on the volcano were injured in the early days of the eruption and left the mountain.

Anti-Terrorist Systems Set Off Bombs

By United Press International

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The U.S. anti-terrorist system set off bombs today in an attempt to prevent another terrorist attack.

The system, which uses satellites and radar, detected a threat and activated a series of explosions.

The system has been tested several times, and each time it has successfully stopped a potential attack.

The system is part of a multi-layered defense against terrorism.

Further testing will be required before the system is deployed on a wide scale.

42-Year-Old Mother Registers

By United Press International

NEW YORK—A 42-year-old woman who has raised 11 children registered for the Selective Service last week, according to the Selective Service System.

"I’m not saying I’m going to do anything," said the woman. "But I want to be prepared.

The woman said she wants to be sure that she can contribute to the country’s defense in case of a crisis.

She said she hopes her children will also register.

The Selective Service System is responsible for registering men and women aged between 18 and 25 for possible military service.

The system was established after the end of World War II to ensure that a pool of eligible personnel was maintained in case of a future military conflict.

The Selective Service System is currently in the process of updating its records to reflect the current age range of eligible individuals.

The system is funded by a combination of federal and state funds, and it is managed by the Department of Defense.

Qaddafi’s Dollars A Scandal to Rival Watergate?

WASHINGTON—Some of the gold of 'peace' in the Middle East was

Refunding Also Benefits Small Families, Individuals

DEAR SUPERMARKET SHOPPER

I realize I’m a bit late with this editorial in our June 23, 1979 issue, the date when we were over the hump of the calendar year. But I was so busy with this issue that I didn’t get around to it until now.

I saw a headline in the current edition of the Oklahoma Journal that read, “Refunding Also Benefits Small Families, Individuals.” I thought that was very interesting.

It is my understanding that the refunding process is not only beneficial to large families, but also to small families and individuals. I think this is a great idea.

I hope that this refunding process will continue to be beneficial to all families and individuals.

Sincerely,

Judge Richard
