By Lawrence H Gross

Oklahoma City - Presidential hopeful Sen. Edward Kennedy apparently called at least two Democratic governors, hoping to get more information about an "open"听说过 Democratic convention and month.

Walter Mondale - Gov. George Nigh - told Kennedy he was not interested in an open forum.

Nigh, chairman of Oklahoma's Greenbloom delegation, said Wednesday that he would continue to support Carter at the convention. He said if any of Oklahoma's 43 Carter delegates were to attend the convention, they should withdraw from the delegation.

Nigh said after speaking to Kennedy, he spoke with Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, who said Kennedy also called him. Nigh has said he would not respond to the call from Kennedy, who is currently calling many Democratic governors.

"We talked about 10 minutes," said Nigh, referring to the telephone call he received Tuesday from Kennedy.

The Oklahoma governor and Kennedy did not ask for a meeting, but promised to send Nigh more information about an open convention.

Despite Nigh's loyalty to Carter, he said Wednes-tday that he would continue his support for Carter in Oklahoma if "the spirit of the people" were to take over the convention.

"Obviously, I am in severe trouble," Nigh said. "I'm going to reserve the right at anytime to change my mind (about supporting the president)."

Nigh said he would not rule out a decision to support Kennedy. He also said he would not rule out a decision to support Carter.

The candidate, however, said he would not rule out a decision to support Kennedy. He also said he would not rule out a decision to support Carter.

"I think it's important to have an open convention where the spirit of the people can take over," Nigh said. "But I am not going to make a final decision until I have more information."

Dump Jimmy Movement

The editors at The Journal have joined the Dump Jimmy Movement, which was started by the Oklahoma State Teachers Association last week. The movement is opposed to the re-election of President Jimmy Carter. It is led by the state's teachers, who are unhappy with Carter's policies, including his education reforms and foreign policies.

You promise whatever you didn't do, you won't do it again? OK, I release you in custody of your friends.

Lone Ranger A Jerk?

By Gary Deeb

In a recent radio show, the Lone Ranger was shown to be less than courageous and honor-bound. The character, known for his quickness and heroic deeds, was portrayed as a man who would rather run away from danger than face it head-on. This revelation has left many fans of the character feeling betrayed and disappointed.

Olivia Newton-John Well Aware Of Her Limitations

Camera Watches Volcano

VANCOUVER, B.C. - A television camera mounted on a rock emerging from the main crater of Mount St. Helens to capture images of the volcano was the first to witness the eruption.

A crew of American scientists stationed in the Mount St. Helens area, who were monitoring the activities of the volcano, had set up the camera in the hopes of getting some unique footage of the eruption. The camera was placed on a rock near the main crater and was connected to a monitoring system that would send the images to a nearby station.

The scientists had been monitoring the volcano for several days prior to the eruption, and were aware of the dangers involved. They had set up a network of sensors and cameras to monitor the volcano's activity, but had not expected to witness the eruption.

The camera, which was mounted on a tripod, captured images of the eruption as it occurred. The scientists were able to see the eruption from a distance, and were able to collect valuable data on the event.

Vanuatu: Independent

PORT VILA, Vanuatu (AP) - The New Caledonians, a group of islands located in the South Pacific, were able to achieve independence from France on July 30, 1989.

The New Caledonians have been a part of France for many years, but have been pushing for independence for several decades. The French government has been reluctant to grant independence, but has been under pressure from the New Caledonians.

Taxcut Timing Wrong?

WASHINGTON - The head of the largest bank in the world, who, according to observers in Wall Street, is known for his conservative views, has recently been under fire for his comments on tax cuts.

The bank's CEO, speaking at a conference in New York, said that the tax cuts, which were signed into law by President Bush earlier this year, were a mistake.

The CEO, who is known for his conservative views, said that the tax cuts were a mistake.

"I believe that the tax cuts were a mistake," the CEO said. "I think that they will lead to increased deficits, and will not benefit the American economy."

Mother 'Kidnaps' Daughter Because She Was 'Too Liberal'

By David Dunn

Last week, Mrs. Johnson, a 35-year-old mother of three, was arrested for kidnapping her 15-year-old daughter, Emily. According to police, Mrs. Johnson claimed that Emily was 'too liberal' and refused to raise her in the family's traditional values.

The incident occurred when Mrs. Johnson discovered that Emily had been reading books and articles on civil rights and women's issues. Mrs. Johnson, who is a conservative, said she was appalled by Emily's activities and decided to take action.

She enlisted the help of her husband and other family members to search for Emily. After several days, they finally found her at a local library, where she was reading a book on equal rights.

Mrs. Johnson was charged with kidnapping and taken to the county jail. Emily was returned to her custody.

The Johnsons are currently undergoing counseling to help them navigate their differences. Emily, who has been granted legal custody, is expected to continue her education at a nearby school.

The story has sparked a debate on the merits of raising children with traditional values versus exposing them to a variety of perspectives.
